King Scores Bennett Cabinet On Tariff Increases

This Is Not Time For Big Increase In Tariff, Says King

Liberal Leader, Addressing Commons, Protests Against Bennett Ministry's Course in Asking Parliament to Vote Sweeping Changes to Higher Rates at Brief Special Session.

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—"I wish to protest in the strongest language possible against the time at which the amendments to the customs tariff have been brought down and the circumstances under which they have been introduced," said Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, to-day, when the debate was resumed on the tariff proposals presented in the House of Commons yesterday by Premier Bennett.

As on previous days since the opening of the special session, the galleries were crowded. An interested listener to the debate was Rt. Hon. G. W. Forbes, Prime Minister of New Zealand. Mr. Forbes was furnished with a chair to the right of the Speaker, on the floor of the House.

MOVES AMENDMENT

Mr. King later moved the following amendment to the motion to go into committee of ways and means.

"That all the words after the word 'that' be struck out and the following substituted therefore:

"This House regrets that the Government has seen fit at a special session, called to deal only with unemployment, propose great increases in customs taxation on a wide range of commodities under circumstances which preclude this House and the country from securing adequate information regarding the proposals and prevent proper parliamentary discussion of them.

"In the opinion of this House, the tremendous increases in taxation proposed will not end unemployment, but will inevitably increase the cost of living, and will also increase the cost of production in the primary industries, agriculture, fishing, mining and lumbering, thus making it more difficult for Canadian producers in these industries to meet world competition in marketing their products.

CLOAK USED

The present session, said Mr. King, had been called to deal with unemployment and was an emergency session. That emergency had relation to the Imperial Conference which was to take place in London in a few weeks' time, and the session was summoned in order to enable the Prime Minister to bring in the necessary legislation, which could not be held over until his return or await a regular session of Parliament. The House was not called to amend the customs tariff. To-day, under the cloak of an emergency session, Parliament was being asked to amend the tariff to an extent never before heard of in the history of Canada, and this was being done under the threat that Canada would not be represented at the Imperial Conference unless this legislation was passed by Monday.

This, Mr. King went on, was in the nature of coercion in its most extreme form.

Mr. Bennett had said the Imperial Conference had an important bearing on the solution of the unemployed problem in Canada, so the next thing that would be said was that the opposition had prevented a solution of that problem being found.

RESIST FALSE CLAIMS

"We do not intend to have ourselves subjected to the criticism that we have restricted the government in its plans

SAYS NEXT YACHT CUP RACE TASK FOR SYNDICATES

SIR THOMAS LIPTON

Newport, R.I., Sept. 17.—Sir Thomas Lipton, challenger for the America's Cup without success since 1899, to-day gave up hope of victory in the current series when Shamrock V broke a main halyard, giving the defender Enterprise her third straight victory of the series. At the same time he indicated again he was challenging for the cup this year for the last time.

"It seems Shamrock cannot win," he said as he watched the mainsail float down on the green bodied sloop, ending her sailing for the day less than an hour after the start of the race. He had no idea the race should be sailed over again, and agreed Enterprise had won another contest.

"No single man in England can build a million dollar yacht alone and without that no one can hope to lift the America's Cup," he said. "Hereafter it will have to be syndicate against syndicate."

ILLINOIS IS GOING WET

Chicago, Sept. 17.—George B. Safford, state superintendent of the Anti-saloon League, to-day conceded victory to the wets in the referendum to be held in Illinois in November. The Anti-saloon League, supporting an independent dry candidate for the United States Senate, had previously urged its members to disregard the referendum.

TARIFF PUTS COSTS UP IN EVERY HOME

Victoria Merchants Fail to See How Consumer Will Escape Paying More

Cost of Butter and Meat Will Mount When Bennett Raises Duties

It is inevitable that the new tariff proposals will strike at every home in Canada by increasing the cost of living which had been gradually dropping to pre-war levels during the last five or six years, in the opinion of many business men of Victoria whose opinions were sought this morning on the increased duties before the Federal House.

"Just as butter had dropped to its lowest level in fifteen years it is due for a sudden rise," said one of the leading grocers of the city. He confessed it was hard to understand Premier Bennett's announcement that the cost to the consumer would not be increased with the tariff raised on one of the most common of household commodities.

"People must have butter," he remarked. "If they had to rely on the butter produced in Canada they would starve. We have to import from New Zealand. That is the only butter our stores in British Columbia handle outside of Canadian butter. It is obvious that Mr. Bennett has increased the price of butter eight cents a pound

CUSTOMER MUST PAY

"Regarding the increase in duty on soups and soup tablets," the grocer remarked, "it is very apparent the consumer must pay. Of course they can buy the Canadian product. Opinions may differ as to whether the consumer who insists on a U.S. product ought not to be forced to pay, but the fact remains the consumers do demand U.S. products and under the new tariff their grocery budget must go up."

Another grocer regarded an immediate increase in the price of butter as inevitable, but saw the tariff eventually working out to the advantage of Canada. It would tend to encourage farmers to devote themselves more to dairy farming, especially in view of the poor prices obtained for wheat recently. The experience of the United States would probably be repeated, he thought. Farmers would over-produce. There would be a glut of Canadian butter on the market but in a year or two things would adjust themselves and a reasonable price would be established.

COAL BURNER TEST MAY BE HELD FRIDAY

E. and N. Railway to Operate Experimental Engine This Week

High-grade Island Fuel Causes Redesigning of Spark Arrester

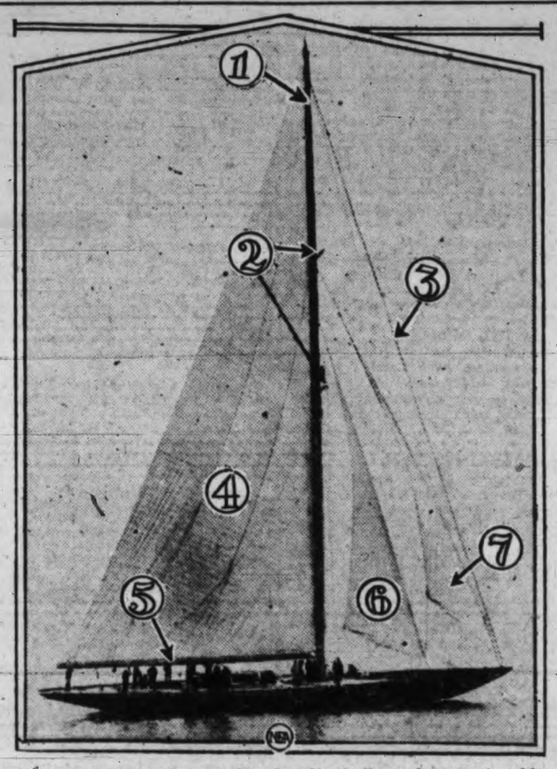
The first coal burning locomotive to run over lines of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway for several years is expected to be operated this week, probably on Friday, when an engine experimentally equipped with the newly devised Brown-Cyclone spark extinguished will be given tests. The trials are being made under the auspices of the coal commission created recently by the Provincial Governmena, and will take place chiefly on portions of the line where heavy grades exist.

J. M. Cameron, manager of the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway, this morning stated that tests had been planned earlier, but adjustments to the special apparatus, to adequately control the highly incandescent cinders created from high-grade Island coal, had taken longer than expected by the experts in charge of the installation of the special equipment on the engine.

"On the Northern Pacific Railway, Cyclone spark arresters apparently have been very satisfactory, but those engines burn lignite coal. The Island coal has fifty per cent greater heating value. Sparks emitted by engines have a vastly longer life and much greater heat intensity," Mr. Cameron said, in explanation of the necessity of redesigning the apparatus.

The results of the experiments will be reported by Mr. Cameron to the coal commission, of which he is a member, and that body will announce the results of the tests, Mr. Cameron said.

Shamrock Lost Mainsail



The above picture of Shamrock V makes clear to those who are not yachtsmen what happened to-day to Shamrock V. No. 4 is the mainsail. It was the line holding that sail aloft that parted, allowing the canvas to flutter down to the deck and making further racing of the sloop impossible till repairs were made. Figure 1 indicates the mast, to which all sails are attached, and Figure 2 shows the spreaders, or braces by which the mast is strengthened by means of the stays. Others are: (3) the forestay; (4) mainsail; (5) main boom; (6) fore staysail; (7) jib. Other sails frequently used are jib topsails of various sizes, set high between the forestay and mast, the large Genoa jib, and the spinnaker, largest of all. The latter, which is used for running before the wind, is used on the side opposite the mainsail and is held straight out in similar fashion by a boom from the mast.

Irish Free State In Canada's Place In League Council

Elected to Post This Dominion Gives Up After Three-year Term; Guatemala and Norway Also Elected Members of Council.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON,
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

Geneva, Sept. 17.—The Irish Free State to-day replaced Canada as a member of the Council of the League of Nations. There were three retiring members of the Council, namely, Cuba, Canada and Finland, and Guatemala, Norway and the Irish Free State were chosen to fill the vacancies.

Canada will not be eligible for re-election to the Council until three years have expired.

The Assembly, as was previously agreed, sent M. Briand's memorandum of May 17, in which he broached the idea of a European federation, to a special committee of representatives of the European states and members of the League for further study and report to the Assembly next year.

This action was taken by unanimous consent, the resolution ordering it being presented by M. Briand himself. This resolution was changed overnight so as to suggest to the committee which may be formed eventually that it may avail itself of collaboration of and nation, including non-members of the League and non-European members.

This of course was considered as opening the possibility later of an invitation to the United States to have a representative on the committee which finally takes M. Briand's memorandum under advisement.

FRANCE MUST SOON IMPORT MUCH WHEAT

New York, Sept. 17.—The New York Times to-day published the following special cable from Paris:

"The wheat crop in France this season will be so poor as to constitute a disaster, according to estimates made by Delphin Destombe, statistician of the Bourse de Commerce, who places the total crop at 56,500,000 quintals. Should this estimate prove accurate, France will be obliged to import 30,000,000 quintals to supply her needs."

NEW ZEALAND PREMIER NOW IS IN OTTAWA

Forbes Will Meet Premier Bennett to Discuss New Trade Treaty

Declines to Comment on Tariff Increases Announced By Bennett

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Conversations looking toward formulation of a new trade agreement between Canada and New Zealand are in prospect following the arrival here early to-day of Premier W. G. Forbes and his official New Zealand party en route to the Imperial Conference in London.

"I have accepted the invitation of the Canadian Government to enter into conversations with a view to arrangement of a new trade agreement," Premier Forbes said, "and I am looking forward to meeting Premier Bennett and his colleagues."

The New Zealand Prime Minister refused to comment on the new tariff proposals announced yesterday in the House of Commons.

WAY OPEN FOR U.S.

Geneva, Sept. 17.—The Assembly of the League of Nations to-day left open a path for the United States to confer and collaborate with the Geneva body in a plan for a federation of European states such as originally suggested by Aristide Briant, French Foreign Minister.

When Lipton Sloop's Sail Falls On Deck Enterprise Goes On and Is Given Race

Committee at Newport, R.I., Does Not Consider Striking To-day's Event From America's Cup Series; Three Credited to Enterprise Now; Shamrock V Ready to Sail Again To-morrow.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 17—Shamrock V will be ready to sail to-morrow, her handlers announced late to-day after making certain that repairs required by the parting of the throat halyard in to-day's race would be a matter of only a few hours.

At the same time, it was officially established Enterprise's sail over the course to-day stood as the defender's third straight triumph. The race committee did not consider any question of throwing the race out, Enterprise having covered the course within the time limit.

U.S.S. Kane, off America's Cup Course, Sept. 17 (by radio to Associated Press)—Enterprise, United States defender, crossed the finish line at 2.33.59 p.m. to-day, scoring a hollow victory in the third of the series of races for the America's Cup.

The Shamrock V lost her mainsail when the halyard parted three-quarters of an hour after the start and did not sail out the course.

Enterprise's time for the thirty-mile windward-leeward course was three hours, fifty-three minutes and fifty-nine seconds, the best time recorded in the three races completed.

The United States sloop now needs only one more victory to assure the retention of the historic old mug on this side of the Atlantic, providing, of course, that to-day's race is declared a contest and the result allowed to stand.

There was quite a fleet of spectator craft gathered at the finish, but the welcome for the white sloop was far from boisterous.

The two racing yachts had covered only about five miles of the course when the accident to Shamrock forced her to drop out. She made an effort to continue the race, but with only her head sails hauling she had no chance to overtake the fast moving United States boat and she shortly gave up the unequal contest. She accepted a tow and started back for Newport Harbor.

The mishap took all interest from the race and only a few boats followed Enterprise around the course.

HALFWAY MARK

Enterprise rounded the halfway mark at 12.54.15 p.m. It had taken her two hours, fourteen minutes and fifteen seconds to complete the fifteen-mile windward leg.

Enterprise broke out her spinnaker and big balooner as she rounded the turn, apparently anxious to take full advantage of every inch of sail she could safely carry and finish the course as soon as possible.

SPRAY OVER DECK

On the windward beat Vanderbilt took in one of his headsails, but the big white sloop continued to foam along, spray flying over her from stem to stern and giving the commodore a good drenching as he stood at the wheel.

BEATTY SEES NEW TRAFFIC OF ISLAND

He and C.P.R. Directors Will Decide If Additional Steamer Service Needed

Party Will Visit Victoria, With Beatty Listed to Address Canadian Club Tuesday

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept 17.—"Our trip around Vancouver Island is with a view to seeing portions of the country we have not hitherto visited," said E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who is a visitor in Vancouver today with a party of leading Canadian business men. "If as a result of this trip, improvements in the service, or additional efforts to increase tourist business to that district seem desirable, the requisite steps will be taken."

Mr. Beatty and his party plan to leave here Thursday evening on a steamer trip around Vancouver Island.

Mr. Beatty, who arrived here yesterday evening, issued a statement to the press, in which he indicated the Canadian Pacific Railway was taking cognizance of the fact that early construction work was required to relieve the unemployment situation, and that such projects would be needed to a far greater degree as winter sets in.

It is with a view to arranging for as much employment as possible, thus co-operating in a large measure in the general appeal of Premier R. B. Bennett that corporations do their utmost to help solve this vital problem, that the railway head is making his annual tour of inspection at this time.

BRANCH LINES

"Shortly after my return to the east I expect to make a statement of the work, including branch line construction, which the company will undertake immediately, in order that unemployment during the coming winter may be relieved," said Mr. Beatty.

Experiment Gets Woman Jail Term

"I don't need to do this sort of thing. It was just an experiment," explained Florence Hodgson, appearing before Magistrate George Jay, in the City Police Court this morning for sentence on two charges of obtaining goods by false pretences.

Two months imprisonment was the term imposed by the court, the accused having previously been given suspended sentence in Vancouver.

She said she had passed several worthless cheques as an experiment because she had been told that her husband, who she said was in jail for six months for the same offence, might have got a lighter sentence if there had been a different magistrate on the bench.

She smiled when the court imposed sentence.

JAPAN TO RATIFY THE NAVAL TREATY

Tokio, Sept. 17.—Opposition to the London naval treaty had dwindled to such an extent to-day it was authoritatively stated the plenary session of the Privy Council October 1 would be expected to recommend the Emperor's ratification without any qualification.

DIAL PHONES TO BE IN USE NOVEMBER 1

Subscribers to Make Own Telephone Connections in Six Weeks

Sixty instructors, explaining the use of the dial telephones, are now visiting all telephone users of Victoria, in preparation for the cut-over to the new system, which it is expected will take place on November 1.

The instructors, known as the Flying Squad, are expected to complete their calls on the 18,000 telephone users within two or three weeks. The squad includes specially trained men and women, a number being permanent members of the telephone staff and the remainder specially engaged and trained for the demonstration. At each call the demonstrators leave a card showing the new number allotted to the subscriber.

The new telephone book is being issued one month earlier than is customary, and will be in the hands of all subscribers well ahead of the cut-over date.

FEW NEED INSTRUCTION

Reports filed by the flying squad indicate that an unexpectedly large percentage of telephone users are already familiar with the method of using dial telephones, visits to nearby cities where the type are in use, combined with the excellent display staged by the Telephone Company at the Willows Exhibition, having been important factors in simplifying the task of the demonstrating squad.

PRIMATE RESTS IN HOSPITAL AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—In order that he may have absolute quietness and rest, Most Rev. S. P. Matheson, Primate of the Church of England in Canada, has been removed to the Ottawa Civic Hospital. It is expected he will remain in the institution for two or three days

Here to preside at the Dominion rallies of officers of the church being held this week, the Prelate, who will celebrate his seventy-eighth birthday Saturday, is said to be seriously run down and suffering nervous strain, probably engendered by the big gathering. His resignation from the primacy is to be considered by the House of Bishops during the present church meetings.

In advising his removal to the hospital last evening, Dr. George McCarthy emphasized the veteran church leader was "tired out—nothing serious." Visitors are forbidden access to the hospital room.

TELLS FARMER TO CULTIVATE INTENSIVELY

John Marchbank, Member of British Party, Advises More Mixed Farming Here

Farmers in the Canadian west would be better off if they undertook to cultivate smaller tracts of land, farmed more intensively and paid greater attention to fertilization and mixed farming. This is the opinion of John Marchbank, veteran lecturer in agricultural chemistry and former principal of the agricultural and horticultural college at Muchamore, northern Ireland, who is here to-day with a party of agriculturists and stock-breeders from the British Isles.

The British farmers, traveling under the auspices of the National British Agricultural Union, are touring Canada to look into farming conditions and methods here. After visiting five Canadian provinces they cannot see that agriculture in Canada is much better off than in Britain.

"We can't see much success for the Canadian farmer if he can get no more than sixty cents a bushel for his wheat," Mr. Marchbank said, "and unless your farmers devote more attention to mixed farming and fertilize-

NEW GUINEA FLIERS RESCUED AFTER ROUGH EXPERIENCE

Rabaul, New Guinea, Sept. 17.—Captain Thomson, pilot for New Guinea Gold Limited, and his mechanic, McMurtrie, are back at the coast here after a flying experience in which they crashed on a mountain and afterward endured tortures in the jungles.

While flying tri-motored Handley Page plane between the mountain gold fields and the coast they were caught in a terrific storm. The powerful machine was tossed about like a kite until it was finally flung against a mountain, and impaled on a tree, like a butterfly on a specimen board.

Thomson and McMurtrie climbed down the tree and commenced an arduous journey to the coast.

They struggled through the jungles in the ranges. Their clothes and flesh were torn by needle bushes and their wounds were irritated by leeches which dropped on them from the trees. Their sores festered. Bush flies poisoned their eyes.

Then McMurtrie contracted the dread scourge of the tropics, black water fever, and pleaded to be left behind.

Raving deliriously, he had to be carried on the back of his tottering, almost blind companion, who was unable to sleep for fear of an attack by hostile natives. Both were on the verge of collapse when a search party found and rescued them.

EMPIRE CONFERENCE IS TO DEBATE PRIVY COUNCIL

By Thomas T. Champion, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, Sept. 17.—The attitude the Irish Free State delegation will take at the approaching Imperial Conference appears to be the subject of a guessing contest among the members of the London press.

Patrick McGilligan, Dublin's Minister for External Affairs, is quoted by the Irish correspondent of Truth, a weekly paper, as saying he is going to London with an open mind, but his answer to further questions indicated the Free State was out to put quite as big a finger in the Dominion pie as it did at the 1926 conference.

On the question of the Privy Council's status as a court of appeal for the Dominions, neither McGilligan nor his colleagues of the cabinet can be said to have an open mind. Ernest Blythe, Vice-President and Minister of Finance, declared after hearing of the Blay copyright case, that the Free State Attorney-General would never again appear before the Privy Council

The Privy Council is dead and only awaits the Imperial Conference to receive a decent burial," said Mr. Blythe.

"Whether the other members of the British Commonwealth of nations will lend a hand in digging the grave remains to be seen," says Truth, but wakes are always occasions for rejoicing in Ireland."

The weekly expresses pleasure that Patrick Hogan, Irish Minister of Agriculture, is to be a member of the delegation, for if Empire free trade is discussed, says Truth, he can be trusted that no indiscretion will be committed by his colleagues in their zeal to secure a state of sovereign independence.

"He knows what the English market means to Ireland," concludes Truth.

Great Tariff Boost At Short Session Surprise To People, States King

Liberal Leader Says Citizens Looking For Unemployment Relief, Not Wholesale Upward Revision of Tariff, Which Would Provide Lengthy Debates For Extended Regular Session of Parliament

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, after Premier Bennett had completed his outline of his government's proposed tariff increases before the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, said the Prime Minister had just brought down a budget similar to that ordinarily introduced by the Minister of Finance at a regular session of Parliament. He asked Mr. Bennett if he would be prepared to accord to the opposition the same courtesy as was accorded at such regular sessions and permit the adjournment of the debate until the opposition had time to consider the proposals. He had not received a copy of the resolutions until after the Prime Minister had started his speech, said Mr. King.

The tariff resolutions embodied some 200 amendments, all of them upward. This revision of the tariff was more far-reaching than any that had taken place in the Canadian Parliament at any time.

No exception could be taken to this procedure if Parliament was in regular session, but when it had been called in special session to deal with unemployment, it was contrary to the expectation of the public that advantage should have been taken of such a situation to bring in an upward revision of the tariff. Mr. King asked if the Prime Minister would agree to an adjournment of the debate until Wednesday.

Premier Bennett acceded to the request of the opposition leader, and the House then turned to consider the amendment to the Customs Act dealing with dumping.

WHEAT MARKETING

Speaking of wheat marketing Premier Bennett said, during his outline of the tariff increases:

"I may say that the particular and urgent problem of the marketing of Canadian wheat is receiving further attention of the Ministry, which is giving consideration to the most effective means of meeting the difficulties which now confront the basic wheat industry. At this moment I will not detail the steps that have been taken, but I am hopeful that at least they will be of some benefit to that great industry. A review of the causes underlying the present unsatisfactory situation is being carried out, and it will be the purpose of the government to take whatever action it properly may take to ensure the prosperity of that industry upon which the welfare of the country is dependent to such a large extent. I know that in this work we will have the sympathetic assistance and support of every member of this House, for there is no member, whether he lives in the east or in the west, whether he represents a rural or a city riding, who does not realize the extent to which the prosperity of the country is dependent upon the success of the great grain industry of Canada.

"We believe the investigations that are now being carried on will have a beneficial result and so far as lies within our power we will endeavor to secure the ends that we all aim at in that regard."

SOVIET COAL

If one of Premier Bennett's resolutions becomes law importation of coal into Canada from countries not signatories to the Treaty of Versailles, and believed to be aimed chiefly at Russia, will be stopped by order-in-council. The resolution would insert a new section in the act empowering the government to prohibit the importation of any goods from any non-signatory nation. It is understood the government had in mind the importation of Russian coal in drafting this proposed law, although there is no mention either of that commodity or that nation in the resolution.

DUMP DUTY

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The limit of the dumping duty set out in the tariff resolutions tabled in the House of Commons yesterday is 50 per cent, although it was stated by Premier Bennett many countries fixed the maximum at 75 per cent.

The resolution, which is rather lengthy, removes doubt expressed in a departmental ruling as to the right to collect dumping duty with respect to certain items mentioned in the tariff that carry specific duties. The resolution fits in with the Bennett Government's amendments to the Customs Act for application of dumping penalties.

On importations from Australia under the Australian Trade Treaty, the special duty will not exceed 15 per cent

BENNETT SEES NO PRICE RAISE ON IMPLEMENTS

Rates Increased on Steel Articles and Electrical Equipment

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—In the part of his tariff speech in the Commons yesterday dealing with the proposed increase in duties on farm implements, Premier Bennett said that during the past seven years there had been enormous increase in the importation of agricultural implements. The tariff proposals just submitted made very substantial increases in the duty on all agricultural implements. These increases range from ten to fifteen per cent. Before the government agreed to this further protection to the agricultural implement industry, all the leading concerns including Massey Harris, Cockshutt and others, he said, had placed in the hands of the Finance Minister a signed statement, in which it was agreed there would be no increase in price consequent on the increase in duty. So that stimulating the agricultural implement industry would not be at the expense of the farming community, but the industry would benefit by increased production and distribution. During the past eight years reduction in duties on agricultural implements had almost inevitably been followed by increase in prices to the farmers.

In the present instance an increase in duty would mean no increase in price, he said.

RATES ON IMPLEMENTS

The new rates on farm implements, which went into force to-day, are as follows, the first figure in each case being the British preferential rate, the second the intermediate tariff, and the third the general tariff, with all countries not having treaties with Canada:

Milking machines and attachments therefore; centrifugal machines for testing butterfat, milk or cream; complete parts of all the foreging—Free; 10 per cent; 10 per cent.

Cultivators, harrows, seed drills, horse-rakes, horse shoes, scufflers, manure spreaders, garden seeders, weeders and complete parts of all the foregoing—Free; 15 per cent; 25 per cent.

RATES ON PLOUGHS

Ploughs, farm, field, lawn or garden rollers; soil packers, complete parts of all the foregoing—Free; 15 per cent; 25 per cent.

Mowing machines, harvesters, either self-binding or without binders, binding attachments, reapers, harvesters in combination with threshing machines, separators, including the motive power incorporated therein, and complete parts of all the foregoing—Free; 15 per cent; 25 per cent.

Spraying and dusting machines and attachments therefor, including hand sprayers; fruit or vegetable grading machines and attachments therefor; apparatus specially designed for sterilizing bulbs; pressure testing apparatus for determining maturity of fruit; pruning hooks, pruning shears and complete parts of all the foregoing—Free; 15 per cent; 25 per cent.

FOR HAY AND POTATOES

Hay loaders, hay tenders, potato planters, potato diggers, fodder tree cutters, ensilage cutters, grain crushers and grain or hay grinders for farm purposes only, post hole diggers, snaths, stumping machines and all other agricultural implements or agricultural machinery N.O.P. and complete parts of all the foregoing—Free; 15 per cent; 25 per cent. (N.O.P. means not otherwise provided for.)

Incubators for hatching eggs, brooders for rearing young fowl, and complete parts of all the foregoing—Free; 15 per cent; 25 per cent.

Hay presses and complete parts thereof—Free; 15 per cent; 25 per cent.

Scythes, sickles or reaping hooks, hay or straw knives, edging knives, hoes, pronged forks, rakes, N.O.P.—Free; 15 per cent; 25 per cent.

COPPER RODS

Copper rods when imported by manufacturers for use in their own factories in the manufacture of electrical conductors, the individual units of such electrical conducts not to exceed the area of the gauge conductor, free.

When he is satisfied copper bars are not available in the country of export, to Canadian purchasers on conditions of sale and delivery identical with those obtaining in respect of sales and deliveries for home consumption, by order-in-council the minister may direct that there be substituted for tariff item 779 in schedule "A" to the customs tariff, the several enumerations and rates of duty set opposite thereto in said schedule, the following:

"Copper rods when imported by manufacturers for use in their own factories in the manufacture of electrical conductors, the individual units of such electrical conductors not to exceed the area of No. 7-0 gauge conductor, per pound, free—¼ cent, ½ cent.

"From and after the date of the publication in the Canada Gazette of any such order-in-council, said tariff item 779 shall cease to be of force or effect and the provisions of said tariff item 779A shall cease to have force or effect and item 779 shall become operative and have the force of law."

MORE INCREASES LATER

In presenting the tariff proposals to Parliament, Premier Bennett, as Minister of Finance, said it was planned to have a general revision of the whole tariff structure at the next session of Parliament. Meanwhile, the government proposed approximately 130 changes, chiefly affecting key industries.

Later, the Prime Minister said: "In the case of there being any addition in price imposed by reason of these duties, the Governor-in-Council shall have the right to reduce or remove those duties. That is the answer I give as to the steps that are taken to safeguard the rights of the consumer." He added that in some instances, producers and manufacturers had given to the government assurances that actual reductions in price would follow increased production.

SUGGESTS NEW RULES TO MAKE RACE MORE FAIR

Quebec, Que., Sept 17.—"I think that the America's defender gets a "break" under the present cup regulations, for the challenger in this race has to get the necessary timber in her to cross the Atlantic, while the defender is built right in her own waters, thereby enjoying a distinct advantage. However, if by any chance we were to win the cup, we would impose the same conditions, I suppose," was the comment offered by Sir Arthur Goodson, commodore of the Royal Dart Yacht Club and a member of the Royal Squadron, one of the foremost yachting authorities in the world, as he sailed from Quebec yesterday afternoon on the Empress of Fance.

"I think there should be some specification as regards sails and waterline which would bring the yachts on a fairly even footing, and then it would be a case of the best boat winning.

"As a matter of fact, the United States and British yachting authorities are discussing the matter now, and I say let both boats be built to Lloyd's specification, able and capable of crossing the ocean and then let the best man win," added Sir Arthur.

He voiced a hope that the Shamrock V would score a victory in the next race of the international series and was keenly interested in yesterday's race, leaning over the rail as the ship pulled out, in an effort to learn the result. Sir Arthur was disconcerted to learn that the race had been postponed, but called out "Never mind, the Shamrock may do better in the next race."

He is returning home after spending but a week in Canada, "For I have to get back for the fox hunting season," he stated, adding that he was very sorry not to have seen either of the first two races for the America's cup this year.

ASTROLOGIST IN MEXICO MAKES PREDICTIONS

Mexico City, Sept. 17.—Canadian and British residents of Mexico are amused at predictions of dire things to befall the world in general and Britain in particular made by Dr. Max Hanff, German astrologist, who has gained much local attention by his forecasts. Mexicans, however, are more than a little apprehensive concerning a prediction of the star gazer to the effect that the republic will be shaken by a terrible earthquake before very long. Natives of this country are taking seriously this forecast inasmuch as Dr. Hanff has come forward and listed certain predictions he made last July as having been fulfilled. He points to the deaths of prominent members of the Mexican Roman Catholic clergy, the revolts in Peru and Argentina, the recent Italian earthquake and the volcanic eruption in Guatemala. He claims he warned of all these things, which is true.

Mexicans are somewhat worried about the predicted temblor owing to the fact that a United States astrologist, Prof. Edwin Henderson of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, was written to the local newspapers backing up the German's forecast. These predictions are one of the chief topics of conversation among Mexicans these days.

GIVES DATES

Dr. Hanff has just published some more predictions. He contends the stars have it in for poor old Mother Earth and her people. He predicts England will suffer "great disasters caused by the water" on March 22, 1931; that there will be a "tenseness" between England and Scotland next year; that British domination in India will come to an end before 1930 has passed into history; that "a European crown which is strongly supported will totter" and that Great Britain and Japan "will be forced soon to take a strong hand in the situation in China."

GREAT WAR

Among other troubles the astrologist sees ahead for the world is another great war. He predicts that conflict will break out during the fall of 1931, or not later than the spring of 1932, and declares it will be brought about by the Balkans or Poland. He asserts Brazil will be the next South American country to mount the band wagon of revolt, and that Uncle Sam will soon have trouble with "a nation in South America." He predicts Japan is in for a tough time and that Nippon will suffer great disasters brought about by volcanic eruptions and other natural catastrophies. He sees naval disasters for Japan and an early change in government due to discontent on the part of the people.

Conservation Of Life Discussed

Winnipeg, Sept. 17.—One of the vital problems facing humanity is life conservation, declared Dr. J. W. Graybill, Governor of Kansas State and president of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, as he strongly advocated periodical health examinations for the people of Canada and the United States, in addressing delegates to the United Workmen's convention here yesterday evening.

Two million persons suffered from heart disease in the United States, Governor Graybell added, who only would receive medical attention if the state should order their examination by full-time health officers.

Dr. Graybill believed periodical examinations would go a long way toward cutting down the rate of infant mortality.

TRIAL FOLLOWS MINING DEAL

Seattle, Sept. 17.—Peter Cubick, fifty-eight, a railroad laborer, dropped his entire life savings, $9,500, in a Nevada mining proposition and must now face criminal charges in Vancouver, because he induced some friends to put $500 into the venture, he told police following his arrest at the request of British Columbia authorities.

Two men met him in Vancouver, Cubick said, and outlined a mining proposal which would require $10,000 to develop. He drew his $9,500 from a bank and borrowed $500 more to make up the required amount. Later, Cubick declared, the men left him "flat broke" in Nevada and he was ashamed to go back to tell his friends.

He will be taken back to Vancouver to answer charges of obtaining money under false pretences.

Coste Unable To Visit Vancouver

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—A telegram of thanks for the invitation to visit Vancouver extended to the French trans atlantic airmen, Coste and Bellonte, was received yesterday by Mayor W. H. Malkin from Charles Hayden of New York, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the aviators' good-will tour of the United States.

"I fear that because of time limitations it will be impossible to alter the schedule," Mr. Hayden wired, "but am referring your request to the fliers with the request that they give your invitation favorable consideration."

FIRM BLAMED FOR HINDERING CANCER BATTLE

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 17.—The assertion that x-ray specialists were handicapped in their war on cancer by "a prohibitory price," charged by a leading United States concern for apparatus used in diagnosis, and by a foreign monopoly in the production of radium, was made yesterday by Dr. Edain C. Ernst of St. Louis, Mo., president of the Radiological Society of North America.

Addressing radiologists, physicians and surgeons from forty-one states attending a post-graduate conference here on methods of cancer control, Dr. Ernst charged that "The Company at present enjoying the X-ray tube monopoly" had filed away useful patents.

These patents, he said, "Could and should have been employed by others in the interest of humanity, and specially the treatment of cancer by a more effective X-ray radiation.

THE TARIFF AMENDMENTS

THERE IS A PROVISION IN THE tariff legislation now before Parliament at Ottawa in which the consuming public quite probably will be as much interested as it will be in a study of the imposing list of commodities upon which the duties have been increased. It is the section which prescribes that if producers increase prices as a result of the higher duties, "the Governor-in-Council 'may' reduce or remove such duty," and that there shall be no increases in any event before a producer shall have proved to the satisfaction of the government that he is entitled to more money for his products. No other Canadian government has taken such wide powers as Mr. Bennett has taken in this provision.

The Bennett government evidently desires to convey to the public that higher duties on the commodities set forth in the new schedule are under no consideration meant to "protect" the producer by permitting him to add to his price to the wholesaler the amount of the higher tax—plus a profit on the increase, as has been the custom—but merely to give him more business, and consequently enable him to employ more hands, the implication being that the higher duty will instantly curtail the demand for the foreign commodities which have been in competition with the Canadian products.

It would be unfair to suggest that the Prime Minister, who, as Minister of Finance, is responsible for the bill under consideration, had his tongue in his cheek when he drew up the provision to which we have referred. But his measure will have produced something very little short of a miracle if the new duties which have gone into effect to-day do not result in higher costs to the consumers, while at the same time providing more employment at fair wages.

The record, not only in Canada, but in other countries where tariff protection has been adopted on a large scale, shows that the prices of the protected products have been increased to the home consumers either directly or indirectly through the sale of inferior goods, although the applicants for this protection always have declared that they would not advance prices. And it also is a matter of dear experience that when prices have been increased, governments have not removed the protection; they have not dared to do so because protected interests have built up too strong an influence to be resisted.

What will be the course of the beneficiaries of the present increases of the tariff if they find that, notwithstanding the fact that they are expected to employ 25,000 more people, their sales fall short of expectations? They will inevitably go to the government and say they must either increase their prices or reduce their staffs. Australia has been caught in the vicious complexity of market conditions and employment and wages. Her tariff increases involved increases in the prices of protected articles which in turn involved demands for more employment and higher wages. The process reached a point ultimately where it outstripped the purchasing power of the public, and Australia, therefore, finds herself in a critical economic condition.

If there is an increase in the cost of farming machinery as the result of these tariff changes, there will be an increase in the cost of production to the farmer, particularly to the farmer of the prairie provinces, whose chief product must be marketed outside of Canada. If ever there was a time in the history of this country when the cost of production to Canadian graingrowers should not be increased, that time, of course, is now.

Newspapers supporting the government describe the tariff changes as a policy of "prosperity." This is counting chickens before they are hatched with a vengeance. A few hardy souls similarly described the United States tariff last year and now wish they had been less enthusiastic. The idea that in a world which is suffering from loss of trade and lower purchasing power, economic conditions can be improved by erecting barriers and increasing prices to the public, is not new, but it is particularly dangerous at this time. Certainly the home market in Canada, which cannot absorb more than a small fraction of Canadian products, will be unable to make up for the loss of overseas markets which is bound to follow the tariff war upon which we are engaged.

However, Mr. Bennett has a mandate from the Canadian electors to put his theories into practice, and he is entitled to go full steam ahead. In our opinion it will not be long before the electors will bitterly regret their action in exchanging the policy developed by Mr. Fielding, Mr. Robb and Mr. Dunning, on the basis of experience and careful investigation in regard to a very difficult issue, for one hastily and recklessly prescribed by Mr. Bennett, who has not held office at Ottawa for three months.

THE DOMINIONS FOR PEACE

BEFORE THE BUSINESS OF THE present meeting of the League of Nations had proceeded very far the assembled representatives had heard what several of the British Dominions think about peace and what they think every country should do to insure it.

Right Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Canada's wartime Prime Minister and an ardent advocate of the settlement of international disputes by peaceful means, opened the main debate with what, as described by the Canadian Press representative, "was an earnest and eager plea for the reduction of armaments—for peace based not on force, but on the will to peace." Incidentally, Sir Robert spoke in his capacity as chairman of the Assembly's political committee, and he found ground for gratification in the fact that the League had accomplished a great deal since its birth into "the tempest-scourged world of eleven years ago." The head of Canada's delegation thought the achievements of the League had, indeed, been memorable; but he expressed the opinion that treaties and conventions would be of little use unless behind them lay the will to peace. His injunction to the world was that it should work for universal peace in the domain of the spirit. With Sir Robert's opinion every Canadian obviously will agree.

In no uncertain terms did General the Right Hon. J. B. M. Hertzog, Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa, support the views of Sir Robert Borden—and, incidentally, those of the Right Hon. Arthur Henderson—declaring in pointed phrase that "Europe has too little to bear witness to its will to peace." In its anxiety, Premier Hertzog said, South Africa felt like asking Europe how much it intended to add to its burden of armaments, which suggested to him that Europe would be embarrassed if it had to make a straightforward answer. It will not be contended that this was by any means an extreme view to take. There stands out in relief the obvious war-like preparations of certain continental European nations which, to say the least, are not very helpful to the cause of peace.

The third Dominion—Great Britain is excepted, because she already has shown by practical example what she is willing to do to insure the peace of the world, as explained by Mr. Henderson—to make her position quite clear was Australia. Hon. Frank Brennan, Attorney-General of the Commonwealth, said in part: "We have drawn our pen through the schedule of military expenditures with unprecedented firmness; we have reversed the policy which existed in Australia twenty-five years ago of compelling the young to learn the art of war." Then he clinched his argument with the remark that "security, it is said, must precede disarmament; but it is also true there can be no real security so long as the present scale of armaments continues." The Australian delegate followed this up with the statement that the majority of opinion in Australia is committed to a policy of "ultimate complete disarmament and outlawry of war."

In view of these candid expressions from Canada, South Africa and Australia—which, of course, harmonize with the attitude of the other Dominions—the reactionaries in every part of the Britannic Commonwealth of Nations will find the business of beating the war drum rather difficult.

FAVORS TARIFF BOARD

IN THE LIGHT OF THE PROPOSED increases of the customs tariff—now put in operation by Mr. Bennett—many prominent Canadian industrialists regret the recent hasty abolition of the tariff board appointed by the former government. Their views were expressed in a letter from J. T. McCall, president of Drummond, McCall and Co., Ltd., iron and steel merchants of Montreal, and a prominent Conservative, which appeared in The Montreal Gazette before the tariff board had been abolished.

Mr. McCall declared at the outset that many Conservatives were alarmed at the prospect of the abolition of the board. "I sincerely hope," the communication proceeds, "that the Conservative government will not follow the advice of certain extreme protectionists and raise the tariff without careful investigation. The result would simply be that prices would be raised on all those commodities without increasing the volume of business." Mr. McCall tells Mr. Bennett plainly that the substitution of haphazard tariff-making for the carefully-studied procedure of the tariff board would be detrimental to Canada's prospects.

"I could not but admire the skillful manner in which the chairman was able to elicit information and direct the proceedings so as to avoid a deadlock," writes Mr. McCall approvingly of Mr. H. W. Moore, who, before his election to the House of Commons, was the chairman of the tariff board. "That he succeeded in bringing harmony out of what at times seemed hopeless discord is a tribute to his ability," Mr. McCall concludes.

What three of Mr. Bennett's supporters in the House of Commons thought of the work of the tariff board, as expressed by the terms of the Dunning budget in this regard, is reflected by the fact that they, representing constituencies depending for employment in large measure upon the iron and steel industry, voted with the government and thus helped to pass Mr. Dunning's proposals.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

FOR SHORTER WORKING HOURS
The Ottawa Citizen

The British Trades Union Congress last week passed a resolution in favor of reducing the general working week to forty-four hours, including meal times. There is a similar movement in the United States toward this shorter working week. Before many years, it will probably be put into effect in some of the larger industries.

Fewer working hours would be no solution of the problem of inadequate purchasing power. It would possibly help to palliate the situation however: at least temporarily the hiatus between production and consumption would be reduced.

Some employers in the United States are inclined to favor another step in the same direction, namely, a longer vacation period for workers. Just as soon as conservative people can be brought along to accept the policy of shorter hours, the proposal to reduce the working year to ten months will be mooted.

THE COCKTAIL
The New York World

For some time now Frenchmen have been denouncing the cocktail, and now an Englishman adds his voice to the clamor . . . . unpatriotic though such an attitude may be, we must say we find ourselves in agreement with these foreign strictures on our national contribution to the art of drinking. At present the cocktail may be a sort of necessity, since prohibition has shut off the supply of more distinguished drinks. But let us not delude ourselves that it is any good, or that it ever was any good. It is a product of that pathetic American faith in the science of mixology; the belief that you can take two ingredients, neither of them fit to drink, shake them together with a lump of ice, and have a drink that will knock your eye out. It is a belief, of course that extends much further than the realm of drinking. . . . But nowhere is its falsity more painful than in drink, for here only one thing matters, and that is quality. If the quality is high, then it needs no mixing; if it is low, mixing merely serves to accentuate the fact.

PROPOSE NEW ROAD AT PARK

Immediate construction of a new section of road through Mount Douglas Park will be recommended by the Victoria-Saanich Parks and Beaches Committee following a meeting held at the park yesterday afternoon.

Danger to children at the park through traffic on the present roadway is given as the reason for the proposed new section of the highway. The present road skirts the beach closely and when autos are parked at the picnic grounds, children crossing backwards and forwards are menaced by automobile traffic.

The new road would cut off the big bend in the main highway extending down to the picnic grounds and would provide a better grade on the hill just past the beach, it is stated.

In its report to the City Council, the committee will recommend the work.

Investigation of charges brought by residents of the district regarding mutilation of the park was made by the committee.

With regard to unrestricted removal of gravel from the pit in the park, a report will be made after a conference between Mayor Anscomb and Reeve Crouch of Saanich.

As far as the cutting of trees was concerned, it was ascertained that only timbers which were dead and constituted a menace had been removed.

Goats had been permitted to graze on the park for the purpose of clearing up dry grass and small brush which were a fire hazard, it was stated.

The committee will present a full report on this matter to the Attorney-General, who drew attention of the council to the alleged practices.

VICTORIA MAN IS SUCCESSFUL

Sgt.-Major C. W. King, Who Installed Beacons For R-100, Working in Regina

Sergeant-Major C. W. King, who is now in Regina supervising the installation of necessary equipment at the radio beacon station now under construction there, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. King, 1317 Lyall Street, Esquimalt, and received his education and early employment in Victoria. He passed through the Lampson Street public school and the Esquimalt High School, and spent a part of his spare time carrying papers for The Daily Times.

When he had finished high school, he entered the Coast Militia, and after serving for a while journeyed East. When the R-100 made her historic flight, Sergeant-Major King was responsible for the installation of the beacons at St. Hubert's Field, Montreal. His manner of handling this important job was instrumental in procuring for him his present work in Regina.

WHITE TRAPPERS MENACE INDIANS

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The Federal Government will be asked to restrict the activities of white trappers who are making it almost impossible for Indians to eke out an existence in northern Ontario and Manitoba. Representations are to be made to Hon. T. G. Murphy, Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs, by the Church of England in Canada, as a result of protests made yesterday before the board of management of the Missionary Society of the church. The chief boards of the church are in annual session here.

Rt. Rev. A. D. A. Dewdney, Bishop of Keewatin Diocese, and George B. Nicholson, member of Parliament for Algoma East, Ont., described the plight of the Indians. White trappers had penetrated into Indian trapping grounds and by the use of steel traps and poisons had taken so much game the redmen were facing starvation, it was said.

The commercializing of fishing in lake adjacent to the Indian reserves was stated to be another cause of anxiety to the Indians.

UNEMPLOYMENT

To the Editor,—I ask the favor of a little space to comment on Mr. Inward's letter of September 12. I know nothing of the matter in dispute between himself and Heatherington, and I trust it is not serious.

But so long as dissension is not caused by this, why should not men, unemployed or not, be told something of the root causes of our plight? I think it highly important that anyone having a knowledge of economics should at this juncture enlighten his fellows. Believe me, Mr. Inward, the situation is very serious. Every manufacturing country in the world to-day stands in the market holding out its surplus goods for which there are no buyers.

And the most authoritative opinion in the world holds out no prospect of relief from this depression for a long period.

So bad is it in some cases that grave disturbances are looked for, with all that the word implies. Certainly, then, understanding of this subject is needed if the world is to progress further. We may assume that the present competitive system is to continue in its halting fashion. It seems so, as a very small body of opinion favors a complete reconstruction of society.

If so, the inevitable outcome is war once more. And we know what the next war means, with the improved technique of destructiveness. This glaring contradiction of increased productivity of goods on the one hand, and a shrinking world market on the other, in which to dispose of said goods, leads to no other end but war. Why then should not men seek to know why and how this comes about? Or shall we come closer home? Well, then, Canada, the total volume of production in all industries rose from an index figure of 146 in 1926, to 193 in 1929. Think what that means. Canada, to take one instance only, has more real wealth, actual products available for our needs and comfort than ever before. Yet in the face of this plethora of wealth, there is increasing misery through poverty. By all means keep cool, get what assistance is available; but do not think of the significance of this thing. For the vast majority of the world's unemployed are not needed any more. The machine can run without them. But on the other hand, the more unemployed there are, the less purchasing power on the market. Hence, the worse the problem will get.

Space forbids extensive analysis of this grave matter, but for goodness sake, Mr. Inward, don't let anyone blind himself into expecting relief in a permanent way. 'Seek ye the truth'—said Christ, and indeed—Why not?

Famed Forward Quits Huddersfield

London, Sept. 17. — The desire of Alec Jackson, the Huddersfield and Scottish International forward, to change to another club, has led to lively discussion and speculation, but it seems that Jackson had no particular team in mind when he asked to be released from further duty at Huddersfield.

Apparently Jackson believes he has been long enough at Huddersfield, and desires a change. He has had no dispute with the Huddersfield club, Jackson had an appointment at a sports shop in Huddersfield, but the contract there has expired, and it may be that the player would desire a similar post in the town to which he is transferred.

When James left Preston for the Arsenal he obtained a post in the sports department of a London store. Football enthusiasts usually have something of this surprise character to talk about on the eve of a football season, and doubtless there are several clubs who would like to have the services of Jackson, on whom it is reported his club has placed a transfer fee of no less than £15,000!

CUSTOMS BILL IS LISTED FOR THIRD READING

King Urges Time For Consideration; Conservatives Vote Down Amendment

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—When the members of the Commons assembled to-day the first item on the programme was third reading of the government bill to amend the provisions of the Customs Act affecting the dumping regulations. A higher basis of valuation of goods for duty is the principle of the bill.

Yesterday there came to a vote the amendment offered by Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, for a six months' hoist. The division was 116 nays to 62 ayes, a majority of 54 for the government.

Supporting the Liberal amendment were Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive; J. S. Woodsworth, A. A. Heaps and A. MacInnis, Labor, together with G. G. Coote, U.F.A. The Liberal and Conservative party lines stood solid. The division found the government supported by Robert Gardiner, H. E. Spencer, D. M. Kennedy, Alfred Speakman, W. T. Lucas, Milton Campbell, William Irvine and M. Luchkovich of the U.F.A. group, in addtion to A. W. Neill, independent.

STEWART AMENDMENT

Two other amendments were dealt with in the course of the discussion in committee, one moved by Hon. Charles Stewart, Liberal, Edmonton West, who suggested the bill was "contrary to the principles of responsible government," and another by Hon. E. B. Rychman, Minister of National Revenue, which provided for the publication of the valuation prices in the Canada Gazette. The former was negatived and the other adopted.

A large number of members took part in the debate in committee, while numerous questions were directed at the Minister of National Revenue.

Hunt For Plane As Machines On Tour Move Ahead

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 17.—As entrans in the 1930 National Air Tour prepared to hop off for Edmonton, Alberta, mystery still hung about the disappearance of Swanee Taylor, pilot of one of the accompanying planes. Taylor, who failed to report at Winnipeg Sunday, was stated to be at Brandon, Man., yesterday, but the report could not be substantiated.

Rumors he had reached Regina late yesterday, trailing the tour which started last week at Detroit, Mish., were put to rest when officials of the Regina Air Club stated he had not landed at the airport.

Langford

Members of the Metchosin tennis team visited the Langford courts on Monday afternoon and friendly matches were enjoyed. Mixed doubles, ladies' and men's doubles being played. Tea was served by members of the home tea. Visitors present were Miss Mary Higgs, Rev. A. M. Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. Peacock, Messrs. E. Ellwood and James Milne, all from Metchosin; Mrs. Sydney White, from Fairfield; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bayles, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Pennington, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hincks, Mr. and Mrs. A. Norman Brown; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McClean, Mrs. W. J. G. Johnston, Mrs. F. A. Sparks, Mrs. F. Forrest, Campbell Brown and John Pennington.

Mr. and Mrs. William Fielding from Cheshire, England, are visiting and spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. N. G. Johnston at Maple Cove, Langford Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Wilkinson are spending a vacation in Seattle.

Mrs. George Aikman, who has been visiting relatives at Courtenay, has returned to her home on Goldstream Road.

Mrs. A. Hasenfratz from Nanaimo is the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. J. Hasenfratz at "Deer Lodge," Langford Lake.

Mrs. Phelps of Prince Rupert was the house guest of Mrs. N. G. Johnston at Maple Cove, Langford Lake, last week.

Arnold Philipsen, who has been spending some time at "Dogwood Lodge," Langford Lake, has returned to Victoria, where he will attend the University School.

NANAIMO NOTES

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Sept 17.—Nanaimo bowling alleys have opened for the winter season. Sixteen teams entered in the Commercial Five-pin League, nine teams in Ten-pin League and six in the Ladies' League.

Rev. John McTurk united in marriage at noon Monday William Milligan, Five Acres, and Anne Mary Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Clarke, Chapel Street. The bride was attended by Miss Agnes Alexander, and the groom was suppotred by his brother, Robert Milligan. The newly married couple will take up their residence here after the honeymoon, which is being spent in Seattle.

The Jokers' ladies' softball team won the second half of the series by defeating the Tar Flats team Monday evening 10-8. Tar Flats won the first half of series, and the final will be played off this week for championship honors.

PORT ALBERNI

Special to The Times

Port Alberni, Sept. 17. — At the opening meeting for the fall season of the Women's Auxiliary to the West Coast Hospital, held at the United Church Hall, reports were submitted covering the purchasing and donating of linen and sheets for the case room and the operating room at the hospital. Tentative discussion regarding a series of bridge drives during the winter months as a source of raising revenue took place, while the date of the annual ball for the hospital was definitely arranged for November 28, conveners and committees to be formed at the next regular meeting. Mrs. F. Vradenburgh presided.

The deep-sea lantern fish is provided with a row of luminous discs along each of its sides. As he swims he looks something like a ship with a row of illuminated portholes.

Lipton's Challenger Said To Be Burdened With Too Much Weight

THE SPORTS MIRROR

AT LAST! The secrets stored away in Bobby Jones's right elbow, in his left arm, in his wrists and in all his other anatomical divisions which have attuned themselves to produce the greatest golfer of all time, are to be disclosed to a breathless and par-seeking public. This generation and those who follow soon may be able to sit comfortably at home and figuratively take Mr. Jones apart to see what makes him that way. Then, having done so, they can go to the nearest practice tee to do as Bobby does.

The Professional Golfers' Association of America has busied itself this summer taking slow motion pictures of Jones with a new device that retards the action to an unbelievable degree. The association even went so far as to dispatch George Sargent of Columbus, a U.S. open champion years ago, and still a leader in pro affairs, to England, where pictures of the same type were made of Joyce Wethered and Harold Hilton. Miss Wethered being unquestionably the finest of all women players and Hilton a stylist whose renown is world-wide, the P.G.A. expects when it is finished with its work to have a pictorial record of all that is orthodox and fundamental in a golf swing, ranging from the putter to the driver.

The films will be available for the first time at the next annual P.G.A. meeting in November at Lake Forest, Ill. At that time their merits will be discussed and it will be determined how best to put them to use.

The value of the pictures insofar as their historical worth is concerned, goes unquestioned. Of what interest to-day would be a celluloid reproduction of Old Tom Morris striking with fierce intensity into the gale sweeping off the sea across bleak St. Andrews? Or tragedy-stricken Young Tom bringing his ball out of an unkempt chasm of sand and laying it dead to the pin as was his custom? Or of Ted Ray or Harry Vardon in their prime days when the whole world of fairway and bunker lay at their feet?

Such records would be priceless, although it is debatable how much they would benefit the average Sunday morning foursome at the Country Club.

The P.G.A., however, does not intend its film for promiscuous distribution. It has no intention of setting up Jones or Hilton as a copybook for all male golfers and Miss Wethered as a living chart for women. It recognizes that there are certain points about the Jones swing, for example, that are suitable only for a man of his build. A player even slightly taller or with more or less girth than the champion might be compelled to make alterations here and there to achieve identical results.

With this in mind, the association hopes to study the films with the sole idea of discovering certain fundamentals applicable to the whole field of golf. It will seek similarities in the styles of the three and will use them as a basis for what it hopes will be the beginning of a new and more certain era of teaching.

Sargent, after studying the Jones pictures for only a short time, was said by Albert R. Gates, the new czar of the professional association, to have reached the conclusion that certain theories instructors have been calling "fundamental" for years are all wrong. Perhaps when he has had a chance to digest the Wethered and Hilton films he will change his mind, but this first conclusion comes as a startling hint as to what the experiment may divulge.

Alex Pirie, P.G.A. president, is extremely optimistic over the outcome of the venture. He has been quoted as saying that the films may make a generation of super-golfers, and professes to see the U.S. scoring average cut down by a full four or five strokes in five years.

Which, if it does nothing else, will go far toward restoring the temper of many households along about 6 o'clock of every evening from springtime until the first snowfall.

Cy Young pitched a hitless inning in the Old-Timers' game down in Boston the other day. Cy seems to have taken quite a lot of liveliness out of the ball.

If Brooklyn should get into the world series, the Philadelphia Athletics might be beaten. The Robins' base-running possibly would turn the trick.

Quite a race in the American League this year, at that. The teams involved are the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns and the place is sixth.

Shamrock Carries 1,200 Pounds More In Her Giant Mast

British Yacht Said To Be Under Too Severe a Handicap Through Having To Be Built Heavy Enough to Cross Atlantic; Ballast Carried Inboard to Replace Interior Fittings Not Efficient as That Carried in Keel of Enterprise; Weather Conditions Also Vastly Different.

By TOM HORGAN, Associated Press Staff Writer

Newport, R.I., Sept. 17.—Put a fat old man on Man o' War and Earl Sande on a claiming plater and the latter will probably win. There you have the story on Enterprise's two victories over Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger for the America's Cup, and there also is the reason virtually everyone who knows anything about racing yachts expects Enterprise to win the present series for the America's Cup.

It is simply that Sir Thomas's green-hulled challenger is carrying too much weight. Her wooden mast is shorter than that of Enterprise, but it weighs a ton and a quarter more than the towering metal spar of Harold Vanderbilt's defender.

The Vanderbilt sloop carries a hollow boom, larger as dimensions go, but it weighs 1,200 pounds less than Shamrock's. Shamrock was built to Lloyd's scantlings and as a capable cruising craft, for she had to cross the ocean on her own bottom and under her own sail to meet the conditions of contest. Her interior fittings, berths, galley and other crew equipment, weighed 7,500 pounds. All that material was removed after her arrival on these waters and she was allowed to take aboard ballast to correspond, but that ballast must be carried inboard, whereas Enterprise's designer was in a position to place that tonnage some ten feet lower, on the defender's keel, where it is far more efficient in maintaining stability of a sailing craft.

To lift the cup, Shamrock V must now take four out of five races and Enterprise needs only two more victories to retain for America the world's sailing championship.

DIFFERENT CONDITIONS

Shamrock's crew and her afterguard, although none wish their names in the public prints, now admit that conditions prevailing on the open ocean cup course are not those under which she established a reputation for fast sailing on the other side of the Atlantic. Over there the breeze was steady and dependable and the sea smooth. The waters nine miles off Brenton Reef Lightship are disturbed by all manner of tidal currents and ground swells, and the wind is frequently flukey and not to be depended upon to blow from any one quarter of the compass. The unruly sea and the ground swell has proved unpleasant to Shamrock. Her bow has not lifted to the heave of the sea, but dived through it, and when a boat does that she loses way.

VANDERBILT GOOD SPORT

The crew of Shamrock have many complimentary things to say for Harold S. Vanderbilt, the defender's skipper. For Monday's race, one of the afterguard said:

"He is a good sport. He played the game and he never tried any close-handed work." This yachtsman referred to the fact that although Vanderbilt took the weather berth away from Shamrock, he did not bear down on the challenger and deprive her of the breeze by intercepting it with his own sails. In addition to the advantage of a lower centre of tonnage, Enterprise wears a higher sail plan than Shamrock V, something that often counts tellingly when the breeze is light and stronger aloft than over the surface of the sea.

KIWANIANS ENJOY FINE WATER GALA

Audrey Griffin Kiernan in Exhibition Swims; Novelty Stunts Popular

Offering one of the most smoothly run exhibition galas ever held in the city, the Victoria Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club yesterday evening entertained the visiting Kiwanis delegates at their aquatic frolic at the Crystal Garden.

Fine sprints, exhibitions featuring Mrs. Audrey Griffin Kiernan, former all round B.C. women's champion; Denny Walker, P.N.W. Y.M.C.A. 200 yards freestyle and fifty yards backstroke champion; Allan Stewart and Art Stott, present and past holders of the B.C. diving title, and several splendid comedy stunts, were greatly enjoyed by the visitors who gave the swimmers a good hand for virtually every event.

Opening the programme the Y.M.C.A. diving team led the parade of swimmers by diving through the interstices of a great "K" suspended in front of the diving board. They were immediately followed by the remainder of the club in a novelty stunt which was given unstinted applause by the gathering.

A balloon tire race, in which ten girls sculled the length of the tank in big rubber life preserver was won by Eleanor Peden, with K. Carter finishing second and Carrie Gray third.

IN CLASS BY HIMSELF

In a class by himself, Denny Walker, husky young Victoria swimmer, overcame his handicap of six seconds to lead a field of seven of the city's best boys in a 100-yard exhibition race.

Drawing roars of laughter from the audience, a team of four, representing Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia presented a burlesque beauty contest in all manner of picturesque bathing costumes of the 1890's. Clad in their unusual suits the "beauties" displayed their charms at the end of the springboard to the great delight of the gathering. Miss Washington was, by popular applause, judged the winner.

PAT COPELAND WINS

In the women's freestyle handicap, Pat Copeland drew away from the field to win by a small margin from K. Carter and Carry Gray after an exciting race. Audrey Griffin Kiernan was handicapped too severly and was unable to gain sufficient ground to finish in the leaders.

Another comedy diving stunt in which the pupil finished his lesson by falling out of his suit, again brought roars of laughter from the gathering.

Dunc McPherson, Chris McRae and Chuck Hardy showed the way in the novelty race in which competitors were required to don unusual clothing and swim the width of the pool.

Allan Stewart and Art Stott, assisted by some of the women's team from the lower boards, gave an exhibition of diving, running through the table of more popular stunts.

SPECIAL EXHIBITION

Demonstrating both crawl and freestyle strokes, Mrs. Audrey Griffin Kiernan displayed some of her old form in two exhibition swims which were received with favor by the gathering.

The "three Macks" comedy team added another humorous sketch to the proceedings and were given a good hand when they fell splashing from the rafters into the pool.

Introducing a spirit of international competition, four relay teams, representing Washington, Idaho, Oregon and British Columbia, kicked the water into foam in a close race which saw them finish in the above order.

Drawing the curtain on the proceedings one of the divers turned a back somersault from the springboard, unfurling the United States and Canadian flags with a ripcord as he dropped.

Following the exhibitions the Kiwanians adjourned to the north and south ballrooms, where dancing continued.

Junior Football League Will Meet

An important meeting of the Junior Football League will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Y.M.C.A. All teams are asked to have representatives present, as several items are on the agenda for discussion.

TRAVELERS TO MEET AT GOLF

A. C. Falk Will Defend Our Own Brand Trophy in Annual Tournament

A. C. Falk, who last year won the Our Own Brand Butter Cup, emblematic of the championship of the United Commercial Travelers, will be on hand to defend his laurels when the satchel men go to the Uplands on September 27 for their semi-annual golf tournament, it was announced to-day. About 150 members of the association are expected to tee-off in the contest which promises to be one of the best held by the organization.

But Falk will have to shoot an unusually good game if he intends to retain the trophy, which is being sought by Harold Brynjolfson, city and Uplands champion. Several other low handicap men are entered for the competition. Prizes will be given for hidden hole competitions and other events and will be distributed at the banquet in the clubhouse following the tourney.

Those intending to enter the event are requested to communicate with Frank Partridge, Roy Darnborough, Albert James, A. C. Falk, W. H. Heywood, Alex Inglis or Harry Jones as soon as possible

Arcade Fivepin Bowlers to Name Officers Friday

To elect officers and draw up plans for the coming season the Arcade Fivepin Loop will meet on their alleys Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Last year the fivepin game proved exceptionally popular and this year it is expected to grow even more rapidly. All teams intending to enter the league are asked to have delegates at the meeting.

M'KAY HEADS SOCCER "REFS"

Elected President at Meeting This Week; A. Hewison and P. Payne Retiring

Angus McKay was elected president of the Victoria Referees' Association at the annual meeting held this week at the home of Albert Hewison, retiring president. J. Armstrong was elected as vice-president while P. J. Woodley will handle the secretary's duties.

During the meeting it was learned that Albert Hewison and Percy Payne, two veteran referees in local soccer, would retire from active duties this season. Not wishing to lose the valuable advice and judgement of Past President Hewison the meeting bestowed the position of honorary president upon him.

J. C. Dowds has received his referees certificate and along with five other arbitrators will handle football in Victoria this season. The present list of referees follows: D. McMillan, P. J. Woodley, A. McKay, J. Armstrong, T. N. Robb and J. C. Dowds.

Miniature Golf Course Owners Use Much Cotton

Washington, Sept. 17.—The rising industry of establishing miniature golf courses has used 1,500,000 yards of cotton textiles.

This was the count made yesterday by a commerce department branch interested in the subject. It does not take into consideration the amount of cloth which it is expected the baby golf course operators will have to acquire if they adopt generally the policy of putting their grounds under canvas for the winter.

Swimming Club Holds Practice

The Crystal Garden Swimming Club will hold a practice to-night at the Crystal Garden, starting at 8 o'clock. Besides the programme of handicaps there will be a swimming and life-saving practice under C. F. Ellison and a polo practice for both juniors and seniors. Boys and girls under the age of eighteen years, who would like to play water polo, are asked to get in touch with Bill Findlay, telephone 3274R. No knowledge of the game or previous playing experience is necessary.

TENNIS TEAMS WILL BATTLE

Langford and C.P.R. Clubs Meet Sunday in First Game of League Play-offs

The Langford Tennis Club and the C.P.R. Tennis Club will meet on Sunday in the first playoff game of the third division of the Vancouver Island Tennis League. A meeting yesterday evening served to complete the arrangements. The winner will meet Duncan in the finals.

The first encounter will be played on neutral hardcourts and will be played either at the Victoria Tennis Club or at the Kingston Street Tennis Club. The matches will be the best two of three sets in the men's, women's and mixed doubles while the opponents will meet once in the doubles and twice in the mixed doubles.

As a means of winding up the season, the league will hold a dinner on Wednesday, October 1. At that time trophies will be presented to the winning teams.

N.B.A. Seeking to Control All Boxing By New Ultimatum

Association Passes Ruling Barring Boxers in Bouts in Non-member States in U.S. From Participating in Member States; Seek to Force Outlaw States Into Organization; Wrestling and Boxing Divorced; John V. Clinnin Is New President.

Omaha, Neb., Sept. 17.—The National Boxing Association moved to gain control of the boxing industry in the United States yesterday by barring boxers in bouts in non-member states from participating in member states.

This action was taken by the adoption of a resolution as the annual convention drew to a close, Stanley M. Isaacs of Cincinnati, retiring president, revealed.

The resolution reads in effect:

"After January 1, any boxer that performs in New York, California, Pennsylvania or Massachusetts (not members of the N.B.A.), will not be used in the N.B.A. states."

It was the opinion among delegates open warfare would be averted through those states not now members of the N.B.A. joining hands with the association states.

On its last day the convention also decided to divorce wrestling and boxing. This decision was followed by organization of a national wrestling association with headquarters in New Orleans, and with Colonel Harry J. Landry of Mississippi as president.

NAME NEW PRESIDENT

In electing the N.B.A. heads, the association selected John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois Boxing Commission, as president, to succeed Isaacs.

Following the election the N.B.A. voted to establish permanent headquarters in Chicago and instructed Clinnin to organize a working force with a full-time secretary.

With selection of Detroit as the 1931 convention city, the delegates ended the 1930 session.

TONY MANERO WINS TOURNEY

Scores 276 For 72 Holes; Sarazen and Cruickshanks Tie For Second

Glens Falls, N.Y., Sept. 17.—Tony Manero, young Elmsford, N.Y., pro, who has led many golf tournaments at the half way mark, but few of them at the end, has reformed.

Tony shot rounds of 68 and 69 yesterday to win the Glens Falls open tournament by four strokes with a seventy-two-hole total of 276. He got 67 and a 72 on the first day of the tournament.

Tied for second place with 280 were Gene Sarazen of Flushing and Bobby Cruickshank of Purchase, N.Y., Sarazen, well back after rounuds of 76-76-72, finished up with a sensational 68 to tie Cruickshank, whose four rounds were 73-67-70-69.

First place was worth $1,000 and second $500.

AL KARASICK IS MATCHED WITH MANUEL

Winner to Meet Kruse in a Finish Bout September 20; Brooks Matched

Al Karasick who last week defeated Paul Wilkins in a bout here and the previous week wrestled to a draw with Bob Kruse has been matched with Joe Manuel, Portuguese champion, in the main event of Saturday evening's show at the Tillicum gymnasium. The heavyweights will wrestle eight ten minute rounds or less.

Manuel has appeared here previously gaining what appeared an easy decision over Martin Zikov two weeks ago. The Portuguese is strong and clever and can absorb plenty of punishment. Karasick is classed as one of the strongest men in the game and knows plenty of tricks.

The winner of Saturday's bout will meet Bob Kruse in a bout to a finish on September 20 at the local gymnasium.

In the semi-windup "Rocky" Brooks, Victoria, will clash with Louis Miller, San Francisco. Miller will be making his first appearance in a local ring.

Berg-Glick Bout Is Postponed On Account of Rain

New York, Sept. 17.—Rain caused postponement until Thursday night of the Queensboro Stadium's boxing show, scheduled for yesterday evening. Jack (Kid) Berg, English lightweight, was to have met Joe Glick, of Brooklyn, in the main bout.

ENTERTAIN JAPANESE RUGGERS

Visiting Nippons and Victoria Officials Entertained By Japanese Association

K. Ishii Extends Welcome to Countrymen; Musical Programme Rendered

Members of the visiting Japanese rugby team and officials of the Victoria Rugby Union were the guests of the Victoria Japanese Associated at a reception held yesterday evening at the City Temple Hall. The function was well attended and was a great success.

The banquet opened with the singing of the Canadian and Japanese national anthems. V. Kuwavara, chairman, extended a welcome to the guests, following which those present enjoyed a sumptuous repast.

K. Ishii, pioneer Japanese resident of Victoria, in a few well chosen words welcomed his countrymen to the capital city on behalf of the Victoria Japanese Association. He spoke of the bonds of friendship that would result from the visit of the rugby team, and congratulated the players on their success in Vancouver matches.

M. Kuwayara welcomed the team on behalf of the Japanese Young Men's Association, following which the younger members rendered a song.

T. Kawami, manager of the team, responded on the visitors' behalf, thanking the Victoria Japanese for their hospitality in entertaining them.

H. J. Ketchen, secretary of the British Columbia Rugby Union, and V. L. Denton, president of the Victoria Rugby Union, gave short addresses, thanking the Japanese Association for the honor of attending the function.

During the evening two violin solos were rendered by Miss Koyama.

A pleasing feature was the presentation of two beautiful baskets of flowers to the Japanese team by the chairman as the gift of Brown's Victors Nurseries, who congratulated the team for their three victories in Vancouver. Mr. Kawand thanked Brown's on behalf of the team.

Medal Tourney Won By Mrs. Watson At Victoria Golf Club

Turning in a net score two strokes lower than Mrs. C. E. Wilson, Mrs. A. M. Watson won the thirty-six-hole A Class medal competition at the Victoria Golf Club yesterday. The winner turned in a gross 183, which her handicap of 34 reduced to 149. Mrs. Wilson's score was 191-40-151.

The first eighteen were played on September 9.

Miss Benson, Mrs. King and Mrs. Seatle were tied for first place in the B Section, all having scores of 150. Miss Benson had the lowest gross, checking in with 94.

Great Ten-inning Victory Gives St. Louis Lead Again

Douthit's Single Shoves Brooklyn Out of Top Place

Cardinals Regain National League Leadership by Single Percentage Point Over Robins; Bill Hallahan and Dazzy Vance Engage in Brilliant Pitchers' Duel; New York Giants Turn Back Cubs Behind Fine Pitching of Carl Hubbell; Athletics Continue to Move Closer Towards American League Pennant.

When two "teams of destiny" get together for an important series, something is bound to happen that will justify the interest that baseball fans everywhere are taking in the current clash between Brooklyn and St. Louis.

For ten innings yesterday these teams, with the great Dazzy Vance and brilliant Bill Hallahan on the mound, battled for supremacy and the Cards finally won out, 1 to 0, to take first place in the standing by the margin of a single point. The league's four contenders to-day stand this way:

	W.	L.	Pct.
St. Louis	83	60	.580
Brooklyn	84	61	.579
Chicago	82	62	.569
New York	79	65	.549

Despite the efforts of Vance, Brooklyn's winning streak of eleven games came to an end in perhaps the most thrilling game of the season. Dazzy fanned eleven Cards and gave them only seven hits, but a double by Pinch-hitter Andy High and a single by Taylor Douthit came in the tenth with Hallahan's sacrifice in between and produced the only run of the game.

GIANTS HANG ON

Carl Hubbell, Giant southpaw, combined the virtues of both of these duellists to give New York a 6 to 0 victory over the Chicago Cubs in a less important but still "crucial" series opener. Hubbell yielded only three hits and fanned ten to keep the Giants more or less in the race and prevent a Cub advance.

In the other National League clash, after ten long innings of slugging, Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh, 15 to 14. A triple play, Chuck Klein's thirty-fourth home run and the nine-run tenth inning stood out from the mass of hits.

In the American League, Philadelphia Athletics continued to move pennantward by taking a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox while their only rivals, the Washington Senators were kept idle by rain at Cleveland. With Mose Grove turning in his twenty-seventh victory of the season, the A's won the first game, 6-4, when they bunched their hits in two big innings behind Bill Shores, to take the second by a 10-2 count.

New York Yankees and St. Louis put on nearly two and a half hours of slugging and the Yankees came out on the long end of a 19-10 score.

With big Dale Alexander heading the attack, Detroit defeated Boston Red Sox, 7-3.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Brooklyn, Sept. 17.—By their 1 to 0 triumph over Brooklyn in yesterday's great pitching duel, the St. Louis Cardinals regained a game they had lost and again took first place by the slender margin of one point over the Robins. The teams are practically on even terms, Brooklyn having won one more game than St. Louis and lost one more. The Robins likewise have fewer games to play than any of the four contenders with only nine left, while St. Louis has the greatest number left, eleven. The third-place Chicago Cubs, although shut out, 7 to 0, by the New York Giants, remained only one and a half games behind the first place and well within striking distance of the top. The Giants, picking up a full game, still are four and one-half games back of first place.

They have been defeated five more times than St. Louis, however, and have a hard struggle ahead of them to remain in the race.

Karel Kozeluh And Vin Richards Win In Pro Tournament

Forets Hills, N.Y., Sept. 17.—Form held its own at the opening of the fourth annual United States professional lawn tennis championship yesterday as Karel Kozeluh, of Czechoslovakia, defending champion, and Vincent Richards, of New York, advanced without trouble.

Kozeluh eliminated Captain Valerian Yavorsky, a one-time Russian nobleman now coaching at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., 6-1, 6-0, 6-0, while Richards put out two rivals, John Collom, of Baltimore, 6-1, 6-4, 7-5, and John Cardgena, Ardsley, N.Y., 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

The field of sixteen survivors went into action in the third round to-day, and the first round of doubles also will be played.

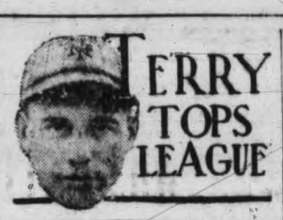
TERRY TOPS LEAGUE



The threat against Bill Terry's batting supremacy in the Big Six and the National League subsided a bit yesterday as the Giant slugger added another point to his mark with two hits in four times at bat, going to .405, while his rival, Babe Herman, dropped two points to .396 as he failed to get a hit in four trips to the plate. Chuck Klein and Lou Gehrig also registered one-point gains, holding their tie at .384, as Klein made three hits in five tries and Gehrig hit two out of three. Al Simmons slipped badly, hitting only twice in nine attempts and losing three points, while Babe Ruth dropped one point with one out of four.

Former Manager Of Jack Dempsey Dead

New York, Sept. 17.—John J. Reisler, known in sporting circles as "John of Barber," manager of Jack Dempsey before he became heavyweight boxing champion, died in a hospital Monday of an infection caused by an ingrown hair in a finger.

He had been in hospital three weeks. Funeral services will be held in Brooklyn to-day.

Reisler came into the public eye through his long litigation over the management of Dempsey after Dempsey won the championship. He contested the right of Jack Kearns to manage Dempsey, claiming a prior contract.

SHOOTING WITH SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

Bunker shots aren't really hard shots at all, if you go up to them with confidence. That, to you players who hate the traps, may be a bit of pleasant information.

Confidence in playing bunker shots comes from only one thing—experience gained by practice.

Seldom is a golf player seen out on the course practicing shots out of traps. If you ever do encounter one, chances are that he is the best player in the club, or at least one of its stars. And because he practices those strokes is one very good reason why he's in the top flight.

It is almost impossible for the average player to get in an eighteen-hole round without getting into the bunkers a time or two. If you can't play that kind of a shot well, all manner of unpleasant things happen to your score.

Absolutely the only way to gain confidence in playing a shot out of a bunker is to practice it. Of course, it is best to stay out of traps—but the best ones get in them sometimes. And because they have practiced the stroke, they usually make a remarkable recovery.

Victoria's Women Golfers Will Seek City Championship

Annual Tournament Will Commence at Uplands Course Monday With Eighteen-hole Qualifying Round; Mrs. B. R. Philbrick Will Defend Title; Entries Close on Friday; Uplands Course Will Be Open to Competitors on Friday.

With the best of Victoria's women golfers competing, the annual city golf championship will get under way at the Uplands Golf Club on Monday morning when the eighteen-hole qualifying round will be played. Entries for the championship, accompanied with entry fee, must be in the hands of the tournament committee by Friday. The draw will then be made for Monday's round.

On Friday the Uplands course will be open to competitors who wish to familiarize themselves without the eighteen-hole-layout.

One of the favorites for the title will be Mrs. B. R. Philbrick of the Victoria Golf Club, defending champion. Mrs. Philbrick won the title over the Oak Bay course last year defeating Marjorie Todd in the finals. Besides the city championship Mrs. Philbrick also holds the Colwood and Victoria club titles.

OTHER STARTERS

Other sure starters in the championship are such well known players as Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Hutchison, Mrs. Wilding, Mrs. Parry, Mrs. Cecil Eve and Marjorie Todd.

In Monday's qualifying round the low sixteen will qualify for the championship flight, with match play getting under way on Tuesday. The defeated eight in the first round will compose the first flight, while the other players will be placed in flights according to the number of entries.

G. WHITE IS MEDALIST IN JASPER GOLF

New York Golfer Scores a 73 to Nose Out Freddie Wood By a Stroke

Victoria Golfers Qualify; British Columbians Win Team Competition

Jasper Park Lodge, Alta., Sept. 13.—Gardiner White, popular New York sportsman, showing a return to the form expected of him, turned in a score of 73 here yesterday morning to win the medal in the qualifying round of the fifth annual totem pole amateur golf tournament. His score was three over par for this difficult championship course and called for smart golf. Freddie Wood, of Vancouver, who gave Eddie Held such a battle in the Canadian amateur championship last year, was runner-up with a card of 74 which included two sixes.

The entry for this competition is so representative this year with 124 men and forty-eight women that the winners of the various events will be unofficially looked upon as the western Canada champions. A splendid field is competing and with all below 88 in the championship round, the eventual winner will feel justly entitled to assume this honor.

In the women's qualifying round, Miss Jacques of North Battleford with a card of 102 won the qualifying medal, with Mrs. Maddocks of Edmonton runner-up a stroke behind. The team match which created so much interest was won this year by the British Columbia number one aggregation with a total medal score of 519. Alberta number one team was in second place with 530, with the eastern United States team third, and the Pacific Coast United States team fourth.

Play in the men's qualifying round was very interesting. Jack Starky of Edmonton was the first low score in with an 80, his "Calamity Jane" putter was not in good working form and added many strokes to an otherwise low score. He four putted four greens.

WOOD IN TROUBLE

Then came Freddie Wood, the long-hitting youth from Vancouver. His card was 74, and it looked good enough to take the medal. Freddie also had plenty of trouble. He missed short putts for birdies on four holes and on the short twelfth played very badly for a six. On the sixteenth, where the lake folds across in front of a trickily laid out green, he got into further trouble when his approach fell inches short of landing on the green. It cost him another six.

Freddie was partnered with Dixie Fleager of Seattle, who is an outstanding figure in golf circles on the Pacific Coast. Dixie, however, could do no better than an 80. Roy Campbell of Seattle and F. A. Llewlyn of Chicago, a former Dartmouth football star, were expected to offer some fireworks. Campbell was the better of the two, with a 77 going out in 35 and coming home in 42. Llewyn had an even 80, forty both ways.

Gardiner White paired with Ted Blackwell, one of England's outstanding golfers, was the next centre of interest, and word trickled down that he had a 63 at seventeenth. He sliced his third a 68 at seventeenth. He sliced his of the fairway, but made a remarkable recovery shot to the back of the green. He then learned that Wood was low with 74, so he played the hole for a safe five, three putting it to cinch the qualifying medal. White went out in 34 and came home in 39.

VICTORIANS QUALIFY

Harry Jones, original winner of the totem pole trophy, turned in a card of 81. This position he shared with Ben Cool of Calgary, runner-up to Gardiner White last year. George Black Jr. of Winnipeg had an 84, sharing the place with G. E. Baird of Long Island, New York, and Alex Straith of Victoria. J. H. Wilson of Victoria had an 85.

The flight play occupied the men's golf this morning, while in the afternoon the women started their first round.

LADY GOLFERS TIED FOR CUP

Special to The Times

Duncan, Sept. 17.—The lady medalists of the Cowichan Golf Club played for the cup presented by Mrs. W. B. Harper in competition on the links here on Monday afternoon. The result was a tie between Miss P. Hogan, handicap 20, and Mrs. F. H. Price, handicap 33, their net score being 77. These two ladies will have to re-play the match next week. Those eligible to take part on Monday, having won the monthly medal on one or more occasions during the year, were: Mrs. F. H. Price, Mrs. Morten, Mrs. A. C. Johnston, Mrs. A. A. Easton, Mrs. A. H. Peterson and Miss P. Hogan.

At the conclusion of the match tea was served by Mrs. W. B. Harper.

The men medalists of the Cowichan Golf Club will play off for their finalists' cup on Sunday next. Those eligible to take part are: Messrs. H. E. Heslip, H. W. Evans, H. Talbot, G. Craig, E. W. Car-Hilton, G. Prevost, A. H. Paterson, G. Andrews, J. Droob, W. B. Harper, A. Leeming and T. Kingscote.

Gentlemen:

I am the proud father of an eight year old son. He is very fond of Life Savers and, being indulging, I make a habit of bringing his a package every evening.

On arising the other morning, I noticed his eating a Life Saver.

"What? Eating candy before breakfast? You know better than that!"

My "young hopeful" looked at me in surprise and answered, "Why, Dad, I thought you knew that Life Savers make your breakfast taste better - try one and see!"

I did and I learned an amazing thing. Life Savers take away that early morning "dark brown" taste, soothe the throat sweeten the breath and actually do stimulate your appetite for breakfast. Every morning now, while shaving, I enjoy a Life Saver or two.

Very truly yours,

W.C.T.U. OPEN B.C. SESSIONS

Mrs. J. A. Gillespie, Provincial President, Reviews Liquor Situation

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—The forty-seventh convention of the Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union opened yesterday morning at Chown United Church with the president, Mrs. J. A. Gillespie, in the chair. Reports of departments were received, and in the afternoon the president gave her address.

Gathered to review the past year's work with an inventory of successes and failures, preparatory to beginning another year's effort, the members were keenly interested in Mrs. Gillespie's address, for she stressed the responsibility of all members, not only to the cause, but to the provincial union.

"We hope that as an outcome of our deliberations here, plans will be formulated whereby we will be able to increase our efficiency in relation to the work of our many departments," said the president, who spoke of the status accorded liquor in the legalized business world, higher than the former licensed saloon had ever attained. She mentioned that the late Dominion president, Mrs. Gordon Wright, had said in her last presidential address, that the workers were looking to British Columbia for improvement in the situation. Mrs. Gillespie remarked that the spirit of pioneer W.C.T.U. workers had been likened to that of Joan of Arc who, with her sacred sword, her consecrated banner and her belief in her mission, sent a thrill of enthusiasm through the whole French army such as neither king nor statesman could produce.

Education and legislation were two means emphasized by Mrs. Gillespie to secure improvement in the present situation and believed that there is no organization better equipped than the W.C.T.U. to carry on this suggested line of work.

Secretaries' reports were presented by Mrs. G. M. Lanning, Mrs. W. A. Williscroft and Mrs. Bevan, while Mrs. C. Yapp's financial statement was received by the delegates. Yesterday evening a playlet by the L.T.L. members, "The Medicine Shelf," was given, and the address by Dr. Willard Brewing.

ORPHEUS TRIO TO PLAY HERE

Musical Art Society Plans Interesting First Concert For October 7

The board of directors of the Victoria Musical Art Society has been most energetic during the summer months, and has been preparing the programme for the entire season's work. The first concert will take place on Tuesday evening, October 7, at the Shrine Auditorium, and a musical treat is in store for those who attend this opening recital. The board has secured "The Orpheus Trio" of Vancouver, under the direction of Margaret McCraney Fergusson, a distinguished violinist, who is well known in Victoria.

The trio consists of Margaret McCraney Fergusson, violinist; Mildred Johnson, 'cellist, and Alberta Maxwell King, pianist. Each of these ladies is outstanding in her particular role, and as a trio they having been doing very fine work in Vancouver during the past season.

The regular concert programmes of the society will be held at the Shrine Auditorium on the first Tuesday evening and third Tuesday afternoon of each month for the next nine months, and members are admitted to the eighteen concerts for the price of their membership ticket. Guest tickets may be obtained through members which will admit one to an individaul programme, but there will be no general admission to the public for any concert.

It is hoped that large numbers of people interested in the growth of music and art in Victoria will become members of this society. Membership tickets may be had by applying to the secretary, Mrs. T. H. Johns, 27 Olympia Avenue, or at Fletcher Bros., on Saturday, October 4, and Monday, October 6.

NEW RANGES RETAIN HEAT

By WILLIAM H. BALDWIN

There are gas, kerosene and gasoline ranges. In any range, the things of most importance are its ability to retain heat and also its ability to control the heat in the oven.

Most old-fashioned ranges are lacking in these qualities. Here are the specifications of what might be called an ideal gas range, which should guide the shopper in making her purchase.

The metal frame should be of sufficient weight and thickness to make for a sturdy product. All the joints are rounded. All connections are concealed. There are no rough corners. The range is fitted with a heat control so that the temperature of the oven can be regulated depending upon the heat required in any operation. The oven is insulated so that heat doesn't escape into the kitchen, which would be a waste of heat and would make the kitchen uncomfortably hot.

GUIDE CAMP WAS POPULAR

Reports of Its Success Given at Local Association Meeting Monday

Reports on the summer camp and suggestions for next year's camp and also for new headquarters in town constituted the principal business discussed at the monthly meeting of the Victoria District Girl Guide Association, held on Monday evening at the Langley Street headquarters. Miss Wigley presided. A standing vote of sympathy was passed to Miss Leighton, on the death of her mother.

Miss McLaren reported on the excellency of the Rangers' Camp. Miss Gale gave a detailed account of the varied activities of the Guides at camp. Thanks to the kindness of Mrs. Bradley-Dyne, Mrs. Charlesworth, Mrs. L. A. Genge, Mrs. Newse and mny others whose generosity helped to make the stay in camp a success, a delightful time was enjoyed by all. Miss Wigley tendered thanks of the association to Miss Stirling and Miss Gale for their splendid management. Miss Leighton's report on the condition, suitability, etc., of the various camps was read.

The treasurer's report showed a balance of $207 after the loan to the camp equipment fund is repaid. Suggestions were put forward as to the advisability of purchasing tents and other equipment for next year's camp. The members were asked to investigate the question of suitable sites, for a camp near the city, which could be used at the week-end by Guiders and Rangers as a training centre. Mrs. G. A. Phillips thought with several others, that the most urgent need was for new town headquarters and a committee was formed to look into that question.

A resolution was passed approving the step taken by the local council of women in urging the purchase of Canadian goods and Empire products. The yearly swimming competition will be held in the Crystal Garden, sometime in November, Miss Leighton having accepted the convenership for the event, which is being looked forward to with pleasure by all the companies.

Gladioli Tea Aids Funds Of Reformed Church

Gorgeous spikes of gladioli in every shade lent color to the attractive tea held at the Cridge Memorial Hall yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the ladies' aid of the Church of Our Lord, Reformed Ep. copal, when a substantial sum accrued to their funds. Miss Murray, the president, received the guests; Mrs. Shandley and Mrs. F. Shandley were in charge of the flowers, an abundance of which had been presented by C. S. McTavish; Mrs. S. G. Lupton and Mrs. G. A. Turner had supervision of the home-cooking stall; and tea was in the capable hands of Mrs. W. G. Monaghan, Mrs. E. Heddle and Mrs. D. C. Hughes, assisted by the Misses Hunt, Raper, Creech, Target, Margaret Hughes and Masters R. Heddle and H. Reynolds. Mrs. H. S. Timberlake became the possessor of a box of notepaper as the result of winning a guessing competition. Miss A. Pawcett sold the tea tickets.

Astonishing Guns Shoot Food to Eat

HERE are wheat and rice grains shot from guns! To give them a new deliciousness... a more perfect digestibility.

First the choice, plump grains are sealed in guns. Then revolved in fiery ovens. Then fired. This causes 125 million explosions in every grain. It blasts open every tiny food cell. Thus every particle of the grain is made as completely digestible as though it had been cooked for hours. And so Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice attain the virtual nourishment of hot cooked cereals.

And what new flavoriness ... what delicious, crisp crunchiness ... this wonderful invention brings to wheat and rice. The grains are puffed to 8 times normal size. They taste like sweet new nutmeats. They entice as grain foods never have before.

Serve Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice every day in every way you can. Your family deserves this finer kind of nourishment. Your grocer has Puffed Wheat and Puffed Rice. The Quaker Oats Company.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

MRS. E. JEEVES DIED TUESDAY

Came to City in 1887; Active Member of City Temple Auxiliary

Mrs. Elizabeth Jeeves, a resident of Victoria since 1887, passed away yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. W. Richards, 2744 Prior Street, where she had made her home for the last eight years. The remains are reposing at the B.C. Funeral Chapel, where services will be held on Friday at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Mrs. Jeeves was born in Sandy, Bedfordshire, England, seventy-five years ago, and came to Victoria in 1887 with her husband, the late Allan Jeeves, who predeceased her eight years ago. She early associated herself with the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Church, which she attended for many years during the rectorship of Rev. W. W. Jenns. Shortly after the formation of the City Temple she transferred her activities to the ladies' auxiliary of the newer communit, and maintained an interest in this almost up to the last.

There survive five sons: J. A. Jeeves, F. W. Jeeves, E. Jeeves, Edmund Jeeves and Percy Jeeves; two daughters, Mrs. V. McNaughton, Rolfe and Mrs. P. W. Richards; one sister in Victoria, Mrs. R. Gaskell; two sister, Mrs. W. Dudley and Mrs. S. Townley; two brothers, John and William Mace, living in England; ten grandchildren, and one great-grandson.

First United Y.P.S. Held Service At Church Sunday

Last Sunday the evening service at First United Church was conducted by the Young Peoples' Society. Two interesting addresses on "The Quest of Youth" were given by Neil Perry, a member of the society, and Ray McCleary, a senior theological student of Emmanuel College, Toronto. Assisting them in the service were John Gough, George Gordon and John Taylor. Following the service a reception for all the young people was held in the Sunday School hall, where a hearty welcome was extended to the many strangers present. A sing-song led by George Gordon was much enjoyed, and during the evening Miss Marjorie Watson rendered a solo.

Mr. McCleary received the grateful thanks of the young people for assisting them in their first service of the winter season. Refreshments were served at the end of the evening by the social committee.

On Monday, September 22, the opening social of the Young Peoples' Society will be held. An attractive and varied programme has been arranged by the social committee. Novel features will be introduced, and a real welcome will be given to all old and new members.

St. John's Guild.—The opening fall meeting of St. John's Guild was held on Monday afternoon, with Mrs. J. N. Forde presiding. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were received and adopted. It was decided to hold the annual harvest supper in the schoolroom on Monday, October 6. The members of the guild in conjunction with the other church organizations plan to hold a two-day bazaar on Wednesday and Thursday, December 3 and 4.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

STEPMOTHER'S TASK NOT EASY ONE

One of life's major tragedies is a stepmother's anxiety to do her very best for the child in her care, and the sometimes deplorable results which come about because of her diligence and conscientiousness plus her real lack of love for the child. The latter is something over which no one has much control. To love the father does not necessarily mean that one will love his child; and a stepmother takes her first big forward step when she puts discipline, even efforts at training, into the background until she has managed to win the child's affection. After that, discipline takes its rightful place in the household, not as an aim in itself but as a natural part of living.

Making a child over—erasing all of his visible faults—is difficult enough for a mother. Many times it is a hopeless job for a stepmother, who must work against the child's own antagonism and jealousy because of the father's divided affection and the stepmother's advent in the household.

ANTICIPATING PROBLEMS

"Within a few months I am going to marry a widower with a two-year-old girl," Miss E. writes. "I am anxious to do right by this child and be fair. I think many parents unfair to their children, but there are so many problems. What shall I do about bed wetting? About running away? About a refusal to obey and her insistence on touching things she should not? I don't believe in spanking, bribing or coaxing, for I have seen all these tried with indifferent results, but I am so helpless and know so little about children, though I am eager to do the right things.

"Will you please help me?"

I am more than glad to help you, but do not anticipate troubles. There is no use in answering problems until the problem arises. The one thing most profitable for you to do in these next two months is to read and learn all you can about children as a whole, their habits, their natural activities and their commonplace behavior problems. Those you have mentioned are typical of the child from two to four. Our leaflet son "Obedience and Discipline," "The Touching and Curious Period," and "Bed Wetting" answer them in detail. These may be obtained by any reader for just a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

CONSTRUCTIVE TRAINING

These are all temporary problems of the pre-school child, which evaporate easily if the mother makes no drastic efforts to punish the child, but instead bends her efforts toward constructive training that is opposed to them. Thus bed wetting usually ends when the child has good dry habits in daytime. The runaway child can be helped by freedom to walk out daily, going where she chooses, with the mother right beside her. Obedience is to be expected when the commands are not so numerous, petty and tyrannical that no child can carry them out and live happily. The touching and curious period is merely indicative of the child's interest in everything about him, and is managed by teaching him how to handle the things he lives with or substituting similar interests, rather than resorting to punishment.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mrs. H. H. Hughes entertained yesterday afternoon informally at the tea hour at her home on East Saanich Road, Elk Lake.

Delegates to the Kiwanis convention journeyed out to "Benvenuto," Tod Inlet, yesterday afternoon on a visit to the beautiful gardens at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart. In the absence of the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. McAdie received the guests, who wandered throughout the grounds, expressing their admiration at the wealth of bloom and gorgeous fall colorings. During the afternoon Ernest Eve and Tom Kelway circled the grounds by airplane, dropping Canadian and American flags to the guests below. Through the kindness of the Rotary Club, forty-two cars were placed at the disposal of the Kiwanians, and transportation arrangements were in the hands of William Luney. A delightful feature of the afternoon was the singing by the Seattle Quartette, who have won great popularity during the convention. The visitors returned to town in time for the banquet at the Empress Hotel, and later repaired to the Crystal Garden, where the aquatic sports were followed by dancing in the north and south ballrooms.

About twenty members of Fairfield choir paid a surprise visit on Monday evening to the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jones to bid them farewell on the eve of their departure from Victoria. During the evening Major W. H. Watts, in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. C. Warren, read an address from the choir regretting the necessity of their removal from Victoria. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have been valued members of Fairfield choir for about three years, and their only daughter, Miss Norma Jones became a member early in the spring for this year. Mrs. Hugh Nixon voiced her regrets, and wished them God speed, to which Mr. Jones responded. Two duets were played by Miss Olive Campbell and Major Watts; games were indulged in and a miniature musical festival with combs as instruments for men only was very amusing. J. Knight was first with 100 marks, and W. T. Land scond with ninety marks. Refreshments were served and the evening brought to a close by singing together "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Kumtuks Glee Club Plan Tea For Mine Fund

To assist the fund for the relief of the families of the miners who lost their lives in the Blakeburn disaster, the Kumtuks Glee Club will hold a silver tea on Saturday afternoon, September 27, from 3 until 6 o'clock in the New Thought Hall, Fort Street. Mrs. S. F. Tolmie, wife of the Premier, has accepted an invitation to attend.

Metropolitan W.M.S.—The Metropolitan Woman's Missionary Society held its monthly meeting on Monday afternoon in the schoolroom. A good attendance responded to the rally to welcome the new pastor and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Scott. The president conducted the devotional period and the Bible reading was given by Mrs. J. A. Scott, Mrs. McLellan, from the Victoria Presbyterial, gave a talk on Christian Stewardship. A solo, "Spirit of God," was given by Miss Dorothy Parsons. Mrs. Koyl reported for the visiting committee eighty-seven calls made. Mrs. Ede reported for the supplies sent. Mrs. Lewis for the associated helpers work, and Miss Baker for the finance committee. Mrs. Dr. Scott brought greetings from the eastern societies. Dr. Scott gave an inspiring address, a challenge to the society to measure up to its reputation and opportunities for service among the young "new Canadians" was given particular emphasis.

Contralto Will Sing in Aid Of Blakeburn Fund

Touched by the sad plight of those who lost fathers, brothers and husbands in the recent Blakeburn mine explosion, Miss Ada Mylchreest, a British contralto of considerable note, will do her share in assisting the unfortunates, when she sings at the Coliseum Theatre Friday. Her singing will be an added attraction to the feature picture "Dynamite" on the screen there this week. A large portion of the proceeds from the Friday evening's performance will be devoted to the relief fund.

Small donations are still coming in to The Times office for the subscription list, which this morning stood at $853.50.

Although the amount already received has been very gratifying, a considerably larger sum is required to care for the families left without support.

Those who wish to add their gifts to the amount collected to date, are requested to send their donations in as soon as possible.

To-day The Times wishes to acknowledge the gifts of Archie Wilson, T. H. S., S. and A., J. S. O, and M.

Princess Ileana May Be Bride Of Spanish Prince

Bucharest, Rumania, Sept. 17.—It is reported in court circles that the Infante Alfonso of Orleans, Dowager Queen Marie's brother-in-law, who has arrived in the Roumanian capital by aeroplane, has undertaken the mission of sounding Queen Marie on the subject of a union between the Infante Alfonso, Prince of the Austrias, eldest son of the Spanish King, and Marie's daughter, the Princess Ileana.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

BY SISTER MARY

Sometimes even fresh fruit palls and a dessert is welcomed when it uses the fruit in such a way that a substantial pudding satisfies the whole family.

Rice combines excellently with all fresh fruits. The juice of fresh fruits sometimes acts on certain starches to cause them to liquify. But not so with rice. Rice absorbs the excess juice of the fruit and the pudding remains firm and appetizing.

Any dessert made with rice is of high fool value and, when the rice is cooked in milk as in the following recipe, vitamin A, protein, fat and lime are added to the carbohydrates of the rice.

The fruit gives mineral salts and has a decided tonic effect. Sugar, both the natural fruit sugar and the concentrated refined products, is supplied by the fruit mixture.

PEACH AND RICE COMPOTE

Four ripe peaches, ¼ cup rice, 2 cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons granulated sugar, 4 teaspoon raspberry jam, 1 cup jelly, ½ cup whipping cream.

Choose freestone peaches that are perfectly ripe and peel off skins. Cut a slice from stem ends and remove stones. Fill cavities with jam. Any kind can be used, but red raspberry is particularly delicious. Place peaches in a baking dish, cover and bake about 20 minutes.

The fruit should be hot through and tender but not broken. In the meantime, cook rice in top of double boiler over hot water. After washing rice through several waters, it's a good plan to let it soak in water to cover for several hours. Then add milk, salt and sugar and cook over hot water for one hour. Make a bed of rice on flat serving dish, arrange peaches on rice and garnish with cream whipped until firm. Serve hot with jelly melted and diluted with ½ cup water and thickened with 1 tablespoon cornstarch. This will serve four persons.

DAILY MENU

Dinner—Mock duck, new potatoes in parsley sauce, corn croquettes, cucumber and lettuce salad, apple pie, milk, coffee.

W.B.A. Review Met — The regular meeting of Queen Alexandra Review No. 1, W.B.A., was held Monday evening in the K. of C. Hall, Government Street, with the president, Mrs. Richetts, presiding. A good attendance of members welcomed Health Supervisor Mrs. Laura Le Gallais on her visit to Victoria and the president presented her with a beautiful basket of gladioli. The local review's annual banquet will be held in October, a definite report being given at the next meeting. At the close of the meeting a very interesting health lecture was given by Nurse Le Gallais, who is in Victoria to hold a three-day clinic for local members of the order, in the K. of C. Hall, Government Street. The next meeting will be held October 6 at 8 o'clock. After the lecture refreshments were served by Mrs. Trowsdale, Mrs. Laxton being convener.

Elect officers—At the home of Miss Mae Thomson, 1270 Dallas Road, Friday evening, the Pas-a-Pas Young Ladies' Bible Class of the First United Church held its regular monthly meeting. There were twenty-one members present, including the leader, Mrs. D. McKillop. Election of officers played an important part in the business of the evening, the results being as follows: President, Miss Winette Copeland; vice-president, Miss Winnie Ferriman; secretary, Miss Mae Thomson; treasurer, Miss Jessie Dron. After the meeting adjourned a social time was enjoyed by all, and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess.

Victoria West Silver Tea—The Victoria West United Church Ladies' Aid held a silver tea on Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors. After the business session a musical programme was very much enjoyed. The following contributed items: Mrs. Rees, Mrs. G. Mitchell, Mrs. Lewis, Miss Faith Coley, Miss Lily Painter. Delicious refreshments were served. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. F. Perry and Mrs. H. Watson. Committees were appointed for a sale of work to be held in the church hall on November 12.

KIWANIS ELECT H. M. DIGGON AS GOVERNOR

HAROLD M. DIGGON
past president of Victoria Kiwanis Club.

Harold M. Diggon was yesterday afternoon elected governor of Northwestern district of International Kiwanis, at the closing business session of the convention held at the Empress Hotel. Mr. Diggon defeated Clinton S. Harley of University Kiwanis Club, Seattle. A third nominee, George Erb of Lewiston, retired from the contest. Mr. Diggon has been divisional lieutenant-governor for the year just closed and is a past president of the Victoria Kiwanis Club. Eighty-four clubs participated in the balloting, each being represented by from one to three voting delegates. Tacoma was unanimously chosen as the convention city for 1931 when Seattle withdrew.

The nominating committee recommended a slate of lieutenant-governors, which was adopted without challenge. The new appointees were: District 1, Albert Hatzler, Port Angeles; District 2, Ray Sonnemann, Auburn; District 3, Al. Duenwald; District 4, Samuel M Mills, Wenatchee; District 5, Harry Whittier, Moscow; District 6, Phil Winans, Walla Walla; District 7, D. O. Webster, Peninsula; District 8, Scott Page, Salem; District 9, W. J. Crandall, Ashland, Ore.

DRASTIC ECONOMY

The resolutions committee was accorded unanimous support for a long array of resolutions, the principal resolution being in support of bi-annual International conventions, and drastic economy in administration of International headquarters. The convention also recorded approval of observance of fire prevention week by all clubs, registration by all members for the franchise with participation in elections by each individual and agreed that insufficient ceremony has marked naturalization of aliens and favored inquiry into possibility of providing an adequate ceremony.

A vote of appreciation was tendered International President Raymond Crossman for attending the convention and to Immediate Past-President Horace McDavid for his activity in Northwestern District. Charles F. Walker, retiring district governor, with his lieutenant-governors, and District Secretary Harold Jones were also tendered the thanks of the convention for their services. Rounds of applause greeted presentation of a vote of appreciation to the Victoria Kiwanis Club for unprecedented hospitality. Thanks were also ordered transmitted to the Rotary and Gyro Clubs, to Mayor Anscomb, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart, Dean Quainton, and the local newspapers.

Following the adjournment the delegates were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart at Benvenuto, Tod Inlet.

While the guests were in the gardens an airplane piloted by Ernest Eve and carrying Tom Kelway as a passenger, dropped the Canadian and United States flags.

The arrangements for the convention were organized by Mr. Diggon, the committee conveners being: Hotel reservations, Kenneth Ferguson; finance, L. A. Grogan; devotional service, P. A. Gibbs; entertainment, Tom Kelway; registration, Walter M. Walker; reception, Harry Beach; automobiles, W. A. Luney; exhibits, W. Revercomb; golf, C. W. Pangman; information, A. M. Kirk; decorations, F. Growhurst; Crystal Garden fete, Darrell Spence; governor's ball, C. E. Watkins; luncheons, J. W. Duncan and F. J. B. Stephenson; Tuesday banquet, E. H. M. Foot; convention sessions, S. J. D. Clack; Mr. Butchart's gardens, D. McAdie; breakfasts, F. Jordan.

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT" prevents that 'dragged-out' feeling in the morning

Acid stomach—that robber of sleep and rest—never attacks those whose inner systems are cleansed and sweetened by the daily draught of ENO.

If you want to know what a night of real rest is, just take a dash of ENO in a glass of water before retiring. Millions do this daily, because this gently effective, non-habit-forming saline is the deadly foe of constipation and all the ills that follow in its train.

Dominion W.A. Looks For 100,000 Members By 1935

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—The Women's Auxiliary of the Church of England in Canada has set a goal of 100,000 members by 1935. Possibility at attaining this objective was reviewed by Mrs. Gilbert Ferrabee of Montreal, in her presidential address to the forty-third annual meeting of the auxiliary here.

Bobby Jones On Golf

It is a quite natural thing for anyone writing or discoursing upon the ways and means of playing golf to devote some little attention to the way of an expert in controlling the shots. The temptation is irresistible to suggest how an intentional slice or hook can be brought off, and when writing of such things the preceptor, for fear that the value of his advice will be too much discounted, hesitates to admit that he ever for himself has any doubt concerning the success of such a shot. Some of us, I am afraid, try to give the impression that the difficulty of these strokes is only apparent, that they annoy us not a whit, and that we face them with quite as much assurance as the straightforward iron from the fairway.

John Duncan Dunn has remarked that one sees at an open championship precious few of these intricate shots, so blithely described. Unquestionably this is the fact, and in it is a great deal for the ordinary power to heed.

STRAIGHTFORWARD SHOT BEST

The straightforward shot is invariably the one to employ when anything of importance hangs on the result. When a great field starts out over the seventy-two-hole route, every one of them knows that a few strokes foolishly wasted may lose a coveted prize. You may be sure that none of them take any chances or employ any means of reaching the goal which has not been tried repeatedly, and found reliable. Competition has no time for experimenters.

When there is a chance of bringing off an exceptional shot the wise competitor always considers and appraises the penalty in case of failure. Thus on a par five hole after a long drive, the green may be so situated and other conditions such that a long sliced brassie shot afford the only means of getting home in two. It will not require long for the experienced eye to see the possibility. But just because the knowledge that he can intentionally slice a brassie shot is not enough to induce him to attempt the shot. The success of the shot depends entirely upon the amount of the slice and the length of the shot. The first thing to be thought of is what will be the cost of failure. If a mistake will likely have a simple pitch for a certain five and a possible four, the shot will be tried; but if the trouble to be encountered is at all severe, the safer course will always be favored.

DIEGEL USES INTRICATE SHOTS

So if the expert distrusts these shots how unwise it is to describe the manner of execution to a less accomplished player without a few words of caution. Some time ago I offered my explanation—I now offer the words of caution. It should be interesting to the average player to know what the better men are doing but he will be better off to let his interest stop there. Golf simplified and not full of complications beyond his ability is what he wants.

Leo Diegel is the only man I know who actually thrives on difficult shots. Diegel plays nearly every shot with a slight fade or draw—scarcely ever using a straight flying shot. And although I do not hesitate to say that Leo can do more with a golf ball than any man alive—he is still one of the most erratic of golf's great men. His inconsistency is almost entirely attributable to his preference for the more intricate shots.

Sayward

Sayward, Sept. 17.—The regular monthly meeting of the Sayward Women's Institute took place at the Community Hall last Thursday afternoon, Mrs. S. H. Dyer, president, occupying the chair.

It was agreed to have a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. M. Skogan, whose home was recently destroyed by fire. A collection of twenty-five cents from each member was voted towards the crippled children's fund, and a donation of $5 was voted towards the Sayward agricultural fair. A letter was read from the Department of Agriculture with reference to the per capita grant and discussed. Mrs. M. Walls, district nurse, read her report. There are still a few cases of whooping cough in the valley. Dr. Youlden, sent in by the Department of Health, was here for a week and overhauled all the children's teeth.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Vose of Sayward are being congratulated on the birth of a son on September 12 at Alberni.

Miss Evelyn Jennings took over the duties of teacher at the Upper Valley school in place of Miss M. Gladwell.

By the Union Ss. Cheakamus on Tuesday morning, Mrs. and May Sacht arrived home after seven weeks' absence. By this boat also came T. B. Danielson.

Beothic Returning From Hazardous Arctic Trip

Canadian Government Ship Will Soon Be Home After Voyage to Far North

Great Icebergs and Fields of Ice Retard Progress Near Ellesmere Island

Notwithstanding storms, heavy ice, and adverse winds, the work of reprovisioning the posts on the islands of the Canadian Arctic archipelago and making the annual patrol is proceeding. The steamer Beothic, which left North Sydney, Nova Scotia, with the Department of Interior's 1930 expedition in charge of George P. Mackenzie of the North West Territories and Yukon branch, has completed the northern leg of the voyage, and is now engaged in visiting the post on Devon and Baffin Islands. She will return to Montreal shortly.

The Beothic sailed on the evening of July 31 with a party of administrative officers, scientists, and members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, for a voyage which will cover approximately 8,000 miles before the ship return late this month. For the first part of the voyage through the Gulf of St. Lawrence and along the Labrador coast fair weather prevailed and good progress was made. However, when the ship turned eastward for the crossing to the Greenland coast, heavy storms were met and for many hours the staunch vessel was badly buffeted. Notwithstanding her heavy cargo, she weathered the gale and the expedition paid its usual call at Godhavn, the seat of the local Danish government, on the morning of August 7, remaining there until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. As in previous years the visit of the Canadian expedition was the occasion for a public holiday. The Parliament of North Greenland adjourned for the duration of the call. Governor and Mrs. Rosendahl and other Danish officials and their wives were the guests of the officer in charge of the expedition on board the ship. The Canadian and Danish officials discussed matters of mutual interest touching on the work in the Arctic. Dr. Porsild, who returned to Greenland from Canada on the Beothic, disembarked at Godhavn.

ALONG GREENLAND COAST

Leaving Godhavn, the ship headed northward along the Greenland coast on its dash to Bache Peninsula on Ellesmere Island, the farthest north post. The weather during this part of the voyage was reported as dull, with strong north winds, a moderate sea, and little ice but bergs. On August 10, the further progress of the Beothic was prevented by the ice which blocked Smith Sound. By 8 o'clock on the evening of August 11 she had worked her way through the barrier to Fram Havn, where the members of the Bache Peninsula detachment, Constables McLean, Beattie and Fraser were waiting to greet the expedition. Then began a five days' battle with the floes in Buchanan Bay in an unsuccessful attempt to reach Bache Peninsula.

Hours of following tiny leads, forcing openings, retreating, and advancing brought the Beothic within ten miles of the post on August 12 only to have the terrific pressure of the ice necessitate the withdrawal of the vessel to the protection of Fram Havn. Inspector Joy of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, on his annual tour of inspection, boarded a small boat and by taking advantage of the clear water between the shore and the grounded ice, was able to reach the post. However no amount of effort could bring the ship to its objective and on August 16, after reaching a point within fifteen miles of Bache Peninsula, where twelve tons of the supplies for the post were landed, the ship returned to Fram Havn, and hope of reaching the post was abandoned. The remaining supplies were unloaded at this point and the ship bade farewell to the three officers of Canada's most northerly police detachment.

ENCOUNTERS STORMS

Storms which swept the Beothic from stem to stern retarded the progress of the ship on her southward voyage through Smith Sound and Baffin Bay to the post of Dundas Harbor, Devon Island. The ship arrived at Dundas Harbor on August 19. After unloading supplies at this point the Beothic began the attempt to force her way westward through the ice to Winter Harbor, Melville Island. On the evening of August 21 the ship had reached Claxton Point, on the south coast of Cornwallis Island; on August 22 she had worked her way into Austin Channel about ten miles west of Cape Cockburn, Bathurst Island, where she was held in the grip of the immense ice pans moving south until August 24. On that date the ship was able to force her way a scant fifteen miles farther.

At 6 o'clock on the evening of August 25 the Beothic was five miles south of Cape Cockburn, evidently having had to change her position owing to the pressure of the ice. An easterly wind opened up a passage along Bathurst Island which was followed to Schomberg Point, but as no way could then be found around the impenetrable barrier to the west, the expedition was forced to abandon for this year the attempt to reprovision the cache at Winter Harbor.

The return trip was a desperate struggle to get clear of the tremendous pans of grinding, crushing ice in time to complete the round of the posts to the south. On August 26 the Beothic had reached Griffiths Island, south of Cornwallis Island and midway through Barrow Strait. The strait was full of ice through which the ship was forcing a way. On August 27 she was clear of the ice and heading for Pond Inlet, Baffin Island.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, Sept. 17.—Shipping business is suffering from an over supply of ships and not enough cargo, Captain Robert Dollar, eighty-five-year-old nestor of American maritime circles, said on his arrival here from San Francisco yesterday. Three luncheons are to be held in his honor here before he starts on his thirty-first trip to the Orient Saturday aboard the steamship President Grant.

The first full cargo of Washington fresh fruit for South America will be taken from here October 4, by the Blue Star liner Gaelic Star. She will carry 115,000 boxes of apples and pears to Rio de Janeiro, Santos and Buenos Aires.

Chartering of the Mitsui steamer Iwatesan Maru by the Canadian Transport Company of Vancouver to carry a full cargo of wheat and lumber from Puget Sound to the United Kingdom was announced here yesterday. The Iwatesan will clear from Vancouver for the sound, September 27. She will discharge Oriental cargo at Vancouver.

Around the Docks

The C.P.R. coast steamer Princess Norah returned to her berth at the Belleville Street Piers this morning from Esquimalt where she was docked in the Government basin for general overhaul by Yarrow's Limited. She will leave for Vancouver to-night and to-morrow night will sail on her trip around Vancouver Island with President E. W. Beatty and members of his party.

DISCHARGES CARGO

Arriving at the Ogden Point Piers from Montreal and Three Rivers at 1 o'clock this morning, work of discharging 150 tons of general cargo was commenced at 8 o'clock, and the ship proceeded to Vancouver shortly after noon. The freighter San Simeon which was at Ogden Point yesterday left last night for the mainland after taking on 1,000,000 feet of lumber here for the United Kingdom.

YACHTS HERE

The beautiful autumn weather, more like June than September, has brought coast yachtsmen out for a last cruise before tying up for the winter months. Over the week-end there were many visiting yachts in the Inner Harbor basin in front of the Empress Hotel and at Cadboro Bay. This morning there were still two neat pleasure craft in the Inner Harbor. They were the Alarwee from Seattle and the Vendovi of Port Madison.

ON WEST COAST

Returning to Victoria the coast steamer Princess Mary left Kyuquot village this morning at 8 o'clock. After calls at numerous ports along the coast she will return to Victoria early Friday morning. The Mary will take one more trip to the coast this year, sailing from Victoria on September 21, after which the schedule will be taken by the Princess Maquinna for the winter months.

OUT THIS WEEK

Outbound to the Orient two transpacific liners will sail from Victoria this week, one to-morrow and the other on Saturday. To-morrow's sailing will be taken by the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Asia which will arrive here from Vancouver about 4 o'clock in the afternoon and sail an hour later. On Saturday the American Mail liner President Grant will be here, arriving from Seattle at 4 o'clock and sailing two hours later for Yokohama.

SHIP DAMAGE CLAIMS FILED

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—Arising out of a collision in the Lion's Gate on May 27, and involving damage claims totaling $30,000, is an action which came to trial in Admiralty Court yesterday before Mr. Justice Martin.

Frank Waterhouse & Company of Canada Limited, claims $10,000 for the steamship Texada, and the latter's owners, Kingsley Navigation Company of California, in a cross action, claim $20,000 from the motorship Watco.

The 1,140 ton ship Texada, inward bound from New Westminster, Captain A. Tonnesen, master, collided with Frank Waterhouse & Company's 1,470 ton motorship Watco, whose master was Captain A. W. Ogden. The Watco was outward bound to Esquimalt. The collision occurred at 10.18 p.m., halfway between Prospect Point and Brockton Point.

Negligent navigation is alleged by Frank Waterhouse & Company against the Texada; a similar allegation is made by Kingsley Navigation Company against the Watco.

Hospital Rock Work Will Be Resumed

Drilling Will Commence To-morrow Morning on Making Inner Harbor Wider

When Rock Is Drilled Channel Will Be 170 Feet Wider and Water Much Deeper

Work on the drilling of Hospital Rock, long a menace to navigation in the inner harbor, will commence to-morrow morning, J. P. Forde, district engineer for the Department of Public Works at Ottawa, announced this morning in his office in the Post Office Building. The work will be done by the Northwestern Dredging Company of Vancouver, and will take until the end of the year, Mr. Forde said.

A. W. R. Wilby, agent for the Marine Department here, has sent out a notice to mariners advising that anchor cables will extend out from the plant for some distance and navigators are advised to govern themselves accordingly.

Work on taking away the silt and mud on the top of Hospital Rock was finished some months ago. Drilling will be done until the top of the rock is twenty feet below the surface of the water at low tide. This will give ships making the turn in the narrow basin an additional 170 feet in which to manoeuvre.

Hospital Rock, lying between the Industrial Reserve and Wharf Street, has long stood in the way of navigation in the harbor, making it both dangerous and uncomfortable for mariners in foggy weather. Even in clear weather a close watch has to be kept on the rock when backing up towards the Johnson Street Bridge. The Canadian Pacific Princess steamers are able to get out of the harbor in good weather without much bother from Hospital Rock, but the new Canadian National steamers, with their greater tonnage and depth, find the rock a great hindrance to a quick leave-taking of the harbor.

C.N. OFFICIAL ON AORANGI

Sydney Passenger Agent Here To-day on Way Home After Visiting Canada

Among the passengers who will arrive here this afternoon aboard the Canadian Australasian motorliner Aorangi, is G. F. Johnston, general passenger agent for the Canadian National Railways in Sydney, Australia, who is returning to his home "down under" after visiting for the last three months in Canada and the United States. Mr. Johnston is coming over from Vancouver to-day aboard the Aorangi and during the short lay-off of the ship at the Rithet Piers visited the city.

Mr. Johnston, who has been with the Canadian National passenger department in Australia for the last eight years, arrived in Victoria three months ago and since that time has visited all sections of the Dominion of Canada and a number of eastern United States cities in connection with his work in the southern Dominion.

He is well known to railway representatives along the Pacific Coast as he was for many years connected with the company's passenger department at Prince Rupert.

The Aorangi sailed at noon to-day from Vancouver and was expected at the Rithet Piers shortly after 5 o'clock. She will sail on the first lap of her voyage to Sydney about 8 o'clock this evening. There is a large list of passengers aboard. Several passengers will embark here this afternoon when the big ship arrives from Vancouver.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—With canned and dried fruits moving eastbound in vast quantities and all steamers in the trade being filled with these commodities, intercoastal operators are facing the problem of setting a November rate for lumber.

The lumber rate was fixed sometime ago at $8 for September and $9 for October. These prices were set when there was little or no lumber to be handled and operators expect the November rate to be $10 or $11 per thousand feet.

Miniature golf has invaded ocean liners.

Dollar Line officials announced yesterday a pee-wee course is being built here to be installed on the round-the-world liner President Fillmore which sails Friday. They also revealed miniature courses will be installed on all other Dollar vessels as rapidly as possible.

The liner El Salvador, which arrived here last Saturday was the first vessel to come into San Francisco Bay equipped with a miniature golf layout.

TWO ORIENT SHIPS WILL DOCK LATE

Empress of Canada and the Mishima Maru Are Delayed; No Word From Cleveland

Two inbound liners from the Orient have been delayed at sea and will dock here several hours late, the local agents have been advised from the masters of the ships. A third ship due late this week from the Far East has not yet reported her position, nor has her captain advised the time of arrival here.

The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada will not reach the William Head quarantine station until 8 o'clock Friday evening, about twelve hours behind schedule, Capt. A. J. Hailey, R.N.R., commander of the ship, sent this word by wireless this morning. No reason for the delay was stated. For Victoria the Canada has 130 tons of general cargo and several passengers from her first, second, third and steerage accommodations. It will be about 9.30 o'clock before she is alongside the Rithet piers. She will proceed to Vancouver at midnight, docking at the mainland port first thing in the morning.

The other ship delayed is the N.Y.K. liner Mishima Maru, which will not reach Race Rocks until early Saturday morning. She was originally expected on Friday. The Mishima will berth at the Ogden Point piers.

The third ship, now inbound from the Far East, is the American Mail liner President Cleveland which, as far as is known now, will reach the quarantine station at 5.30 o'clock Friday evening.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

Mariners are advised that drilling operations will be commenced on Hospital Rock, Victoria Harbor, B.C., on Thursday, September 18.

As anchor cables will extend out from the plant for some distance, mariners are warned to govern themselves accordingly.

Mariners are advised that the light at the new light and fog alarm station at Albert Head, Strait of Juan de Fuca, B.C., will be put in operation on or about September 17.

The characteristic will be a red flash every two seconds.

The time used is Pacific standard, for the 120th meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide add 18.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Songhees drydock add 30 feet to the height of high water as above given.

Women Played, Kibitzers Paid; Marathon Bridge Game Proved a Success

Mineola, N.Y., Sept. 17.—"Good gracious," sputtered 78-year-old Anna Seaman, "I was just beginning to get good hands. I never had such cards in my life."

Mrs. Seaman stifled a yawn. And well she might. She had been playing bridge for almost 35 hours, which, as your clock will tell you, is a period of time sufficient to play that "one more rubber" folks are always taking about.

But even though someone had trumped her partner's ace five times, everyone was still talking to everyone else.

It was the end of the great Mineola bridge marathon; that historic moment in endurance contests. Any man who has ever had his wife for a partner over a period of three hours will inform you how much one can endure in a single evening.

ALL HUSBANDS BARRED

The Mineola long distance bridge contestants did not play with their husbands. They were smart women. They wanted the game to last. Even then a deputy sheriff was on hand. He was not called upon. His only task was to keep peace among the kibitzers rather than the players.

Imagine playing for 35 hours with your husbands, sisters, sons-in-law, daughters and neighbors gaping on the sidelines and kibitzing for all it is worth.

"I really can't blame my partner for trumping out of turn the last few times," Mrs. Seaman can be quoted as saying. "She really was quite sleepy and probably couldn't play her cards very well. After three cups of coffee she played much better. And so did I."

All of the participants are quite aware of what they may have started. Humans who have been perched in trees for a thousand hours may come down; gents who have been waltzing for five months may suddenly turn off the band; hardy bicycle riders may dismount and rush to beat the 35-hour bridge record so proudly held for a moment by this New York suburb.

BRIDGING THEIR DIFFICULTIES

In case, in the rush of other endurance contests, you may have overlooked this one, here are the brief statistics:

The ladies of the Davison Republican Club hope to build a new clubhouse. Looking about for novelties by which money might be raised, they hit upon this card-playing endurance contest. The one question involved was whether kibitzers enjoyed kibitzing sufficiently to pay for the privilege. As everyone knows, the role of a kibitzer is a most gratuitous one; he volunteers offstage advice whether or not anyone wants it. Generally he just crashes in, willy nilly.

And here was a grand opportunity for kibitzers to run the entire critical gauntlet. For a small sum they could look over shoulders and make their classic comments:

"She should have led a heart. . ." "Why didn't the poor sap take her out in no trump . . ." "Imagine leading from a king . . ." "Well, if they hold long enough they may know something about the game. . ."

FRIENDS MARVEL AT RESTORATION OF MRS. LIPSETT

"No One Would Believe Any Medicine Could Do What Sargon Did For Me"

"The world seems friendly and a good place again, since I took Sargon, and I laugh and joke as I used to," recently stated Mrs. C. J. Lipsett, 1166 Pender Street, West, Vancouver, who is an active member of the Women's Auxiliary of Christ Church, and knits a great deal for charity. Mrs. Lipsett formerly resided in Nova Scotia for many years.

"I'm eighty-seven years of age, and the mother of eleven children, but I never knew an illness of consequence until a year ago when my nerves went to pieces. I had special nurses day and night for six weeks, but no one seemed able to find the cause of my trouble, and my nervousness increased. I couldn't sleep at night, the slightest noise would make me jump, and I became worried about my condition. My head was dizzy, and I took the strongest cathartics for my liver and constipation. I became so weak I couldn't go up stairs, or scarcely walk at all. I'd always been unusually cheerful, but I became irritable, everything put me out, and I felt that I had a quarrel with the whole world.

"No one would believe that at my age any medicine could relieve me as Sargon has. It went right to my troubles, and I felt better before I'd taken of my first bottle. My nerves are strengthened, I sleep fine, and I can get out and walk good distances with ease. It's wonderful to join my friends again, to visit and knit as I used to, and they marvel at my great improvement.

"Sargon Pills toned up my liver and relieved my constipation in the finest way, and their action is as gentle as nature itself. I hope my friends in Vancouver and Nova Scotia will read my statement, and that it will give them new hope and courage."

The Sargon man is at the Owl Drug Store, corner of Fort and Douglas Streets, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this celebrated new scientific product.

Sargon may be obtained in Victoria and Vancouver from all Owl Drug Stores; in New Westminster from the Bews Drug Company; in Esquimalt from Fulmer's Drug Store; in Oak Bay from Charles Hudson. (Advt.)

Future Artist Drew In His Schoolbooks

Henry Watrous's father was knitting his brows over his son's report from school. To be sure, it wasn't really bad, but, on the other hand, it certainly wasn't as good as his father thought it should be.

Henry shifted uneasily from one foot to another. "Surely," said his father, "your lessons are not hard for you. You ought to do much better than this."

As he spoke, he picked up one of the lad's books, lying on his study table. Suddenly his frown grew deeper. On the inside of the front cover there was a large sketch of one of Henry's friends. On the inside back cover there was a picture of a dog, seen through the schoolroom window.

Quickly, the father looked through all the other books. They were full of sketches, on all the blank pages. The father didn't notice that they were exceedingly well done for a boy of that age. "And there," he said, "is what you do with all your time in school!"

Henry Watrous, born in San Francisco, September 17, 1857, became a famous American artist.

C. MACDONALD, WELL KNOWN IN B.C., DIES

Former Sheriff of Vancouver Succumbs in Seventy-eighth Year

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—Death claimed one of Vancouver's best-known citizens at 8.30 o'clock this morning with the passing in the General Hospital of Charles Macdonald, for many years sheriff of Vancouver.

Mr. Macdonald, who was aged seventy-seven, broke his hip on May 23 and was admitted to the hospital next day. He did not recover from the injury and his condition gradually became worse.

In his duties as outside representative of the courts in the county of Vancouver, Mr. Macdonald was well and favorably known throughout the lower mainland. In northern British Columbia and in the Yukon he was also widely known, having been registrar of the Territorial court as far back as 1899.

RELIEVED IN 1929

Appointed to the position of sheriff in 1918 to succeed J. D. Hall of Victoria, Mr. Macdonald was forced to retire in 1929, due to ill health. He was succeeded by W. B. Cochrane.

Except for three years of his childhood spent in Invernesshire, where he was born, he lived all his life in Canada. He attended school in the county of Middlesex, Ont., where his family settled, and later became a student of Osgoode Hall, Toronto. He practiced law in Ontario until the early days of the Klondike gold rush.

Drawn to the Yukon in the excitement of that time, he went to Dawson City and in 1899 was made registrar of the Territorial court. Subsequently he was appointed public administrator and legal adviser to the Commission of the Yukon Territory, a position similar to that of Attorney-General.

In 1912 he came to Vancouver, where he had resided ever since.

WAS POPULAR

Pleasant and corteous, he was liked by all who came in contact with him. He was an ardent politician at one time and in 1921 unsuccessful contested the Vancouver South Federal riding.

Mr. Macdonald, who had been married forty-three years, is survived by the widow and three daughters, Mrs. F. H. Fitwell, of Chicago, and Mrs. T. E. Price and Mrs. M. Nicholason, of Vancouver. One sister, Mrs. W. J. Carson, of London, Ont.; five granddaughters and two grandsons also survive him.

Mr. Macdonald's only son, the late Alexander G. Macdonald, was a private in the Sixteenth Canadian Scottish Battalion and later a lieutenant in the 102nd North British Columbians.

The funeral service will be held Friday, at 2 p.m., in St. Stephen's United Church, Third Avenue and Vine Street, Rev. Gordon Dickie officiating. Interment will be in the family plot in Mountain View Cemetery.

Great Crowd Witnesses Opening of Fall Fair At Saanichton To-day

Hon. R. H. Pooley Officially Opens Sixty-second Annual Exhibition of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society; Finest Fair Yet Held; School Sports and Highland Games on To-day's Card; Judging Started Yesterday.

The sixty-second annual fall fair of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society was opened early this afternoon at Saanichton in the presence of a great number of people from various Island points. The opening ceremony was performed by Hon. R. H. Pooley. Premier Tolmie was to have performed the ceremony, but is out of the city, and Mr. Pooley officiated in his place.

Praising those who had been responsible for the success of the fair, Mr. Pooley referred to the great strides the association had taken and, he hoped, further expansion was ahead.

At the conclusion of Mr. Pooley's speech, the crowd inspected the various exhibits and watched the completion of the livestock judging.

Special events featured to-day's programme. Twenty races as part of the school sports were run off amid great excitement. The Highland sports proved just as popular with the spectators, and this was especially so with the piping competition for boys under twenty-one years, though the Highland flings and Irish jigs found their devotees as well.

UNUSUAL INTEREST

Yesterday was judging day at the fair, and prizes were awarded in all divisions except livestock and poultry. The judges not only praised the high quality of the various exhibits, but remarked upon the unusual quantity. Never before, they asserted, had so much interest been shown in the Saanich fair.

At one side of the main table running down the middle of the hall was a fine display of flowers, in which dahlias predominated. According to the judge, W. J. Shepherd, the annual and perennial dahlias, and the cut flowers were particularly good. Two of the most successful exhibitors in the flower section were Angus McKay and J. Sarsiat. The former carried off four firsts, and the latter three firsts in the dahlia sections.

FINE POTATOES

The judges in the fruit and vegetable section, E. W. White and P. W. Anketell Jones found most vegetable exhibits unusually good. The crop of potatoes came in for special commendation, and George Cliff, who won the special prize given by the South Saanich Farmers' Institute for the best exhibit of twenty-five pounds of potatoes, was complimented.

George Little carried off no less than fifteen first in the vegetable division and secured the J. W. Tolmie silver challenge cup, with a miniature donated by Premier Tolmie for the best table collection of vegetables. Second place in this entry went to H. Pistell, and third to George S. Polson.

In the grains, grasses and seeds section, the special prize denoted by Whitby and Blake, West Road, baling experts, for the best bale of timothy hay, went to W. D. Michell & Sons, who are extensive exhibitors at the fair.

A NORTH POLE CAKE

Women again play a very great part in the success of the fair. The women's exhibits, knitting and cooking, and the arranging of the exhibits, and even the flag display that hangs over the spectator's head, show much painstaking care. One iced cake shown has a North Pole aspect, for the icing has been constructed into an Eskimo igloo, outside of which the Arctic natives can be seen. Mrs. McMurdo, the domestic science judge, has words of praise for the culinary skill of the Saanich housewives and asserts that they are the few cookers who know how to make biscuits and rolls for exhibition.

The display of women's work was impressive. Both in quality and quantity last year's entry is surpassed. No particular entrant was outstanding as far as wins were concerned, but several women vied superiority with excellent exhibits in a number of classes. In embroidery work Margaret Michell earned two firsts and a second, while Alma L. Heyer won the prize for the best collection of six handkerchiefs with crochet edges. A novel prize won by Mrs. A. M. Bowman, was for the best garment made with flour or sugar

FARMERS SEE NO BENEFIT FROM TARIFF

Secretary of Ontario Association Says Bennett Reduces Purchasing Power

Manufacturers Indicate Conservative Tariff Increase Scheme to Their Liking

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 17.—J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, does not think the farmers will benefit from the tariff increases the Bennett Government is asking Parliament to enact.

"I may say I am surprised at the general budget announcement," he said. "The manufacturers may, perhaps, be taken care of, but the farmers have been disregarded and their purchasing power will be more depressed than ever."

MIDDLEMAN'S OPINION

The head of one of the largest distributors of dairy products gave his view that farmers had been treated exceptionally well under the tariff revision. The dairy industry, he said, had been given a new lease of life in this province.

Local dairy products distributors said the 8 cents British preference announced by Premier Bennett practically meant New Zealand butter would be ultimately barred from Canada. Butter that was selling in chain stores today at from 29 to 38 cents per pound would, when the new tariff rates were working effectively, probably jump to from 40 to 42 cents, it was estimated. This would mean the farmers would secure a higher price for their butter fat which they had been selling almost at a loss recently, according to Victor A. Hooper, general manager of a local creamery.

The new tariff enactment would prevent eggs entering Canada from the United States unless the Canadian product should sell at an unusually high price, said H. B. Hudson, Toronto produce broker.

George Valentine, vice-president of the local branch of the Massey-Harris Company, gave the opinion Canadian industry, particularly farm implement manufacturing companies, would benefit materially as the result of the new schedules.

"We will not feel the benefit immediately," he said. "It is necessary for us to carry large inventories and doubtless importers have on hand large stocks which they have to liquidate before the new tariff will begin to be effective."

TEXTILE PLANTS

Interviewed regarding the effects of the new tariff on the textile industry, a prominent manufacturer expressed his opinion that it would bring the reopening of a number of mills in Canada and would result in hundreds of men being brought back to a weekly pay envelope.

David C. Dick, president of the Canadian Woolen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association, claimed he could foresee a change in the adverse conditions which he said that industry had suffered during the last thirty years. The importation of knit goods would be stopped, he thought, and a new era opened up to the textile manufacturers.

From Galt, Preston, Dunnville, Renfrew and other centres where textile mills are located, statements were issued by company heads, predicting an increase in business and the consequent increase of staff.

GLASS PLANT

It is reported at Hamilton that the Libbey-Owens Sheet Glass Company of that city, which has been idle since the post-war years, may reopen.

One paper company president said his firm would soon be in a position to take on more men in the company's mills, some of which had been operating but three days a week.

CARPET FIRMS

Immediate business increases and greater employment was forecast by F. Harry Hayes, head of a local carpet company. He believed it likely his company might secure sufficient business to operate night staffs as a result of the benefit derived from the new tariff rates.

FARM IMPLEMENTS

Montreal, Sept. 17.—Col. H. Cockshutt, president of the Cockshutt Plow Company of Brantford, Ont., stated he was pleased with the Bennett Government's tariff increases. He voiced the view they would be of great future benefit to the country. "It is something the country has needed for a long time and should curtail the annual importation of millions of dollars' worth of farm implements and machinery that can be manufactured at home and thus give employment in our own workshops to thousands of Canadian workmen," he said.

F. G. Daniels, president of the Dominion Textile Company and also head of the Paton Manufacturing Company, producers of worsteds, said the changes as announced were all constructive and calculated to "give employment quickly to many thousands of presently idle work people."

A. O. Dawson, president of Canadian Cottons Limited, said a cursory examination had convinced him the changes seemed quite favorable and satisfactory to the industry.

VANCOUVER PROVINCE COMMENTS

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—The Vancouver Province, commenting editorially on the tariff changes brought down in the House of Commons yesterday, says in part:

"If the farmer, as a consumer, can get protection, he will be the gainer and not the loser, because the new tariff affords protection to a number of important farm products, notably butter, eggs and livestock. The tariff on eggs, higher even than the American tariff, should have the effect of setting the British Columbia poultry industry on its feet. The tariff on butter—8 cents a pound under the preferential rate and 14 cents under the general—will probably not have the effect of altogether keeping out New Zealand butter—at least, not at present. But it may rehabilitate the Canadian butter industry. It is to be hoped it will not do this at the expense of the cheese industry, which is closely allied.

British Columbia will, as has been said, benefit from the tariff on eggs. It should benefit also from the tariff on paper and products, on hops, fertilizer and livestock."

Of the new dump duty, the paper says:

"The new duty, running to 50 per cent, with its flexible clauses giving the Minister of Customs latitude in valuing for duty, should have the effect of keeping the Canadian market clear of American surpluses, and is all the more necessary now that the United States has definitely embarked on a policy of dumping its agricultural surpluses abroad."

NEW APARTMENT AT OAK BAY TO BE READY IN SPRING

Start to Be Made in Six Weeks on Fifty-one Suite Building in Oak Bay

Within six weeks a start will be made on the construction of the new apartment house on Marine Drive for the Vancouver Island Apartments Ltd. Announcement of the purchase of the property and of the intention to build a $250,000 apartment was made some time ago in The Times.

Col. Borgs de Moesin, president of the company, states that the start on the palatial structure will be made within six weeks so that it will be ready for occupancy next spring.

In the plans of this modern and spacious building, the architects, James and Eric Clarkson, have made each of the fifty-one suites a real home. The design of the building is an adaption of English domestic architecture of the Elizabethian period, a style much in favor in Victoria and extremely suitable for the site on which it will be erected. Ninety per cent of the rooms will overlook the sea and mountains.

The exterior walls will be finished with rough, colored waterproof stucco, heavily half-timbered with many interesting gables, colored tile roof and a tower of pleasing design, accentuating the main entrance.

The public rooms will be finished in the same period as the exterior, with stippled, colored plaster ceilings and friezes, panneled walls and wooden beams. The floors will be of oak.

The woodwork of the apartments will be enameled and the walls finished in colored plaster. The tinting of each apartment will be varied to suit different tastes.

A special study has been made of the heating system, so that every room will receive ample, noiseless steam heat at all times, controlable in each room.

The electric outlets will be very complete and selection has been made of really good fixtures suitable for the various rooms.

The main dining-room is on the upper floor with commanding views and arranged so that teas, lunches and dinners may be served with privacy for large or small private parties. Meals can be served from the main kitchen to the apartments if desired.

The suites have been designed to provide for anything from a bachelor suite to a suite de luxe. The majority of the living rooms will have large open fireplaces.

Three inside stairways give easy means of exit. There are automatic electric elevator services from the main hall to all the floors; sound and fireproof walls between all apartments, office and page boy service, and storage of tenants' baggage in a trunk room in the basement.

The reinforced concrete roof over the garage will form a large, paved and flower-bordered piazza overlooking the sea and mountains, making an ideal place for the use of guests and for serving al-fresco teas, etc.

The directors of the company are Col. de Mossin, president; H. E. Boorman, vice-president; H. B. Darnell, C. E. Yearwood and T. L. Swan, secretary-treasurer.

U.S. STUDIES NEW TARIFF OF CANADA

Washington Dispatch to New York Times Says Retaliation Is Seen in Increases

Losses in Store For Both If Tariff War Pressed, It Says

New York, Sept. 17.—The New York Times in a special dispatch from Washington says:

"Despite Canadian denials of reciprocal action aimed at the United States in the new Dominion tariff schedules and the same expressed belief here, the impression appears to be rather general that Canada has made the only answer possible to the American Tariff Act, and in a form which may effect an international trade situation that has already shown alarming symptoms.

"Canada is the best foreign customer of the United States. Conversely, Canada is the greatest individual seller of goods to the United States. The United States sells the Dominion almost $1,000,000,000 worth of goods a year and imports from it goods to the value of about $500,000,000.

"Recently announced figures for the first seven months of the year showed that generally depressed conditions had cut the exports in that period to $427,000,000, as compared with $562,000,000 a year ago, while imports from Canada had dropped from $292,000,000 to $250,000,000.

LOSSES FOR BOTH

"In the polite terminology of international dealings, no hint of a trade war has been or will be dropped, but the fear has been expressed that if the United States, through an unchanged tariff act, and Canada, through a new one with high rates, proceed into a state amounting to that, both will suffer immeasurably.

"An unbiased student of international trade stated that in all fairness to Canada, while considering her new tariff rates, the upward revisions, sometimes of a drastic nature in the American schedule, should be considered.

"It is thought not unlikely that eventually some of these may come before the tariff commission for study with a view to ironing out alleged inequalities incorporated in the bill

GREAT CHANGES

"During the recasting of the Tariff Bill, its framers figuratively marched across Canada, placing fairly substantial duties on virtually all of her important exports to the United States with the exception of pulpwood.

"Halibut, from her fisheries, was placed under a high impost, and such staples as potatoes, milk, cream, butter and cheese may be found on the dutiable lists. Her lumber is taxed, and so are maple sugar and maple syrup. However, spruce, hemlock, fir and cedar logs are admitted free.

"Whether Canadian wheat could find a market in this country in the face of present conditions, with millions of bushels of domestic wheat begging a market, is debatable, but it is pointed out that when the Canadian farmer reads our tariff tables he finds a duty of forty-two cents a bushel.

"Other duties on Canadian products were classed unofficially as 'picayune' —in that they yield small revenue while raising a feeling of antagonism. As instances of these, lean cattle and lard were named.

FACTORS STUDIED

"While these facts regarding the tariff were learned from well informed sources, it was emphasized no prediction could be made as to definite effect on trade. Several factors enter into the final situation. These include Canada's need of importing products which she purchased freely in this country before the new levies were created and her ability to replace imports from the United States with articles of her own manufacture or imported from other countries."

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

NEWS IN BRIEF

Hubert Lethaby, secretary of the Real Estate Board of Victoria, announced to-day there would be no luncheon meeting of the board on Friday.

William John Jeeves, a leader of the Bar of London, England, and a Bencher of Lincoln's Inn, will address the Victoria Canadian Club at its luncheon in the Empress Hotel to-morrow on "India."

Opening exercises will be held at Esquimalt Elementary School next Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Presentation of entrance certificates and other honors and awards to last term's entrance pupils will take place.

Alfred Brewer, who attended the International Rotary convention during a three-month visit in the east this summer, will speak to the local club members at the luncheon meeting in the Empress Hotel Thursday at 12.10 o'clock.

At a special meeting of members of the Women's Guild of the First United Church, held in the church parlor on Monday afternoon, arrangements were made for a lecture to be given by Rev. Dr. Clem Davies in the church auditorium on Tuesday night, September 23, the subject to be "The Passion Play at Oberammergau."

The annual commencement day exercises of the Margaret Jenkins School will be held in the school auditorium on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. An interesting programme has been prepared. Prizes and diplomas will be presented and the graduating class will be addressed by Rev. Dr. C. T. Scott. Parents and friends of the school are cordially invited to be present.

Winners of essay contests, arranged under the auspices of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, and based on impressions of the recent exhibition here, were announced yesterday by Secretary W. H. Mearns as follows: Children, twelve to sixteen years, first, Olive Lynn; second, Edna Lynn; third, Helen Neden; and fourth, John Watson. Under twelve years, Agnes E. Crowther.

MAY REINTRODUCE FORT ST. BY-LAW

Move Would Make Measure Safe Legally If It Passes Council

Reintroduction of the Fort Street Widening Expropriation by-law may be a move at the meeting of the City Council Monday night, it is understood.

While officially, the by-law comes up for second reading on Monday, after being tabled last week, the question has been raised by Mayor Anscomb as to whether or not the by-law, defeated at its second reading, is legally dead. The Mayor maintains that in the event of the present by-law going through the council, there would be a point regarding its legality.

By reintroducing the by-law, under a different number, and with deletion of three or four clauses, which would have been necessary with the present regulation in any event, this possible difficulty would be avoided, the Mayor pointed out. It would be merely a matter of safety.

When the by-law came before the council on September 6, its legality was still in doubt, and the council at that time deferred consideration of it for two weeks. On the agenda next Monday it will come up for second reading, but there is also the possibility of a new by-law being introduced.

EFFECTS OF NEW TARIFF ANALYZED

Assertion Made Barrier Raised By Bennett Government Equally Against All

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept 17.—Tariff analysts say there is no discrimination against any country in the revision of the tariff schedules announced by Premier Bennett yesterday, which went into force to-day. Where the rates are increased they are increased right across the board in all three schedules. The Canadian customs tariffs contain three schedules of rates, namely, the general tariff, applicable to most countries of the world, the intermediate tariff, applicable to countries with which Canada has trade treaties, and the British preferential tariff, applicable to Great Britain and certain parts of the Empire, with which Canada has trade agreements.

RATES COMPARED

Officials who have given study of the new tariff claim for it that it was formulated with the idea first of helping Canadian industry. While the advances cover the three classes of tariffs, it is estimated the increases in the aggregate are slightly more in the general and intermediate than in the British preference. Any advantage there is, is toward the British preference, they state. On the whole, however, no wide divegency appears in the proportion of the increase in the various lists.

An example of this equal distribution of the increases may be found in the textile items, it is stated. On woven fabrics of cotton, not bleached, mercerized nor colored, the old rates were: British preference 12½ per cent, intermediate 20 per cent, and general 22½ per cent. The new ad valorem rate is British preference 17½ per cent, intermediate 20 per cent, and general 25 per cent. To this is added a new specific duty of 3 cents a pound under the British preference 3½ cents under the intermediate and 4 cents under the general tariffs.

An exception to this rule is found in the items covering agricultural implements and tools. Most of these articles entered free of duty under the British preference before and no duty is now imposed, although the rates under the general and intermediate schedules are increased. Little importance is attached to this feature, however, as practically no agricultural machinery is imported from Great Britain. On most of the agricultural machinery items the increases in the general and intermediate schedules range from 5 to 10 per cent.

BRITAIN NEEDS CANADA WHEAT TO MAKE BREAD

Desires to Trade Within Empire, Says William Meiklem, Scottish Farmer

Discovered One of His Clydesdales at Toronto Exhibition

"We in Great Britain cannot make bread without Canadian wheat," said William Meiklem, leader of the National British Agricultural Union Party, in asserting that the United Kingdom would continue to import the bulk of Canada's surplus wheat crop.

"Your wheat is so much harder, and has more gluten in it. It is necessary to mix it with our wheat before we can produce the proper kind of flour with which to make our bread.

"We want to trade within the Empire when possible, and there is not the slightest doubt but that the importation of Canadian wheat will go on just the same as in the past."

Mr. Meiklem is a well-known farmer of Kircadly, Scotland, and an outstanding breeder of Clydesdale horses.

FOUND HORSE IN TORONTO

In relating some of the experiences of the party, he said that he was greatly surprised, while inspecting the Toronto exhibition on his way west, to see a Clydesdale he had bred on exhibition there.

"I sold it as a yearling, and it is now four years old," he said. "It was easily recognizable. It was like meeting an old friend."

BETTER UNDERSTANDING

"We are making this trip with a view to creating a better understanding between the different sections of the Empire," said Mr. Meiklem. One party under the direction of the National British Agricultural Union is now returning to Britain from New Zealand. Over 100 visited South Africa four years ago.

"This is a fine country, but there is a lot of waste land, due, of course, to the tremendous areas of undeveloped territory and lack of population," he said. "But you grow excellent wheat."

VISIT FARMS

The party, en route west, visited all the large government experimental farms and agricultural colleges. "The best crops we saw were at Edmonton," he observed.

They were greatly interested in the Calgary stockyards, and were impressed by the pasteurizing and bottling of milk in the dairies, where 15,000 gallons of milk are handled daily.

DISPUTE OVER MINING CLAIMS BEFORE JUDGE

Stewart Prospectors Ask Courts to Decide Priority of Title

A trifl of interest to mining men and prospectors, Berg et al. vs. Bosence et al., commenced this morning before Chief Justice Morrison in the Supreme Court, with D. S. Tait representing the plaintiffs and A. M. Whiteside appearing for the defendants.

The plaintiffs are Charles Berg, Aaron Aaronson, Neil Matheson and Angus McLeod, and the defendants are William Bosence, E. P. Tolin, J. J. Haahti and H. D. Cameron. The action concerns mining claims near Stewart, the plaintiffs being owners of the American Creek group of claims, while the defendants are interested in the Lucky Jim group, both series of filings being on the same land.

Bosence claims to have staked the territory on February 20, 1928, but the plaintiffs deny any staking had been done prior to their entry on July 10 of the same year.

Mr. McLeod, one of the plaintiffs, was on the witness stand this morning

August Production Of Copper and Silver Up Over Previous Month

Copper and silver production in the world reached a higher level in August than in July, it was announced in the Dow Jones summary to-day. Copper stood at 148,321 short tons for last month, against 143,615 in July, and 173,430 in August, 1929. Production of silver last month amounted to 3,749,000 fine ounces, against 3,551,000 in July, and 5,006,000 in August, 1929.

EARL OF MAR IS DUE HERE THIS MONTH

Distinguished visitors to Victoria during the present month will be the Earl and Countess of Mar and Kellie, who are expected to arrive at the Empress Hotel on September 27.

The Earl of Mar is the premier baron of Scotland and hereditary keeper of the historic Stirling Castle.

Mario Estrada of Pan-American Institute Speaks For Reciprocal Trade

Bound to Toronto to Attend Convention of Canadian Chambers of Commerce

"Our chief purpose is to interest Canada and Canadian institutions in the Pan-American Institute and its objectives for the development of reciprocal trade between the countries of North and South America," said Mario Estrada, editorial writer of La Nation, leading Argentine newspaper published in Buenos Aires, who is in the city today with L. J. Skinitzero, Canadian trade delegate of the Argentine.

Fresh from the Sacramento conference, where the Pan-American Institute was recently created, Mr. Estrada is now on his way to Toronto to attend the fifth annual convention of Canadian Chambers of Commerce, which meets on October 7, 8 and 9. Other Argentine members of the party from the Sacramento conference, will join Mr. Estrada at Toronto.

GUESTS OF MINISTER

Hon. William Shelly, Minister of Finance, entertained Messrs. Estrada and Skinitzero at luncheon at the Empress Hotel to-day.

This forenoon the visitors were taken out to the experimental Farm at Sidney by W. W. Duncan, director of markets.

EXCHANGE OF NEWS

Exchange of news between the countries of North and South America is also an interesting subject with Mr. Estrada, who says there is a woeful lack of South American news in the newspapers of North America.

He said that one rarely could pick up an American or Canadian newspaper and find any news of the South American countries, whereas at least two columns a day was devoted by the journals of Buenos Aires to United States and Canadian news.

He smiled indulgently when told that recent events in the Argentine had occupied a considerable amount of space in Canadian and United States papers.

Reverting to the Sacramento conference, Mr. Astrada said it had been decided that the headquarters of the Pan-American Institute would be in California. He will represent the Argentine Republic on the Council of the Institute.

The whole idea of the institute, he explained, was to promote international trade through the trade organizations of the member countries.

GOOD MATERIAL

"I understand there will be at least five hundred delegates at the Toronto conference next month, so there should be plenty of good material to work upon in our efforts to induce Canada to join the Pan-American Institute," said Mr. Estrada.

Canada's interest, he added, would be increased by the fact that the British exhibition was to be held early next year at Buenos Aires.

During the day the Argentine delegates will meet the Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Margaret Mackenzie at Government House.

Man Murdered And Buried In His Own Hut

Provincial police to-day are investigating the murder of Charles Yoch, Bulkley River farmer, whose body was discovered underneath the floor of his hut.

Only meagre details of the crime reached headquarters here. Sergeant Fairbairn, in charge of the police at Smithers, B.C., reported in a brief message that he believed the murder had been committed between September 5 and 7. It had not been detected immediately, because the body was buried underneath the floor.

Yoch was a farmer at Houston, which is on the C.N.R.-Prince Rupert line, southwest of Babine Lake.

NIGHT SCHOOL SYLLABUS HAS WIDE RANGE

Two Weeks Left For Registration For Evening Technical Classes

Enrolment for the evening technical classes conducted under the direction of the Victoria Board of School Trustees, will take place at the School Board office between now and October 2, when the session starts at the High School.

A large attendance is expected at the night school this year. The courses have grown in popularity since they were instituted several years ago, and many people, especially the young who wish to supplement education gained at the day schools, avail themselves of the opportunity to enter some branch of work through the medium of the classes.

MEETING MONDAY

It is probable a meeting of the school board will be held next Monday night to complete the selection of instructors for the courses and make final arrangements fo rthe start of the session.

This year the larger number of classes will be held on Monday and Thursday evenings only. They are open to any person over the age of fifteen years who is not attending public school. All classes start at 7.30 o'clock.

W. H. Binns, supervisor of technical education for the city, has arranged to meet those desiring information about the courses any afternoon except Saturday, between the hours of 4 and 5 o'clock.

WIDE RANGE

Subjects in the syllabus cover a wide range, including practical courses for both sexes. They are divided as follows: commercial courses, technical courses, engineering, building trades, arts, household economics and languages.

The commercial courses including bookeeping, shorthand, typewriting, penmanship and salesmanship as well as a preliminary commercial course with arithmetic and correspondence.

Mathematics, gasoline engine instruction and electrical engineering are included in the engineering courses.

Building construction and architectural drawing are the two subjects in the building trades course.

ARTS COURSES

The arts course includes designing, stencilling, embroidery and handicrafts, letter and show-card writing, drawing and commercial art, and light and shade drawing. Painting in oils and water colors are subjects in a fine arts course, as well as pottery and designing.

Dressmaking, millinery, home nursing and hygiene make up the household economics course with cooking and a special day session on dressmaking.

French, both elementary and advanced, and Spanish are included in the language course, with special class in public speaking.

Courses in matriculation subjects and continuation classes leading to High School entrance are also offered.

SIDEWALKS IN SAANICH TO BE DEBATED

Public Meeting to Be Held This Evening at Tillicum School

Proposals for construction of permanent sidewalks in urban Saanich, at a cost of $100,000, will be discussed this evening at a public meeting of ratepayers of Ward Seven, Saanich, in the Tillicum School. Reeve Crouch will take the chair at 8 o'clock, and will be the principal speaker.

Since announcement on Monday of the proposal, Reeve Crouch has received over seventy letters of approval of the plan, while eight objections have been filed. The cost of the work is estimated at $1.55 a lot for ten years, to be added to the annual tax bills of wards two and seven.

A number of Saanich residents have announced opposition to the method of carrying out the proposed work, criticism being principally that laying of sidewalks on one side of a street, as proposed by Reeve Crouch, would wipe out the prospect that walks would later be laid on the other side of the roads. Reeve Crouch will this evening suggest that the initial project be followed by a policy of sidewalk construction from revenue.

Another objection to be advanced this evening concerns financing of the work, criticism being directed against pledging the municipal credit and also against the cost of a loan compared to a special annual district levy for walks to be laid over a term of years

KELLOGG IS NEW WORLD COURT JUDGE

Former U.S. Secretary of State Elected to Succeed Charles Evans Hughes

Geneva, Sept. 17.—Frank B. Kellogg, formerly United States Secretary of State, to-day was elected a member of the Permanent Court of International Justice, so-called world court, to replace Charles Evans Hughes, who resigned to become Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court.

Kellogg received thirty out of the forty-seven votes cast. The other candidate's votes for were not announced.

EMPIRE TRADE STRESSED BY AUSTRALIAN

A. W. Alley, President of Australian Bowlers, Speaks at Civic Banquet

"The time has arrived when trade within the Empire should be developed to the extreme," declared A. W. Alley, president of the visiting Australian bowlers, who were the guests of the city at a banquet at noon to-day at the Empress Hotel. Mayor Anscomb presided and Hon. J. H. Hinchliffe represented the Provincial Government. Members of the City Council and representatives of the various bowling clubs of Victoria attended.

"We have the ability, the manpower and the resources, to develop trade within the Empire and get down to a sound working basis," he said. "Can you imagine the feelings of our party as we journeyed throughout the British Isles to find British ships being constructed of German steel. Then the next day we would come to a city and find the woolen mills closed and many of the population out of work.

"Great Britain cannot realize that the markets that were open to her twenty years ago are not open any more. Also she cannot realize that other nations are manufacturing for themselves now and those markets will never return again," he continued.

TELLS OF TOUR

Mr. Alley gave a short resume of the bowlers' tour Great Britain. The Australians were called upon to play six matches a day, attend six luncheons a week and six official dinners a week over a period of six months. "I have come to the conclusion the Australians are just about the hardiest people in the world," Mr. Alley laughingly remarked.

FINE HOSPITALITY

Mr. Alley remarked on the splendid hospitality shown the Australians on their trip across Canada and concluded by thanking the Mayor and members of the council for the honor extended to them.

Mayor Anscomb extended a hearty welcome to the visiting bowlers, many of whom are accompanied by their wives, and touched briefly on the question of building up Empire trade.

Mr. Hinchliffe extended a welcome to the Australians on behalf of the province.

Upon arrival this morning from Vancouver the touring party were the guests of the Victoria bowling clubs at breakfast aboard the steamer. Following this they were taken on a drive to Butchart's Gardens.

This afternoon the visitors are engaging in an exhibition match against a Victoria all-star team at the Beacon Hill greens and this evening will sail aboard the motorship Aorangi for home.

TO-DAY'S GRAIN MARKETS

Winnipeg, Sept. 17.—Wheat: The trade in wheat was rather narrow to-day with little of feature going on. Offers were not large, while the buying was much of the same class as was seen yesterday which was understood to be solely for investment purposes. There was also spreading between here and Chicago, buying the Winnipeg end and selling Chicago at the board difference. Sentiment appears to be more friendly than it has been for a long time, but export sales are showing no improvement, very little having been worked over night from any quarter. Most of the investment buying is said to be coming from New York or eastern interests, and was apparent on the break of one cent during the first half of the day, but did not follow the full upturns. In the cash market there was a good demand for the lower grades which are scarce, but there was only a fair enquiry for the top grades, but holders are not pressing the selling sides. Spreads were about unchanged. The flour trade has been more or less quiet the last few days, but millers are still working on some previous orders received. The weather is now clear again and warmer all over the west, and threshing operations are being resumed in north areas. Offerings of Australian wheat were liberal. Exports from North America, which totaled 7,687,000 bushels, was split about even between Canada and the United States. The Winnipeg market closed steady at ⅛ lower.

Coarse grains: The only feature to the coarse grains was that 2,000,000 bushels of barley had been worked from Buffalo to other states, and it was reported that more business was being done this morning. The duty on barley entering the U.S. is twenty cents. There was very little doing in oats or rye outside of the small daily business to eastern Canada.

Liverpool cables due ⅜ to ⅝ higher, based on Winnipeg.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Wheat—While Liverpool cables were disappointing and the foreign news somewhat pessimistic, the wheat market showed a steady tone to-day, there being less hedging pressure on account of smaller receipts northwest, while there was considerable commission house absorption on the dips. Liverpool closed ⅛ to ⅝ higher, while Buenos Aires was 1⅛ down with no damage feared from frost, with scattered rain reported in some parts. English millers are buying but little wheat, but Continental mills are said to be willing to buy wheat in spite of high duties and milling restrictions. Winnipeg had 1,196 cars against 1,562 a year ago. Primary arrivals, 1,978,000 bushels vs. 1,561,000 last year. Milling demand at domestic markets is good and Kansas City shipments to-day were 279,000 bushels, while receipts were 134,000 bushels. Minneapolis stocks increased 1,150,000 for four days. Prices for wheat are low and with the bulk of the first movement of shipping wheat presumably hedged, there should be less pressure of this kind. The market will likely feel the effect of the large stocks for some time, but the present price level surely discounts about the maximum effect of bearish conditions of all kinds.

Corn: Corn had a fairly steady tone, with final figures showing gains of close to a cent. The cash basis was firm and receipts have decreased decidedly the past few days, primary arrivals to-day being 542,000 bushels vs 962,000 bushels a year ago. Country sales continue extremely light. Clear weather was the rule. From present indications the country pressure is likely to be light, while the shipping demand is expected to be good. The competition from feeders generally and commercial users of corn is apt to be pretty keen from now on, with any steadiness in wheat think corn will do better.

Oats maintained a firm undertone with good commission house buying. All the market apparently needs to inspire a good advance is firmness in other grains.

Rye firm as a general rule, there being no great pressure at any time.

WHITNEY LETTER

(By Branson, Brown & Co. Limited)

New York, Sept. 17.—Whitney of Wall Street Financial Bureau says:

MARKET TONE IMPROVED

"In considering the points of similarity between the rally which closed yesterday's session and that of Saturday, I believe sufficient difference exists to warrant the expectation that yesterday's will not be followed to-day by any such performance as that which came after the Saturday rally. It, of course, must be admitted that both rallies had in them a liberal percentage of short covering, but consider that the turn-up yesterday contained an amount of real buying totally lacking in the week-end session.

"This material improvement in tone, and the degree of real buying which accounted for it, I believe are both predicated on a banking position which adheres to the conviction that business is slowly making its turn, and that, while anything worthy of being called a bull trend may be slow in getting started, the most that can happen to it is for it to undergo moderate delays, such as we have just been through in the last four or five sessions.

"Supplementing this general belief there is now gradually forming, in the minds of those interested in commodities, the certainty that the next week to ten days will bring about the clearing up of the whole decline which has operated to impede market progress. History shows us that commodities invariably over-run stock prices on the downside, but by the same token the time element between the market bottom in June and a commodity bottom in September constitutes the period which would be allowed by precedent for that development.

"This simply means that one of the sources of market delay and psychological uncertainty is about to be removed, which leaves us little other than third quarter reports, three or four weeks from now, to create a similar effect. These in turn, I believe, are already partly discounted, with the balance of the discounting simply meaning a market period similar to what we have had in the last week, but one which will come at considerably higher level.

"In any event, I believe we have seen yesterday the best market rally since prices started down last Thursday, and that any further recession simply boils down to a matter of so few points that it will hardly pay to consider them in the face of the materially larger number of points which the market can cover on its next phase of advance.

"Likewise consider that whether it takes a few points or not to complete the current interruptive movement we will see the whole thing cleared up in the later portion of this week, with the market again headed upward before the week is over."

GENERAL MOTORS MAY COMPETE IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Consider Opening Plant to Contest Potential Trade With Ford Organization

New York, Sept. 17.—The General Motors Corporation may open factories in Soviet Russia, to compete with the Ford organization for the huge potential trade in that country. This was indicated yesterday by officials when it was reported by a cable that Jas. D. Mooney, vice-president in charge of exports, had arrived in Moscow. The cable dispatch said Mr. Mooney was expected to arrange the concessions from the Russian government in exchange for the advantage to Russian industry that would be obtained by opening the factories there. At the present time trade with Russia is handled through the General Motors G.M.D.H., which assembles cars in Berlin and distributes them throughout Germany, Czechoslovakia and European Russia.

A few months ago plans were announced by the Ford organization for the manufacture of cars, trucks and tractors in Russia. Previously they had been shipped there.

SUGAR

New York, Sept. 17.—Raw sugar was firmer early to-day with a little more interest displayed by buyers. Offerings were light and held at higher levels. Sales included 30,000 bags of Cuban prompt shipment to an outport refiner at 3.15 and 20,000 bags of Cuban for late October shipment to an operator at 3.18.

No changes occurred in the refined situation, with one refiner still listing at 4.35, but all others at 4.45.

STOCK TRADING INDIFFERENT ON NEW YORK MART

Small Gains Maintained Despite Lowness of Trading; Ward Baking "A" Up

New York, Sept. 17.—Efforts to revive interest in a stock market advance met with indifferent success to-day. Several groups manifested a willingness to go higher, but buying activity was limited and shorts took their time about covering.

The day's small gains were well maintained, although the volume of trading approached the lowest levels of the year. American Can, Eastman Kodak, American Waterworks, Stone & Webster, Auburn Auto, Electric Power and Light, Brooklyn Union Gas and Pacific Lighting advanced a couple of points, while U.S. Steel, National Biscuit, Westinghouse Electric, American Telephone and numerous other prominent shares rose a point or more. Ward Baking "A" soared eight points and Continental Baking "A" rallied two. Worthington Pump and Republic Steel rose three. There were losses of a point in several rails, including Atchison, Louisville and Nashville, Northern Pacific and Southern Railway. The close was steady. Sales approximated 1,250,000 shares.

NEW ISSUES VIE WITH OLD AMONG NEW YORK BONDS

New Loans Totaling Over $38,000,000 Do Not Affect Trend of Market

Offerings Swelled By the Appearance of $23,735,000 of Rail Issues

Canadian Press

New York, Sept. 17.—Seasoned issues in the listed bond market vied with a large volume of new financing for the favor of investors to-day. New loans totaling more than $38,000,000 were offered, but the listed market showed no change of trend, although the domestic list was spotty as sellers found it necessary to accept bids slightly under the previous final prices.

The volume of new offerings for the week was swelled by the appearance of the $23,735,000 Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Paul Railroad Company four and one-half per cent gold bond issue. Subscription books were closed by the offering syndicate early in the day. Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad Company offered $7,182,000 four and one-half per cent bonds, and large municipal issues included $5,000,000 City of Los Angeles 4½s, $1,000,000 Tarrant County, Texas, 4½s, and $1,000,000 Delaware County 4s.

Trading in railroad issues was sharply reduced. Changes in the legal list were of small proportions.

Communications companies led the utility demand. European and South American issues made some progress. Federal issues improved a little.

LARGE AMOUNT OF WOOL SOLD

Market in London Good For Medium and Superior Varieties To-day

London, Sept. 17.—The wool sales were continued to-day with offerings amounting to 10,428 bales of which 8,500 were sold. The attendance was good and a large selection of medium to superior sorts met with better competition at the opening rates. Home dealers were the chief buyers. Fine greasy cross breds were rather firmer. Cape of Good Hope and Natal grades were quiet and snow whites were bought in owing to low bids

TO-DAY'S REPORTS ON CALGARY OILS

By Special Service of Miller, Court & Co., Victoria Office

Eastcrest No. 1 was shot yesterday afternoon with 300 quarts of nitro. Encouraging results followed the operation. Mr. Price, managing director, last night said the blast was without incident apart from the usual result of releasing gas. The well cleared of water and blew broken limestone. Gas was still blowing free last night, lime particles continuing to be in evidence. It is unlikely that a separator test or measurement will be made until the gas is clear of limestone. "It was a very satisfactory shot," said Mr. Price. "It was distributed in the bottom 200 limestone, of which about 140 feet was porous. Altogether there is about 375 feet of lime and a total depth of 465 feet. We don't want to make any rash statements at present until we make further observation, but it looks like a nice commercial well as it is."

Eastcrest No. 2 "A" was making hole more than 215 feet in the limestone. The wells are located about a mile from the Home acreage on the eastern flank of Turner Valley.

Commonwealth's Milk River tests has encountered another water sand and operations are already under way to shut off the flow, it is stated by officials. The well at 450 feet will resume as soon as the last 70 feet can be under reamed and the casing lowered. While the previously announced drilling objective was 4,500 feet, it is likely that the well will be continued beyond this depth if production is not struck before. Recent indications have been encouraging for continuation in a thorough investigation of the region now being drilled.

Richfield shareholders are being notified that their annual meeting has been fixed for October 20, books to close October 1. The meeting will be held at the Calgary head offices. The company's Turner Valley venture, north of the producer Sooner No. 1, has been spudded in and yesterday was down 100 feet. The well is drilling with cable tools.

Industrial Upturn Is Indicated

First concrete indications of a possible upturn in the industrial situation were given yesterday with the publication by the U.S. Department of Commerce of preliminary figures on August foreign trade, showing exports of $300,000,000, an increase of approximately $34,000,000 over the July total. Except for a one-month gain in March U.S. export trade has been falling steadily since last October, when it reached the high point of 1929 with a total of $528,514,000. Added importance is given to the August increase in exports by the fact that it came at a time when shipments in the last year or two have shown little change, the first real increase of the fall season in 1928 and 1929 coming in September.

OILS JUMP UP ON MARKET AT TORONTO

Canadian Press

Toronto, Sept. 17.—The oil group had it all its own way on the mining market in the afternoon to-day, though one or two of the mines showed renewed strength towards the close.

Shortly after midday both Ajax Oil and Acme Gas, active features throughout both sessions, started definitely upward, the former making a gain on the day of 20 and the latter advancing over 4 to 41. B.A. Oil, Chemical Research, Home Oil and Imperial displayed gains ranging from 45 to 55 cents, and Calmont, International Pete and East Crest sold somewhat higher.

International Nickel was up over a point on the day, but Noranda held unchanged and Hudson Bay and Waite Ackerman sustained minor recessions.

STEELS RISE WITH TARIFF ANNOUNCEMENT

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 17.—Prices over the general list firmed in late trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. Total sales were above 28,000 shares.

Steels were the feature, rising in anticipation of improvement within the industry based upon tariff changes. Lake Superior, General Steel Wares, Page-Hersey Tubes were up two and more points at their best.

Farm implement stocks were higher at the opening, reactionary in the early afternoon, and firmer again at the close. Gains were for less than a point, however.

The oils did not do much, fluctuating within a narrow margin.

HOME LEADING IN OIL CLIMB AT VANCOUVER

Leader Sailing on to Four-dollar Mark; Big Missouri and George Copper Firm

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—With Home Oil in the lead and sailing strongly toward the four-dollar mark, the whole oil list advanced to good levels during this morning's session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

Home opened at $3.65 and ran steadily along to $3.90, the demand increasing as the movement gained momentum. Reports of increased production and greatly improved prospects at No. 5 well helped the leader along.

Mayland, with production now of over 400 barrels daily, sprang ten points ahead at 95, gaining more ground to 98 before noon. A.P. Consolidated started at 59 and went ahead to 62, and Calmont opened at 80 and gained eight points before noon.

Vanalta was strong at 25 to 26.

While Crow's Nest and Amalgamated were lightly traded they both looked firmer than yesterday.

Fabyan was stronger at 4½, and the balance of the oil list was firm.

In the metals Big Missouri is holding the principal interest.

George Copper sold at $1.20, and Woodbine came in for attention on official reports to-day that the crew is sinking on the gold ore shown by diamond drilling early in the year. Pioneer Gold sold at $1.10, Premier, ex-dividend, at 97, and Reeves at 32.

In the unlisted, Baldwin Oils and Crescent Gold were the chief stocks in demand.

Fishermen Libel Craft For Salvage

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—At the suit of John Penny and Matthew Walsh, fishermen, Marshal W. B. Cochrane arrested on an Admiralty Court warrant Tuesday the fifty-six-foot motor vessel West River, a fish packer, for a $4,000 salvage claim.

The plaintiffs allege that on August 3, when fishing in Queen Charlotte Sound, in response to distress signals of the West River, which had broken her main shaft, they hastened in their gas boats to her rescue and towed her to Safety Cove on Calvert Island.

Toronto Shooting Is Investigated

Toronto, Sept. 17.—Provincial Police Constable Harold Lloyd, thirty-two, who was seriously wounded in a shooting affair in his apartment last night, is in St. Michael's Hospital, and his condition is reported to-day as unchanged. Up to the present it has not been learned exactly how the shooting occurred, although the police have detained Mrs. McPhee, mother-in-law of the officer, his wife Dolly and his father-in-law as material witnesses.

Lloyd was shot through the face.

HOLLYWOOD MOURNS DEATH OF M. SILLS

Widow of Famous Actor in Serious Condition After His Sudden Passing

Los Angeles, Sept. 17.—Studio flags were at half mast to-day while Hollywood's film colony mourned the death of its respected leader, Milton Sills, scholar and actor, who was stricken with heart disease while in the prime of life and fame.

Mrs. Doris Kenyon Sills, the widow, still was in a serious condition, her physician said. The unexpected death of Sills, which occurred Monday evening while he was playing tennis with her and his nineteen-year-old daughter, Dorothy, had been a "serious physical shock" to both the woman and the girl. They were being cared for at a private home.

Autopsy surgeons, who were called on to determine the exact cause of Sills's death when it became known no physician was present, reported the actor died of angina pectoris, a heart disease, probably of five years' standing.

LIBERALS IN THE COMMONS MAP COURSE

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—No public announcements were made this forenoon following the separate caucuses of the Liberal and the Progressive groups in the House of Commons. Neither Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, nor Robert Gardiner, Progressive chieftain, would comment on the lines of action chosen to be observed in the debate on the government's tariff proposals.

Practical Experience

"I believe," said the cheery philosopher, "that for every single thing you give away two come back to you."

"That's my experience," agreed Whifflebaum. "Last March I gave away my daughter and she and her husband came back in July."

Royal Commission on State Health Insurance and Maternity Benefits in B.C.

A special public meeting of the above Commission will be held at the Provincial Courthouse, Victoria, Thursday, September 18, at 7.30 p.m., for hearing of group representations on matters pertinent to the Commission's inquiries from public and semi-public bodies of the Province—social, fraternal and benevolent societies; industrial, municipal and labor organizations; medical and hospital associations, etc.

These are invited to attend by representatives and express their views, opinions and constructive suggestions, or alternatively to present comprehensive briefs covering same.

CURRIE GIVEN WELCOME IN VANCOUVER

Former Victorian Who Commanded C.E.F. Greeted By Men Who Served in France

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—Former comrades in arms of General Sir Arthur Currie, who commanded the Canadian army in France during the Great War, gave him a royal welcome yesterday evening when he reached this city, accompanying E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and his touring party.

One-time officers of the C.E.F., non-commissioned officers and privates were at the Canadian Pacific depot to meet the special train which carried Sir Arthur. As he appeared on the platform, Pipe Major John Gillies and Piper Sergt. W. Ross played him out to the street, where his friends gave him three rousing cheers and a tiger.

Among those on hand to greet their former commander were Major-Gen. W. Lindsay, Brig.-Gen. J. A. Clark, Brig.-Gen. R. P. Clark, Brig.-Gen. H. F. McDonald, Col. R. M. Blair, Col. G. G. Godson-Godson, Lt.-Col. O. F. Brothers, Col. H. Letson, Col. W. Wilson, Col. John P. McKenzie, Major Gus Lyons of Victoria and former Detective Sergt. Albert Champion of the Vancouver Police Department.

APPRECIATION VOICED

The Disabled Veterans' Association, Branch 38, Canadian Legion, British Empire Service League, sent an emissary bearing the thanks of the organization for the service Sir Arthur had rendered the members in connection with pensions adjustments. Other returned men's organizations were also represented in the big delegation.

Sir Arthur, who is now principal of McGill University, appears in greatly improved health. During his stay in the city he is busy renewing acquaintances with former British Columbia friends who accompanied him on the important mission to France in 1914-1918.

SHAMROCK OUT AND ENTERPRISE SAILS RACE ALONE

Newport, R.I., Sept. 17.—Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt, skipper of the defender Enterprise, can decline to accept the victory of his yacht in the America's Cup race to-day, out of which Shamrock V dropped after her main halyard had broken, according to Edward P. Therien, harbormaster.

Captain Therien, practically the only nautical expert left ashore, said that although under the rules Enterprise would be declared the winner, the recommendation of the winning skipper as to whether the race should be declared "no contest" or recorded as sailed, generally was considered by the committee before making an official decision.

The harbormaster said Vanderbilt was required to sail out the course unless prevented by accident from so doing, but he was sure Enterprise's commander would insist the race be sailed over again.

There was discussion as to whether the committee would consider wiping the race from the books, as in 1920 Shamrock IV won the first race under similar conditions and was declared the winner despite Sir Thomas Lipton's protest that "Lipton does not like to win races that way."

The rules state only that an "unfinished race," by inference meaning a contest not completed under the five and one-half hours' limit, must be sailed over. No mention is made of the decision to be rendered if one boat is disabled during the contest.

(By Tom Morgan—By Radio to the Associated Press

U.S.S. Kane, off America's Cup Course, Sept. 17.—The third race of the series for the America's Cup to-day ended disastrously for Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger, three-quarters of an hour after the start.

Footing it along on even terms with Enterprise, the defender, Shamrock, lost her mainsail, which billowed down, half on her deck and half in the water. She immediately lost way and came about. The main halyard, holding the big wing to the masthead, had parted.

Enterprise started to come around when the mishap to Shamrock occurred, but then turned back on the course, apparently determined to sail out the race and claim the victory, even though it should be a walkover.

The tug Susan A. Moran, carrying the race committee, steamed over to the disabled Shamrock, as did the Erin, Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht.

The challenger's crew, however, hauled in the big sail alone and Capt. Ned Heard then turned his sloop toward the starting line, running ahead of the wind only under her head sails.

The rest of the big spectator fleet stayed close by for a few minutes and then set off after Enterprise, footing it away for the fifteen-mile mark.

ALL SURPRISED

The mishap came so unexpectedly it took everyone by surprise, especially this press boat.

Attention on the Kane was centred on a bobbing case in the water, which as it drifted past was identified as a case of Scotch whisky, or perhaps a case that had held Scotch whisky.

Up to the time of the mishap, Shamrock had given the best performance of the series, and had shown every indication of making a real battle of to-day's contest.

She had the better of the start, going across almost bow to bow with the defender, but in the windward berth, which gave her a large advantage.

To this light margin she had clung with grim determination until the accident to her rigging. Enterprise was creeping up, however, and it appeared only a matter of minutes and miles until she would take the commanding position.

BIG MARGIN

It was not believed the accident to Shamrock was serious enough to require extensive repairs, but with to-day's race gone she had a staggering margin to overcome. Enterprise would need only one more victory after to-day to clinch the cup.

After a conference with Sir Thomas on the deck of the nearby Erin, Skipper Ned Heard turned Shamrock's bow and set out after the distant Enterprise. She was making such slow progress under only her head sails, however, that she soon gave up the futile chase and was taken in tow by a small power boat.

An official announcement from the committee boat said Shamrock had parted her main halyard. The committee said it could not be determined immediately whether the challenger would be able to race to-morrow.

BRISK SAILING BREEZE

There was a piping breeze as the yachts prepared for the start this morning. Between 7 and 8 o'clock it was blowing at twelve knots.

The race committee hoisted the course signal at 10.15, instructing the boats to sail the first fifteen-mile leg west, southwest, or almost directly into the wind, with a run home in prospect.

JOCKEY AT START

With the start of the race, scheduled for 10.40, but a few minutes away both Enterprise and the challenger were jockeying about the starting line, each attempting to get into an advantageous position.

Shamrock's bow was in a smother of spray and she was taking water along her lee rail. Enterprise kept her head up, seeming to have greater buoyancy forward.

The ten-minute warning signal was sounded at 10.30 by the steam whistle of the committee tugboat.

CLOSE MANOEUVRING

Both Enterprise and Shamrock came down on the starting line more than a minute before the starting signal sounded at 10.40, and it appeared for a time that one or both might cross it prematurely and have to go back.

Both skippers had gauged the time to a nicety, and although both had to round down the line a considerable distance, the helms of both went over almost simultaneously with the starting whistle and they crossed the line bow to bow.

OUTFOXED VANDERBILT

Shamrock's skipper had outfoxed Vanderbilt, noted for his starts, and for the first time since the series opened the green sloop was in the weather berth and footing along as fast as the defender.

Captain Ned Heard had sent Shamrock across the line with the best handling she had received so far in the races.

Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt, amateur skipper of Enterprise, went over on the port tack two minutes after the start in an apparent effort to shake off Shamrock, but the British boat quickly followed.

Shamrock was off to weather and apparently in the lead by a slight margin.

At 11 o'clock the initial advantage of Shamrock was largely overcome as Vanderbilt worked the white boat up to weather of Shamrock, and about two boat lengths back, too close for Shamrock to cross his bow.

IMPROVES POSITION

Enterprise improved her position with every minute, and it seemed only a question of time until Vanderbilt would drive her past Shamrock.

Forty minutes after the start, Enterprise had worked so far to windward that Shamrock could not possibly cross her bow. Vanderbilt had virtually taken command of the situation.

The United States sloop, although pointing higher into the wind than Shamrock, seemed to be footing faster and riding the seas easier than the challenger.

RECALLS 1920 ACCIDENT

When the accident overtook Shamrock the mainsail fell partly on the deck, enveloping the crew, the rest of it dragging in the water.

The accident to Shamrock was similar to that which befell Resolute, United States defender, in the 1929 series.

FASTEST TIME

To-day's time was almost seven minutes faster than Enterprise's winning time in the other two races.

Enterprise won the first day in light airs on the same course as to-day in four hours three minutes and forty-eight seconds. Monday she won the second race around a thirty-mile triangular course in four hours forty-four seconds.

To-day's sailing conditions were much the best of the series and it is probable that had Shamrock continued in the race the time would have been much faster. Commodore Harold S. Vanderbilt sailed it out as though it were a race, but he doused his spinnaker long before the finish line was reached and practically coasted in. With Shamrock pushing him, as she was doing when the mishap to her occurred, he probably would have carried a full dress of sails right to the finish.

RESULT TO STAND

There was no doubt about the press boat that the result of to-day's race would stand.

Vanderbilt always plays the game right up to the hilt as was instanced by his winning by protest on two elimination races.

The race committee was aboard the official tug. Heading for Newport and could not be reached for some time, but it was felt they had no alternative under the rules except to award the race to Enterprise.

TELLS FARMERS TO CULTIVATE INTENSIVELY

tion I fail to see how they can continue very much longer."

His colleagues, he said, were impressed with the vast size of the prairie farms, but considered it would be wiser to farm fewer acres more intensively. "It has been my observation that the small farm usually yields greater proportionately than the very large farm," Mr. Marchbank said.

Canadian agricultural colleges and experimental farms, he noticed, were doing great work in the development of new varieties of crops and in fostering prevention and cure of cereal diseases, but he thought it would be advisable for these institutions to devote more effort to developmnt of cheaper fertilizers.

The party, which is spending to-day under the direction of the Department of Agriculture, returns to Vancouver to-morrow.

On Saturday the visitors leave for Chilliwack, the Dominion Experimental Farm at Agassiz and Harrison Hot Springs.

C. W. Atkin, assistant general agricultural agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, is accompanying the party.

Shanghai, Sept. 17.—Hundreds have died of Bubonic plague which has broken out in Northern Manchuria, according to information received here by the Indo-Pacific-Agency.

SESSION AT OTTAWA MAY END SATURDAY

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Prorogation of Parliament on Saturday is generally expected. The $20,000,000 unemployment relief bill has received third reading in the Commons. The measure amending the Customs Act in respect to dumping came up for final reading in the House this afternoon, and it is believed the tariff bill will be enacted by the end of the week.

for ending unemployment," continued the leader of the opposition. "We expect the government to carry out its promise or abide by the consequences of failure to do so."

But the Prime Minister must take upon his shoulders the responsibility of having introduced amendments to the customs tariff which were to be "railroaded" through Parliament, Mr. King declared.

"May I say further," he continued, "that I wish to protest strongly against the little opportunity afforded at the present time to discuss intelligently these amendments or to have the country gain any real appreciation of their significance."

NO PRINTED LISTS

Mr. Bennett had told the house the members would have placed before them what the existing tariff was, and could therefore make comparisons. When the former Minister of Finance introduced his budget it contained many important changes in the tariff, and these were printed in parallel columns, which showed the present and the new rates. That had not been done in this instance. The Prime Minister had stated he would have liked to have it done, but that he had been too busy with by-elections and had thus no opportunity to arrange things.

"I said 'since the by-election,'" interjected the Prime Minister.

But that, observed Mr. King, did not involve the Prime Minister's time. All he had to do was to give instructions to an officer of the department and the parallel columns would have been ready. The reason the arrangement was not made was that members should find it as difficult as possible to get the full significance of the changes made.

MORE TIME NEEDED

He wished to protest, the opposition leader stated, against the nature and extent of the changes made in the tariff, and said it was impossible for members to have examined into the extent of the changes since the tabling of the tariff resolutions in the House yesterday.

The Minister of National Revenue (Mr. Ryckman), Mr. King said, referring to the amendments to the Customs Act respecting dumping, was being given "autocratic power" and placed in a position to hold the "big stick" over those who must import foreign goods.

Countervailing duties, he said, had been removed and replaced by higher duties. There had been an increase in stoneware with regard to the British preference from 20 to 25 per cent and an increase in the general tariff.

COURTESY LACKING

The Government, Mr. King stated, was seeking expedition in the House so that the members of it could go to the Imperial Conference. "Common decency and courtesy alone," he declared, "would demand that any changes in the tariff against goods coming from other parts of the British Empire might be left over until after the Imperial Conference."

Duties on farm machinery, he said, had been increased tremendously, in some cases as much as 250 per cent.

I wish to protest, said the former Premier, against the manner in which these changes have been brought about against the Star Chamber methods which have been used in increasing the tariff.

CUSTOMS BILL PASSED

Ottawa, Sept. 17. — The bill to amend the Customs Act with respect to dumping was given third reading in the House of Commons this afternoon without a division.

Preceding the debate on third reading, which had been opened by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, Winnipeg, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, announced that last year approximately 157,780 tons of Russian coal was imported into this country. There were no importations of pulp or lumber, although there were some shipments which passed through the country in transit of United States points.

Mr. Woodsworth, in resuming the debate, protested against what he believed to be an attempt on the part of the government to "rush through the house," a measure that should be carefully studied both by the House and by the public before it was dealt with. There should be time given to the public for an expression of opinion on such a "reactionary measure."

The Prime Minister had stated he would remain in Canada rather than go to the Imperial Conference if the present session was not ended in time to enable him to attend. It might be possible, said Mr. Woodswtrth, that the Imperial Conference could get along without Mr. Bennett.

RIGHT IS VIOLATED

He did not agree with those who though the people "should take their medicine," for once this legislation was on the statute books it would be difficult to get it off again. The government was violating the right of Parliament to protest against taxation.

The west, Mr. Woodsworth said, wanted cheap food, clothing and implements of production.

AUSTRALIAN FLIER KILLED

Sydney, N.S.W., Sept. 17.—David Smith, one of the Australian airmen who made an unsuccessful attempt to fly to England in April, was killed today when his machine hurtled earthward after the engine had failed at an altitude of 150 feet.

FLIN FLON NOW NEARING STAGE FOR PRODUCTION

Entering on the final stretch toward full production, the various plants of the Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company are being tuned up in an effort to have everything running smoothly by the time the smelter is ready to receive the concentrates from the mill. The latter is continuing its work of treating the copper ore and is running at the rate of about 500 tons daily with the concentrates being stored in the meantime. When total production is attained the plant will be putting out 3,000 tons daily, amounting to some 50,000,000 pounds of copper and 30,000,000 pounds of zinc annually.

The latest statement of the company on the progress of all phases of construction is as follows:

"The mill is entirely completed. The cyanide plant for the recovery of the gold and silver values in the ore is completed and was scheduled to go into operation about September 8. The central power substation and substation for the electrolytic plant are completed. The tank room in the electrolytic zinc plant is sixty per cent finished and will go into operation about the middle of September. All electrical connections both to the tank room and to zinc roasters are made. The zinc Cottrell plant is ninety-six per cent ready and was available on September 5. The zinc stack in the smelter is built and all the flues are finished. The electricians are now making the connections to the leaching plant which were to go into operation September 6 or 7.

"Elsewhere in the smelter, the following have reached the stage of completion: coal pulverizing plant, reverberatory furnace, copper stack bedding bins. One of the three copper roasters is complete and the other two were expected to be finished by September 15. The conveyors to the copper roasters were expected to be ready September 5. Power is not yet connected to the copper smelter.

"Completion of the waste heat boilers was expected by September 15. In the convertor plant the steel has been erected but rivetting is not finished yet. Power lines to the copper convertor have not yet been set up. There has been some delay to the delivery of the balloon flues and they will probably not be in place until about October 10. The motor generator and the blower in the power house are installed but not yet connected.

"It may thus be seen that by the beginning of next week most of the work will be completed and in a very short time general production will only be awaiting the final work to be done on the smelter."

Mr. Beatty holds the opinion business is on the upgrade. The movement of wheat, he said, had improved railway earnings and if it should continue during the fall months' earnings would be much more encouraging.

PEACE RIVER GROWTH

Asked regarding the Peace River district, the Canadian Pacific chief replied he had visited that country on the way to the coast with his party, and was greatly impressed with the rapid development being made in that area, where increased crops were in evidence.

"Every trip the directors and myself take to the Peace River confirms our favorable impression, and the possibilities of that district," he said.

In relation to giving the Peace River district railway connection with this coast, Mr. Beatty said surveys had been conducted during the last summer by four parties, and when their reports were received, an announcement would be made by the railways and the Federal authorities as to construction.

"It is, I think, a fact that the Canadian Pacific has spent more money in investigating the possibilities of the Peace River district itself, and in railway projects for it, than any other agency in Canada," he said.

HOTEL VANCOUVER

The president was sounded on the question of whether the Canadian Pacific proposed immediate additions to the Hotel Vancouver.

He replied: "No immediate changes in the Hotel Vancouver building are contemplated, it being our opinion the present hostelry will suffice until extensive alterations become necessary."

THE PARTY

A distinguished group of Canadians is traveling with the Canadian Pacific Railway president, it includes Sir Arthur Currie, principal McGill University; Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada; Sir Charles Gordon, president of the Bank of Montreal; Beaudry Leman, president of the Banque Canadienne Nationale; R. S. McLaughlin, president of General Motors of Canada; W. A. Black, president of the Ogilvie Flour Mills; Senator Smeaton White of Montreal, and Dr. C. C. Chipman of McGill University.

Following the Vancouver Island trip, the party plans to return to Vancouver September 25, and leave for the east over the Kettle Valley Line, visiting Trail and Nelson.

Mr. Beatty is to address the Victoria Canadian Club next Tuesday.

Warner Bros.' Stock Goes Up One Point

With the expiration of the rights to subscribe to new Warner Bros. stock in the ratio of one-to-four yesterday, the stock gained more than a point, despite the general market weakness. Strength in the issue appears based on relief from pressure of sal for the account of holders who did not care to subscribe to new shares. Latest reports from the trade indicate that the management has put into effect a retrenchment programme whereby its theatre chain has been reduced through abandonment of negotiations for various houses throughout the country, to about 500 actively operated houses. Furthermore, production economies have been put into effect so that the new fiscal year beginning September 1 is expected to see much improved financial results over the period of sharply reduced earnings which set in last May.

Buenos Aires, Sept. 17.—Ex-President Hipolito Irigoyen, through his nephew, Luis Rodriguez, yesterday appealed to his party adherents in Argentina to accept the new provisional government of President Jose Francisco Uriburu.

MEAT TO COST MORE

Meat prices would go up but not much, a leading butcher thought. Except for New Zealand lamb and New Zealand mutton importations were not so heavy as to send prices climbing, but the consumer must be prepared for some increase as long as there were importations of meat at all.

Produce dealers were able to say little about the increased duty on fruit and vegetables. The duty now was on the value of the product regardless of the price to the Canadian dealers, and these prices had been pretty well established so that the price was the same as the locally-grown product and no dumping duty was necessary.

HAVE TO CHARGE MORE

"If the duty goes up on boots and shoes those people who buy imported boots and shoes will have to pay more for them, and that is all there is to it," said a shoe dealer tersely. "It is a case of the customer paying more for what he wants or else changing his wants. Our business is to give them what they want and a lot of them want imported shoes. It looks as if we shall have to charge them more. British-made shoes, in this city particularly, are in big demand. It looks as if the customer will have to pay more for them."

Drygoods merchants voice similar views regarding the higher duty on silk yarns, silk, clothing, knitted and cotton goods, socks and stockings under all tariffs. "An increase in the duty has always been passed along to us and, of course, we in turn have to pass it along to the consumer, or at the best divide it with him," one merchant said.

Motor dealers in British Columbia naturally view with alarm any prospect of a further tax that may send gasoline prices up," said a dealer, referring to the change providing that gasoline may be struck off the free list. "With the road tax recently increased by the Provincial Government and licenses high British Columbia motorists are now paying an enormous amount for the right to drive a car compared to the people in the United States. Any added burden will be a blow at the industry. Fortunately, however, only a small percentage of gasoline is imported to British Columbia as it has its own refineries to refine the crude oil. I do not know how other provinces of Canada will be affected."

Bond Interest on Savings

Bonds are the ideal investment for those with savings of $500 to $1,000. Interest yield is high at this time. Safety of principal is assured and they are readily converted into cash should the need for funds arise unexpectedly.

CHAPTER X

Jerry was certain that there was an ominous tone in Dan's words—something more than merely a desire to assure Alester of her safety.

Why should Alester worry? He could bring her ashore himself. What, then, was Dan trying to convey? That she needed protection? He had made that pretty plain.

Jerry answered him with a flare of temper.

What is there to be afraid of, the dark?"

"Well, there's . . . deep water," Dan answered slowly.

Jerry turned her back on him.

He had a lot of business appointing himself for her personal guardian, she thought. And he wouldn't talk sense.

Deep water!

What had deep water to do with there being someone waiting for her after the sail?

And she would have to tell Alester that Dan had been there. If she didn't, Dan would. She was sure of that.

She reached that water's edge just as the small boat that had put off for her came sliding up on the smooth sands. A man in a white uniform helped her aboard in a respectful silence. A last glance at the house showed Dan again on the steps, looking as immovable as the Rock of Gibraltar.

"Darn him," Jerry thought peevishly; "he's going to jam up everything."

And that was the consensus of all the opinions she formed of him during the remainder of her vacation. He was there, on the steps, when she returned from sailing—sailing on moon-washed water under white, wind-spanked sails.

She knew nothing of nautical terms and paid little attention to the orders that Alester barked to the man who had gone ashore for her in the tender. It was enough for Jerry to thrill to the exhilaration of taking the wind in her face and seeming to glide over the water in a vessel without propulsion.

There had been a queer moment at the start when Alester had reversed an order given only a moment before. Jerry distinctly heard him tell the sailor to row ashore and come out again when he brought The Sprite back. Just then Alester's eyes had fallen upon the figure on the porch steps.

"Who is that?" he asked sharply, turning to Jerry.

"It's Mr. Harvey," she said. "He's taking care of the camp while Myrtle and I are away."

"Here," Alester called to the sailor who was about to shove off, "throw me the painter and come aboard."

Jerry could not understand why he changed his mind about having the thought it advisable to have the camp guarded—after all, those were mostly his things in the house.

But it wasn't convincing, the idea of associating caution with Alester Carstairs. Jerry gave it up. She told herself that she would have a fine time indeed if she attempted to analyze everyone's motives.

It was difficult not to try it, however, for Dan gave her many occasions upon which to question his conduct, and Alester became something of an enigma to her before she moved back to the city.

Dan was always underfoot and Jerry wondered what Alester thought of it. But she soon came to understand why he would tolerate much from Dan Harvey that he did not like. Dan, Jerry learned, was famous as a pilot. He had been engaged to teach Alester to fly. It became plain, even to Jerry, that the progress of the lessons was slow. And before long she discovered that Alester was afraid Dan would give up the job.

This explained only Alester's attitude towards Dan, however. It did not explain Dan's attitude, or Alester's, toward herself, Jerry realized. She knew Alester loved her.

He had told her so one night when Myrtle was out with George and she was alone with him. Dan had been called to town on some important business else he'd have been there, too, she was certain.

They were occupying the swinging hammock Alester had sent over from Carmoor. Myrtle and George got out of sight before Alester took Jerry in his arms and kissed her.

She lay passive and unresisting in his embrace. There was a warmth, a meaning in it that told Jerry it was a climax in their romance. He must tell her that he loved her.

He did. He poured his heart out, but it must have been a very small heart for he stopped short of saying words of any real importance to Jerry.

There was something else he started to say but he did not get far. At the first words Jerry tore herself away from him and ran to the other end of the porch.

"Come on back," he called. "Jerry, please. I didn't mean that. I love you. Dear, you know that."

Alester came over to her.

"Jerry, don't be afraid of me," he said.

Jerry avoided his eyes.

"Oh, my lord," he cried and crushed her to him in an instant. "Why don't you love me, Jerry? I'm mad about you!"

Jerry tried to push him away. He would not release her. Jerry thought, frantically, that he might let her go if she returned his kisses.

She turned her face slightly . . . no, no, she couldn't, she didn't want to kiss him. She had thought of marrying this man and yet she could not further this aim by giving him kisses that were not inspired by affection. If she'd loved him . . . but she would never love anyone . . . she couldn't.

"Let me go," she sobbed. "Alester, let me go."

Perhaps he knew that conquest was remote; the knowledge may have cooled his ardor. At any rate he loosed his hold and Jerry slipped away from his arms to disappear into the house.

She came to the door a few minutes later when she heard his retreating footsteps. Now she had lost him. Her golden chance had gone glimmering because she could not take the first step toward surrender.

Surely he knew that she would have yielded her kisses had she loved him. What man would want to marry a girl who resisted his caresses? She knew this much from talks with other girls—there was the kiss and then the proposal.

Myrtle found her in her cot and thought she was asleep, but Jerry lay awake far into the night thinking of the disaster that had befallen her ambition. She saw, through a vision cleared by experience, that she could not hunt out a man of wealth and parade her beauty before him as a fisherman uses his net to catch a fish.

She'd have said yes if Alester had asked her to marry him. Why, oh why, hadn't she thought before it was too late of all the things that she wanted money for?

She didn't expect Alester to return, but he did. Nothing seemed to have happened. He told her again that he loved her—told her many times, until Jerry believed it. But he said nothing more beyond that. He gave her no hint of what his love meant.

Jerry was puzzled.

BRIDGE

By WM. E. McKENNY, Secretary, American Bridge League

A year ago the great masses of bridge players were wondering if contract bridge would establish itself throughout the country. The popularity of this new form of whist has increased so steadily that to-day there is just as much contract played in this country as auction—if not more.

The first question that arises in the mind of a contract player is "Why do they not standardize the numerous conventions?" This, of course, will not be possible as long as we have a number of recognized experts—each one whom has his certain following and naturally believes that his system is the best.

Personally the writer does not believe there is any more confusion in contract to-day than there is in the present game of auction. There are thousands of bridge players who really never understood auction, and when they started playing contract, their mistakes were greatly magnified.

The basic difference between auction and contract is that in contract you are required to bid for games and slams, and of course this can only be correctly accomplished when the combined twenty-six cards of partners will produce it.

The theories of all of the leading experts in the country to-day are fundamentally based on one of the following three systems:

The arbitrary convention system—perhaps best known as the club convention or the minor suit convention.

The quantitative showing of tricks—that is partners are required to show the full number of probable tricks held in their hands by each of their bids.

A thorough knowledge of any of the above systems will generally enable partners to arrive at the correct declaration. Contract players must begin to realize the necessity of the use of some system in order to become successful players. As one of the leading experts of the east says, "In auction we bid against our opponents, while in contract we must bid for our partner."

The Championship Tournament of the American Bridge League, which will be held in Cleveland, O., the week of December 1, will bring together the greatest assembly of bridge experts in the country, and from the melting pot of their opinions bidding conventions of contract may become more standardized.

In the daily columns of this newspaper, besides giving example hands showing correct leads, plays and proper bidding, interesting hands from various tournaments will be shown and we sincerely trust that these hands will assist our readers in improving their game.

If you attend a weekly bridge party, let me suggest that you clip the hands for the week, take six different decks of cards, lay out the hands and then at your bridge party have the various players bid and play these hands, following which they may compare their results with those given in the articles. During your regular play, you will be surprised to note how many times the different points that are brought out in each article will arise.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Post Hole

(Copyright, 1930).

By HOWARD R. GARIS

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear! Look! Look what has happened!" screamed Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning as she pointed her tail at something in the yard back of Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow. "Just look"

The tail of the muskrat lady housekeeper shook and trembled. Nurse Jane couldn't point with either of her paws because she was walking on her hind ones and in her front paws she carried some of the breakfast dishes which she had just given a bath. So she had to point with her tail.

"Whatever is the matter?" asked Mrs. Longears, coming in from having sent the last of her little bunny children off to school.

"Are any of the Bad Chaps in my yard?" asked Uncle Wiggily, who was just getting ready to hop off and look for an adventure.

"No Bad Chaps, thank goodness!" squeaked Nurse Jane. "But it is worse! Look! That clothes post has fallen down, taking the line with it, and all the clothes I washed so clean are down in the dirt! Oh, dear!"

"Well! Well!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "That's too bad!"

It was true enough. One of the clothes posts, to which the line had been fastened, had toppled over and the line, sheets, pillow cases, and some of the nice dresses of the girl rabbits were down in the dirt.

"That pole was so rotten I guess the wind blew on it and broke it off like an old tree," said Uncle Wiggily.

"No," spoke Nurse Jane, "the pole isn't rotten. But the hole in the ground got so big, from the children wiggling the post by climbing it, that it wouldn't keep the post standing up straight any more. So it fell over. What you must do, Uncle Wiggily, if you will be so kind, is to dig another post hole and put the old post in the new hole making it fast so it will stand up straight."

"I'll do that!" promised the rabbit gentleman. "Before I go to look for an adventure I will dig the hole for the clothes post."

"And while you are doing that," said Nurse Jane, "I will pick up the clothes that fell in the dirt and wash them clean."

"It's too bad you can't go look for an adventure," remarked Mrs. Longears. "Are you sure you don't mind staying here and digging a post hole, Wiggy?"

"I shall be very glad to do it," said Mr. Longears. "And, who knows but what I may have an adventure right here?"

He did, and a very queer one it was. I shall tell you about it.

After the excitement, caused when Nurse Jane screamed as she saw the old clothes post falling out of its hole in the ground, Uncle Wiggily set to work to make a new hole in a part of the yard where the earth was more firm so it would hold up the big stick of wood.

With a sand shovel belonging to Baby Bunty, which that little orphan rabbit had brought back from the seashore with her, Mr. Longears began to dig. Down, down, down into soft brown earth he dug, making the round hole deeper and deeper. When it was deep enough the rabbit would slide the post into it and then stamp the earth down all around it to hold it firm.

"A little deeper and I shall be finished," said Uncle Wiggily to himself as he stretched out on his stomach and reached his paw, holding the shovel, far down into the hole to scoop out a bit more dirt.

All of a sudden, as Uncle Wiggily had his face close to his post hole, he felt some one tapping him on his back. He bent up quickly to see the Bob Cat sitting beside him and grinning.

"Oh!" said the rabbit.

"Oh! Oh!" mewed the Bob Cat. "Well, I've caught you!"

"So it seems," spoke the rabbit. "What—what are you going to do?"

"Nibble you!" snarled the Bob Cat.

"Oh!" said Uncle Wiggily again. "But would you mind waiting, about nibbling me, until I finish digging this clothes post hole for Nurse Jane? She wants to hang up the clothes. I want to dig the hole a bit deeper, if you please."

"It's deep enough!" snarled the Bob Cat.

"Begging your pardon for contradicting you," spoke Uncle Wiggily politely, "but it isn't deep enough."

"It is!" growled the Bob Cat.

The silly Bob Cat leaned over and looked down the hole that Uncle Wiggily had dug. And then, all of a sudden, seeing his chance, Mr. Longears gave the Bob Cat's head a push and down it went into the hole. Right into the post hole slid the Bad Chap and only his hind legs and silly tail stuck out. And Nurse Jane, coming along just then with a pillow case, clapped it, like a bag, over the Bob Cat's hind legs sticking out of the hole and held him tight so he couldn't scratch.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "A good trick and a fine adventure!"

Then the Police Dog came and pulled the Bob Cat out of the post hole and took him to jail, which was best for everybody. And if the knife and fork will stop cutting up around the dinner plate, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's fly paper.

Horoscope

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1930

Kindly stars rule to-day, according to astrology. It is a sway especially helpful to literary men and women.

There is a sign supposed to be auspicious for dealing with writers, who are to have an autumn season of great good fortune.

Contracts signed under this planetary direction should bring profit, astrologers declare.

Actors and actresses should benefit under this rule, which presages success for new plays of real excellence.

In the early morning hours those in search of employment should be successful. Girls appear to be especially fortunate under this sway.

Gain in prestige for men in high places is foretold. For the strong added strength, political or financial, is indicated.

This is a lucky sway for suitors, and the seers declare that many engagements and marriages will mark the late autumn.

All who marry under this planetary government should be lucky, since real comradeship is foretold.

Sensational robberies are prognosticated for both London and New York. Crime will organize as never before, the seers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year. It is wise not to change employment, but to develop established programme of work.

Children born on this day probably will be fine executives who use their brains to serious intent. The subjects of this sign usually are clever in writing and speaking.

BROADCAST HEADLINERS

The nightly "Sunset Hour" of fine music will be presented for music lovers at 6.15 o'clock this evening. At approximately 7.25 o'clock the weekly "radiotorial" over CFCT will be announced, and will tell of "The Effects of Weather on Business." A thirty-minutes programme of popular music will follow, and then at 8 o'clock the "Barnstormers" will be presented in sixty minutes of old-time favorites. Eileen Bennett will be the soloist during this hour. CFCT is now on the air "all morning, every morning."

You can now listen to CFCT all morning.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect.

Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkgs.

Veteran Vancouver Bowler Passes Away

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—One of the pioneers of lawn bowling in British Columbia, Alex. (Sandy) Meston, died suddenly at his home here Monday night. He had just returned from playing on the greens of the Vancouver Lawn Bowling Club, of which he was a member and past president.

Mr. Meston was born in Banchory, Scotland, sixty-seven years ago, and had resided in Vancouver for twenty years.

Stomach Troubles Are Due to Acidity

Tells of Pleasant Home Treatment to Bring Swift Relief

So-called Stomach Troubles—indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, sourness, etc., are, in probably nine cases out of ten, evidence of "too much acid in the stomach" souring the food, causing the formation of gas and starting acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes a full, oppressive burning feeling known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining. Get rid of Gas and Acidity, and you get rid of Indigestion.

To stop or prevent the sourness and gas, to neutralize the stomach acids and keep the stomach sweet and free from Indigestion, a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia should be taken in a little water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, pain or acidity is felt. This quickly sweetens the stomach, neutralizes the acidity, stops the pain and is harmless and inexpensive to use.

Bisurated Magnesia, powder or tablets only, can be obtained from any drug store and its daily use keeps the stomach in fine condition, enabling it to do its work without the aid of artificial digestants. (Advt.)

The Absolutely "Low-Down" on Managing Women

What the Successful Family Man Should Say to the Youthful Benedict the Night Before the Wedding—Flattery and Judicious Handling of Truth Are the Keynotes

THE WORLD doesn't play fair with a man about matrimony. When a girl is about to take the fatal step her mother and her married sisters and her aunts and her cousins and all of her female friends who have husbands take her aside and have heart-to-heart talks with her about how to manage a husband.

Men have no such matrimonial protective unions. There is no freemasonry among benedicts, and if any husband ever finds out how to manage a wife, he meanly keeps the secret of how to turn the trick locked within his own bosom. No kindly, benevolent, bald-headed gentleman ever gives the trembling bridegroom a pointer about how to avoid the snags in a wife's disposition. Yet there is so much that he might say that would be helpful. There are so many ways to head off hysterics if the young husband only knew how; so many times when he might run up a lightning rod that would deflect his wife's temper from his poor head if only he had been taught how to do it.

Now, the man who has been married twenty or thirty years from the depths of his own experience might well say to the bridegroom-elect: "Son, never get married until you have kissed the blarney stone. Flattering a woman before marriage is a matter of inclination. Flattering one after you marry her is a matter of necessity and personal safety. Matrimony is no place for candor. It is a field for diplomacy.

"Never criticize your wife's faults, for to tell her of her mistakes means that you will have to dry her tears with greenbacks. To remark that her new gown is a nightmare and her hat a millinery horror means that you will receive bills for new ones. To accuse her of being high-tempered is only to precipitate the storm you dread. But if you will enthuse over how girlish her old frock makes her look she will wear it until it is in tatters, and if you descant upon her marvelous self-control and angelic disposition she will bite her tongue off rather than say the sharp words that rise to her lips.

"If you marry an adorable being who is incurably addicted to marked-down bargain sales, it is folly to argue with her on the matter and point out that things she doesn't want and has no use for are not cheap at any price. But if you view her purchases with a contemptuous air and remark that they look common and that you wonder that a woman of her exquisite sensibility wants things that everybody else has, you will put a crimp in her extravagance. For the only cure for the bargain habit is to inoculate a woman with the idea of being exclusive.

"If, son, you have drawn a human phonograph in the matrimonial lottery you can't stop it by trying to talk it down, for men lack swiftness and staying powers and cannot compete with women on the monologue platform. But you can gain peace and quiet at home by telling your wife that when her face is in repose it has an irresistible Mona Lisa expression and, as a result, she will be afraid to open her mouth lest she should break up the pose.

"If, son, you wish to fare sumptuously every day, never knock your wife's housekeeping or make invidious comparisons between it and your mother's. But, on the contrary, be forever praising her domesticity and openly congratulate yourself upon having married the only woman who combines the attractions of Venus and Minerva and Mary Ann. Even when the steak is leather and the bread a cinder, don't complain. Merely remark that the meal isn't up to her usual standard of perfection and she will make a burnt offering of herself on the kitchen stove trying to live up to your ideal of her.

"If your wife is mad about society and gadding about, son, there is no use in preaching to her that a woman's place is in the home. But if you will inquire of her three or four times in succession whether she thinks that some woman who is younger and slimmer and prettier than she is is likely to be at such and such a party she will decide that, after all, there is nothing so satisfying as a quiet evening at your own fireside.

"If you want your wife to be thrifty and a helpmeet to you, son, don't bait her about her extravagance and dole out nickels to her. No woman ever economizes because her husband growls over the bills and she has to chloroform him before she can get a dollar out of him. Instead she revenges herself for grudgingly given movie money by going downtown and having a Paris hat charged to her account.

"But if you will make her a junior partner and make her feel that your success depends upon how she manages her end of the business she will become a nickel nurser and cheerfully make over her old frock three times and skimp the butcher's bill. If you want your wife to be a companions to you, son, talk to her about the things you are really interested in. Encourage her in reading. Make her keep up her accomplishments. Make her keep step with you. Don't let her slump when the first baby comes and thereafter be nothing but a housekeeper and a mother.

"Then when you get middle-aged you won't be bored to death with a wife who knows nothing and has no other interest outside of her four walls. It is because so many men treat their wives as doll babies or domestic conveniences or the children's mother that there are so many married men wandering around looking for affinities.

"Don't sink the lover in the husband, son, and you can wrap your wife around your finger. Don't economize on expressions of affection or stint your wife in praise and you may do as you will in your home without friction or argument. Believe me, son, it is no trick to manage a wife. It is just a matter of judiciously applying the salve."

So any old married man might tell a prospective bridegroom and thereby prevent many a divorce.

DAILY HEALTH SERVICE

Science Is Now Convinced That Diphtheria Is Preventable Through Immunization

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

With the opening of the schools the hazard of diphtheria increases.

Scientific investigators are convinced that diphthera is a preventable disease through the use of the Schick test and of toxin-antitoxin. They are convinced that deaths from diphtheria, even when it is acquired through contagion, may be largely prevented if good anti-toxin is given early and in sufficient amounts. Nevertheless the disease continues to occur with startling regularity and deaths are reported each year from every state.

Last year in Iowa there were thirty-four deaths from this cause. "The number thirty-four does not mean much in itself," says the epidemiologist, "and the one is not very much unless it is your child."

During the first six months of 1930 there were ten more deaths than for the corresponding period of 1929. Twelve out of every 100 cases were fatal, which was an increase in the fatality rate, since 8.5 cases out of 100 died in 1929. The virulence of diphtheria varies from season to season.

According to the records of the Iowa State Department of Health, about 400,000 children in Iowa have received toxin-antitoxin. However, 42,500 new babies are born each year, and it is necessary that they be immunized promptly if the prevention is to be of service.

The giving of toxin-antitoxin carries little, if any, danger. In New York City more than a million children were immunized without harmful results. The discomfort is slight and the protection well worth while.

Physicians recommend that toxin-antitoxin immunization be performed before the child is one year old. They therefore recommend that not only the school children, but even those of preschool age be given the benefit of immunization. Diphtheria takes the greatest toll among children who have not reached six years of age.

In many cities and towns immunization of children has been performed by health departments as a demonstration of what can be accomplished for the control of this disease. This demonstration has proved conclusively the value of the method. It now remains for every family to ask the family physician to take care of the individual child if this procedure has not already been accomplished through one of the demonstrations.

Special Trains Take B.C. Apples

Winnipeg, Sept. 17.—Comprising the largest one day movement of apples out of British Columbia this season, the Canadian Pacific Railway operated four special freight trains over the mountains yesterday.

This shipment of 113 carloads consists of McIntosh Red apples consigned to the Prairie Provinces and extends as far east as Kenora.

ZIEGFELD COMEDY STAR IS CAST IN ROLE AT COLUMBIA

Leon Errol's collapsible knee and great pantomimic talents have been brought to the screen in the all-star cast of "Paramount on Parade," the intimate and rollicking film festival which features at the Coliseum Theatre to-day. Errol emerged from obscurity into an overnight sensation in Ziegfeld's Follies back in 1910, and, since that time, he has become one of the institutions of the musical-comedy field.

CHANEY IMITATES PARROT CHATTER IN CAPITOL FILM

When is a parrot not a parrot?

The answer is a paraphrase of the famous Hollywood "Cockroach gag." For sometimes it may be Lon Chaney!

In "The Unholy Three," Chaney's first talking picture, which will close to-night at the Capitol Theatre, Chaney as a ventriloquist throws his voice into parrots, making them talk, and imitating the birds perfectly. In fact, he became so proficient that he practiced recording his imitations and then recording a parrot talking back, so that he developed a replica one couldn't tell from the real thing.

During the production Chaney used to fool Jack Conway, his director, by having the "birds" call Conway names—and getting by with it.

PHILLIPS HOLMES AT THE DOMINION WITH CYRIL MAUDE

With Paramount's renowned production of "The Devil's Holiday," starring Nancy Carroll, came the rise to fame of Phillips Holmes, son of Taylor Holmes, the veteran stage and screen player.

Young Holmes, in his role of the "boy from the wheat," who fell in love with Miss Carroll in the film, received the plaudits of the critics for his exceptional acting in the production.

As a result of this, Holmes was chosen to play the leading male romantic part in Cyril Maude's "Grumpy," the feature attraction at the Dominion Theatre for the last time to-day.

Holmes's new part is that of an Enlishman. However he was not bothered by the accent requirements of the role as he studied in England for five years, receiving part of his education at Trinity College.

RARE PHOTOGRAPHY MAKES MUSIC REVUE EXCEPTIONAL SHOW

With the wide scope and ready mobility possible with the motion picture camera, a new departure in the construction of settings for musical revue is witnessed in "Show of Shows," Warner Brothers' Vitaphone musical extravaganza in technicolor now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

The settings are constructed with greater depth and width than is possible on any known theatrical stage.

HILARIOUS COMEDY AMUSES AUDIENCES AT THE PLAYHOUSE

Merna Kennedy, co-star in "Skinner Steps Out," hilarious Universal farce-comedy now at the Playhouse Theatre, has been widely acclaimed by artists as one of the most distinctive beauties of the screen. Miss Kennedy's Titian hair and green eyes make her a beauty of an exceptional type. Glenn Tryon has the other co-starring role in "Skinner Steps Out." William James Craft directed the picture, which is based on one of Henry Irving Dodge's famous "Skinner" stories. Albert DeMond and Matt Taylor wrote the dialogue.

ELLALINE TERRISS AMONG PLAYERS IN GREAT OCEAN STORY

For more than three hours Miss Ellaline Terriss, who is fifty-seven years of age, sat knee-deep in cold water while a sound picture was being taken of the last moment of the liner Atlantic.

Every now and then explosions took place, rockets were fired and windows broken, hundreds of gallons of water were released through the windows of the ship to sweep in waves towards her. The scene is an incident in "Atlantic," directed by E. A. Dupont, for British International Pictures at Elstree, which will show at the Coliseum Theatre commencing Saturday of this week.

Grouped round Miss Terriss, who is the only woman in the scene, were about fifty men, including Franklin Dyall, who was propped up in an invalid chair; Monty Banks, and Donald Calthrop, all of whom had to remain in the water for hours.

JOHNNIE WALKER'S BEAUTIFUL VOICE IS HEARD IN FEATURE

Johnnie Walker, member of the supporting cast of "Ladies of Leisure," Columbia all-talking drama of New York night life showing at the Playhouse next week, has a beautiful lyric tenor voice which he takes on vaudeville tours every now and then. In "Ladies of Leisure" he appears with Barbara Stanwyck, Lowell Sherman and Ralph Graves. Frank Capra directed.

sacks. The best collection of three embroidered articles and three crochet articles was made by Mrs. C. H. Borden, while the novelty quilting prize went to Mrs. N. MacGillivray. The special prize donated by the Lake Hill Women's Institute for the best made man's shirt was won by Mrs. E. M. McCludoe, with Miss Alma Heyer second. All needlework came in for special commendation by Mrs. I. M. Abbott, the judge.

Often the most impressive vegetable at a fair is the corn-stalk, and these are piled at one end of the hall. They rise from the ground to a height of ten feet or more, and carry fine cobs of a beautiful gold. Giant objects always attract notice, and near to the corn are some huge marrows, which suggest careful cultivation.

The Indian Department is a feature. Artistically woven wicker baskets, gaudy woolen sweaters, carved Indian figure-heads, and typical Indian foodstuffs are shown.

A section is devoted to various plant diseases. Different kinds of vegetables, fruits and grains, which have become infected with death-dealing bacilli, are enclosed in glass cases, and the card attached to each case explains the name of the disease and its reaction on the leaves, seeds or flowers. Smaller test tubes are in reality the homes of bacilli, and it is quite remarkable to observe the manner in which these germs discolor a living organism.

PHOTOGRAPHS GOOD

The photography section, according to T. Waterworth, the judge, is exceptionally good. Most of the photographs depict rural scenes, such as farmsteads, harvest reaping, animals and landscapes, though there is a fine picture of the cathedral at Glasgow and various snaps of holiday scenes.

In the children's section, there is a real "atmosphere." In their crayon drawings the youngsters have taken as their subjects scenes from early colonial life and stirring events in British history. They have drawn the Indian warrior, the archer at Crecy, the crusader at Hastings, and have painted various local birds and flowers. There is a stockade constructed with wood and other material, which is a replica of the old fortifications the Canadian "seigneurs" made use of in their struggles with the Indians. There are physical maps of North America made with salt and flour, in which the salt represents the montain ranges and the flour the level terrain. There are examples of children's handwriting, where the exercise set is taken from the stirring lines about the stag in "The Lady of the Lake." The Saanich schools deserve credit for the section.

You will find the dial telephones easy to use

For the purpose of showing the public how to use the new dial telephones which will come into service in Victoria late this year, we have opened a downtown demonstration office at 620 Fort Street (opposite the Pemberton Building).

If you will visit us there, our demonstrators will be delighted to explain to you how the dial telephones are to be operated. In a glass case we have a model automatic telephone exchange which you may see at work.

We now have demonstrators going from house to house and from office to office, instructing our subscribers in the use of the dial telephone.

How To Lose 24 Pounds of Fat

At the Same Time Gain in Physical Vigor and Youthfulness and Swiftly Possess a Clear Skin and Vivacious Eyes That Sparkle With Health.

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings into blossom all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses.

Every morning take one-half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Be sure and do this every morning for "It's the daily dose that takes off the fat."—Don't miss a morning. Kruschen daily means that every particle of poisonous waste matter and harmful acids and gases are expelled from the system.

Modify your diet, and take gentle exercise. The stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels are tuned up, and the pure, fresh blood containing these six salts is carried to every part of the body, and this is followed by "that Kruschen feeling" of energetic health and activity that is reflected in bright eyes, clear skin, cheerful vivacity and charming figure. (Advt.)

This special way removes them

Film is found by dental research to play an important part in tooth decay.

WHAT causes decay? Germs. Germs with tartar are a contributory cause of many other dental troubles.

Germs on teeth—and there are millions of them—are difficult to reach. A dingy, glue-like film envelops them and holds them in contact with the teeth.

Film gets into crevices and remains. It clings so stubbornly that brushing alone cannot dislodge film completely. Pepsodent was developed after years of laboratory study and experiment to remove film gently and safely.

You will notice the difference by the way it feels the moment it touches your teeth.

Pepsodent removes film with complete safety to enamel. No pumice, no harmful grit, no crude abrasive. But a creamy paste so gentle that it is recommended for children's teeth. No other way, we believe, will bring the same results. Pepsodent is your best home protection.
